TOMORROW'S TELEPHONE

How we're thinking and planning ahead to bring you still better, more useful service

The telephone service you enjoy today would be almost unrecognizable to telephone men even a generation ago.

This new telephone handset allows us to use smaller wires to link telephones with the central office.

Another new development—automatic message accounting equipment—will keep tab on out-of-town calls dialed direct by telephone users.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains
