Two Traffic Accidents In City Blamed On Fog

Extreme fog last night made driving hazardous in Roseburg, and was indirectly responsible for two traffic accidents in the city. Two persons received minor injuries when a car ran into the rear of a parked log truck parked on East Second Ave. S. Treated for minor injuries were the driver, Sandra Means, 171 E. Pleasants Ave., and Yvonne Hartman, a passenger, of Rt. 2 Roseburg. The accident occurred about 9:40 p.m. Owner of the log truck was identified as D. E. Graves. In another accident an unidentified car sideswiped a parked car belonging to Dan Leland Barnes, 732 B. Ave., causing considerable damage to the left front fender. The damage was discovered by Barnes about 11 last night.

Korea Missionary To Speak Friday

A native Korean missionary and his wife, who escaped from Seoul just before that city was overrun by the Communists, will speak at the Church of the Nazarene at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Rev. Robert Chung, missionary for the Church of the Nazarene in Korea, and his wife are stopping here on a lecture tour of the United States. After escaping from Seoul in 1950 the Rev. Mr. Chung and his family ran to Pusan where they lived until they secured passage to this country. They lost all their possessions in Seoul. The missionary plans to give his Roseburg audience firsthand information about the struggle in Korea. Mrs. Chung will talk through her husband as an interpreter, as she does not speak English. Following graduation from Asbury College in 1925 the Rev. Mr. Chung returned to his native Korea to preach. For nearly 25 years he held tent meetings in most of the large cities of Korea and many in Manchuria. After affiliating with the Church of the Nazarene in 1948 he supervised nine main churches and several additional mission stations for that denomination. The meeting is open to the public.

Merged School Districts To Vote On 3 Proposals

Residents of the Dillard, Lookingglass and Tenmile school districts, which are now consolidated under Dillard District 116, will go to the polls Nov. 24 to decide on three measures pertaining to the consolidation. They will vote on: (1) Withdrawing from the non-high district and establishing a high school, (2) withdrawing from the rural school district, and (3) incurring a budget deficit of $3,000 to hire a superintendent. This decision was made at a meeting of the Dillard, Lookingglass and Tenmile school boards, clerks and principals Tuesday night. The combined boards heard a report from County School Superintendent Kenneth Barneburg that their consolidation into a first class district had been deemed effective as of Monday, Oct. 27, by the district boundary board. Dillard board members will comprise the official board for the new district, while the Lookingglass and Tenmile boards will operate in an advisory capacity. This setup will continue until June 15, when three more board members will be elected by petition for three, four and five-year terms, respectively. Until this time, however, Lookingglass and Tenmile board members will continue to run their own schools. All bills will have to be authorized by the Dillard board. The special Nov. 24 election will be held from 2 to 8 p.m. in the three school buildings. Although the Dillard board has gone ahead and secured a site and architects for the new high school, the people must vote to leave the non-high district before a bond issue can be passed. Board members from the three districts were given an account of what had been done in regard to the new high school and all were appointed to a building committee to review all future architect's drawings and plans for the school, to be located on Highway 42 at Brockway. The Dillard board officially changed its regular meeting date from the second Monday of each month to the second Thursday at 8 p.m., at Dillard School.

Milk Producers Assn. Urges Negative Vote

that its perishability is no longer a factor recognized by the average consumer. The fact that milk is now delivered every other day is good evidence of this quality and assurance to the public that we are producing something for which the consumer receives full value when purchased, and — "Whereas, both quality and stability of the milk supply is threatened by the chain-store amendment to the Milk Control Act, which if adopted will completely demoralize the orderly production and distribution of milk. It is set up for the sole purpose to draw customers into their stores to increase their sales on other items, and would force the consumer to pay a premium for fresh milk delivery to their homes; we know the promises made by this out-of-state chain-store and the so-called Affiliated Milk Committee. "FURTHERMORE, we have checked their performance and find that the majority of the statements made by them are false; that they definitely are not friends of the consumer or the producer, but are working for their own selfish interest. "THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That we request you vote 333 X No."

5 Percenters' Case Charged

sury procurement. Hill now lives in Washington. By telephone from Dallas, Tex., Westbrook told the Herald Tribune he blamed cancellation of the contract and his dismissal upon an international group, including a retired army brigadier general, who he said had sought to sell strategic materials to the United States at a higher price than his clients. He identified the general as Brig. Gen. Tom B. Wilson, who is European director of the Defense Materials Procurement Agency and in charge of European procurement of strategic materials for the United States. Wilson had advised the DMPA that the company was going into the open market for tungsten and recommended cancellation of the contract. "Up to this time we have never received a nickel in compensation for our thousands of dollars expenses and more than two years' time to this project," Westbrook said. Mitchell, in his statement dismissing Westbrook, said: "I must state there is no information before me that Col. Westbrook sought to bring improper influence to bear on any agency or to make improper use of his position with the Democratic National Committee."
