

SIX CONVICTS AT LARGE AFTER PRISON BREAK

JOAN LONG, at the right in the picture above, and her friend, Pauline Cordes, stand in the embrace of a frost-enshrouded tamarisk tree, a chilly experience of a very foreign nature to Miss Cordes whose home is in Honolulu and who is enjoying her first stateside appearance. Both girls are in their first year at the University of Oregon, where they are roommates at Hendricks Hall. Joan, a 1952 graduate of Roseburg high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil P. Long of 1806 Harrison street, home for the Thanksgiving holidays with Miss Cordes as her guest.

'Tiger Woman' Winnie Ruth Judd Again Gives Self Up

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A quiet woman of 49, still intent on proving her sanity after a score of years, sat alone today in a carefully guarded room at the State Hospital for the Insane.

This was the notorious Winnie Ruth Judd, the "Tiger Woman" of 1931, who killed her two best girl friends, chopped up their bodies and shipped them in a trunk to Los Angeles.

Unidentified Submarine Off Philippines Escapes

MANILA (AP) — The Defense Department Monday said an unidentified submarine, attacked by Philippine Navy patrol boats off the east coast of Luzon Friday, has escaped.

A department spokesman said a thorough search failed to find any signs that the sub had been damaged or destroyed.

Military sources said they believed the sub was attempting to land supplies for Communist-led Huk.

The Navy said there was no possibility it was a friendly sub.

In the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

President-elect Eisenhower, after a break for Thanksgiving Day, resumes in New York his schedule of appointments. His first caller is Mrs. W. L. Pandit, head of the Indian delegation to the United Nations and also a sister of India's Nehru. She stays half an hour and tells reporters when she came out:

"General Eisenhower is an old friend. I've known him for several years, and I came to pay a courtesy call."

There is hardly an important person in the world who isn't an old (and quite often trusted) friend of General Eisenhower—soon to be President Eisenhower.

That will be helpful to so many. MANY ways. It's so MUCH EASIER to do business with old and trusted friends than with strangers.

From Korea: Millions of South Koreans are viewing the forthcoming visit of President-elect Eisenhower as their last hope of salvation. The official South Korean spokesman tells newsmen in Seoul that the sentiment of welcome in his country for Ike is a strong and stirring thing because the people believe Eisenhower will DRIVE THE CHINESE REDS COMPLETELY OUT OF KOREA.

Don't get nervous. Back in the days before we got jittery and unsure of ourselves, we drove the Reds out of Greece—and it DIDN'T start a war with Russia.

You know the old superstition (Continued on page Four)

The Weather

Frequent showers today, tonight and Tuesday with brief periods of sunshines.

Highest temp. for any Dec.	70
Lowest temp. for any Dec.	5
Highest temp. last 24 hours	56
Lowest temp. last 24 hours	39
Precip. last 24 hours	.81
Precip. from Dec. 1	.31
Precip. from Sept. 1	3.57
Deficit from Sept. 1	5.15
Sunset today, 4:39 p.m. PST
Sunrise tomorrow, 7:29 a.m. PST

TRACTOR OVERTURNS

GRANTS PASS (AP) — A logging tractor overturned south of here Saturday, killing the operator, Mark Robert Bower, 35, Grants Pass.

The accident occurred in the Applegate area of Northern Jackson County.

Established 1873

ROSEBURG, OREGON — MONDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1952

★ ★ 279-52

Jury Being Drawn For Bouse Trial

The first-degree murder trial of Thomas S. Bouse opened today in Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly's court.

Bouse is accused in the bathtub drowning of his 40-year-old wife, Ethel Louella Bouse, last Oct. 8. The case opened this morning with selection of a jury, and questioning of prospective jury members is expected to take up much of the first day.

District Attorney Robert M. Stults said the prosecution expects to put about 15 witnesses on the stand during the course of the trial. Defense Attorney Randolph Slocum said the defense would have about a dozen or more witnesses on the stand which is expected to take about one full day.

The state is also represented by Robert G. Davis, appointed by the County Court to assist District Attorney Stults in the case. John H. Horn is the second defense attorney.

Attempt To Prove Insanity

The defense indicated it would attempt to prove that Bouse was temporarily insane at the time of the drowning. Included in questions asked of prospective jurors by the defense were the following:

"Have you any preconceived notion as to Mr. Bouse's sanity or insanity?"

"Do you have any prejudices against the plea of insanity?"

The prosecution added the question, "Do you have any conscientious scruples against capital punishment?"

The first juror examined this morning was Mrs. Sylvia Jantzer, of Astoria, who under questioning by defense attorneys admitted she was acquainted with Prosecutor Robert G. Davis.

"Do you feel that your acquaintance with Mr. Davis might influence your opinion in this case," asked Slocum.

"It might," replied Mrs. Jantzer. "What possible difference would it make that you know Mr. Davis," asked the court.

"Well that's the way I feel about it," Mrs. Jantzer replied.

She explained that she had talked about the case to Davis, but later said she would keep an open mind in the case.

"That's right," she replied.

Davis also told jurors that it was the defense's responsibility to prove insanity and asked "you'll allow the instructions of the court in that regard will you not?"

Davis said the court would instruct that the defense must prove that "the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong."

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Davis said the court would instruct that "the defendant must prove that 'the defendant was so mentally deranged that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.'"

Northwestern Turkey Show Entries Taken

"It looks like we're going to have a full house."

That was the opinion of Paul Abeel, manager of the Northwestern Turkey Show, at 9 a.m. today as he surveyed 140 entries already in for the annual show at the Douglas County Fairgrounds.

He said this was a larger number than usual for so early in the morning. Today, the first of the five-day event which closes Friday, is devoted entirely to entry and cooping of birds. Exhibitors have until 9 tonight to bring in their birds.

The show opens to the public Tuesday morning, with judging of live and dressed classes starting at 9 a.m. and continuing through Wednesday.

Judging of championship, breeder display and special classes is set for Thursday at 9 a.m. The show closes Friday with the release of birds set for 8 a.m.

Visitors to the show around noon on Tuesday or Thursday or around dinner time Wednesday will have a chance to hear a trio of Swiss yodelers, the "Swiss Family Fraunfelder," as they'll be performing in the Posse Room for luncheons and dinners at these times.

Colored slides with accompanying narration on how to carve turkey will be shown intermittently throughout the show at the Fairgrounds. All exhibits will be in the main Fairgrounds building.

Army Veteran's Sex Is Changed To Become Girl

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Lying in a hospital bed with her long wavy hair curling on a pillow, 26-year-old Christine Jorgensen widened her large, grey-blue eyes and lifted her hands in a surprised, frightened gesture today as she learned that the news of her change from a man to a woman was on front pages throughout the world.

"I feared it all the time," she pretty young girl said, but she smiled happily as she expressed gratitude to the Danish doctors who with operations and treatment changed the sex of the former George Jorgensen Jr., Army veteran and son of a Bronx carpenter.

"I'm happy to have become a woman and I think many more people who are unhappy as I was before should follow my example," Christine told a woman reporter who stood in her room at Rigshospitalet, the Danish state hospital here.

The doctors, meanwhile, had put a wall of secrecy around their patient, whose change of sex has on a few precedents in medical history.

Miss Jorgensen said she expects to be discharged from the hospital soon and plans to return to the United States after she completes training here as a color photographer.

She had discovered the now famous, much-disputed "Kenny treatment" of therapy for polio sufferers when she was a 25-year-old nurse in the bush country.

In Australia and throughout the world she battled doctors opposing her theories.

Finally governments, universities and private organizations of many countries honored her and her treatment methods were widely accepted.

Foundations bearing her name now carry on her work in the United States and other countries.

Sister Kenny had never married. Her mourners included her two sisters and her adopted daughter, Mrs. Mary McCracken.

She was 66.

Last minute injections of a new drug, Trypsin, brought from New York, could not save her life.

Relatives and her life-long friend, Dr. John Ogden, were with the nursing sister when she died.

Sister Kenny, the Rev. J. Tainton told the mourners, would go down in history as one of the great benefactors of suffering mankind.

She had discovered the now famous, much-disputed "Kenny treatment" of therapy for polio sufferers when she was a 25-year-old nurse in the bush country.

In Australia and throughout the world she battled doctors opposing her theories.

Finally governments, universities and private organizations of many countries honored her and her treatment methods were widely accepted.

Foundations bearing her name now carry on her work in the United States and other countries.

Sister Kenny had never married. Her mourners included her two sisters and her adopted daughter, Mrs. Mary McCracken.

She was 66.

Last minute injections of a new drug, Trypsin, brought from New York, could not save her life.

Relatives and her life-long friend, Dr. John Ogden, were with the nursing sister when she died.

Sister Kenny, the Rev. J. Tainton told the mourners, would go down in history as one of the great benefactors of suffering mankind.

She had discovered the now famous, much-disputed "Kenny treatment" of therapy for polio sufferers when she was a 25-year-old nurse in the bush country.

Green School Merger Vote To Be Dec. 22

Petitions Are Filed Calling For Election To Join With Roseburg

Roseburg School District 4 and Green District 5 voters will go to the polls Monday, Dec. 22, to decide whether or not the two districts will consolidate.

This date was set after petitions requesting merger were handed in to the County School superintendent's office. The Roseburg petitions contained 126 signatures, with 100 required. Green petitions were signed by 82 while 50 names were necessary.

The Roseburg vote will be taken from 2 to 8 p.m. at the five regular polling places—Junior High School, Senior High Library Arts Building, Riverside School, Wilbur School and Melrose School. Green residents will vote at 8 p.m. at the Green School.

Primary reason for the consolidation is to give Green high school age students a place to attend school. District 4 has given the non-high districts notice that high school students will not be accepted in the future. Ninth-graders are to be removed after this school year.

Green voters decided not to enter into the Dillard-Tennille-Look-Ingliss consolidation for a new high school at Brockway. In a straw vote, Green residents heavily favored consolidation with Roseburg.

The signed petitions calling for the election state that the outstanding indebtedness of each district be shared by the two. So an affirmative vote on the consolidation would automatically provide for the districts to share each other's debts.

A majority vote in each district is required for consolidation.

Members of the Green school board met with the Roseburg board recently to request backing on the merger move. The Roseburg board decided neither to back nor oppose the measure and adopted the policy of "let the voters decide."

Sister Kenny's Funeral Service Held At Sidney

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Sister Elizabeth Kenny was buried Monday near her mother's grave in the tiny cemetery of the small farming settlement of Nobby, about 12 miles from her Toowoomba home.

The famed polio-myelitis specialist died Sunday after a 10-day siege of cerebral thrombosis and pneumonia which kept her partially paralyzed and in a coma during her last days. She was 66.

Last minute injections of a new drug, Trypsin, brought from New York, could not save her life.

Relatives and her life-long friend, Dr. John Ogden, were with the nursing sister when she died.

Sister Kenny, the Rev. J. Tainton told the mourners, would go down in history as one of the great benefactors of suffering mankind.

She had discovered the now famous, much-disputed "Kenny treatment" of therapy for polio sufferers when she was a 25-year-old nurse in the bush country.

In Australia and throughout the world she battled doctors opposing her theories.

Finally governments, universities and private organizations of many countries honored her and her treatment methods were widely accepted.

Foundations bearing her name now carry on her work in the United States and other countries.

Sister Kenny had never married. Her mourners included her two sisters and her adopted daughter, Mrs. Mary McCracken.

She was 66.

Last minute injections of a new drug, Trypsin, brought from New York, could not save her life.

Relatives and her life-long friend, Dr. John Ogden, were with the nursing sister when she died.

Sister Kenny, the Rev. J. Tainton told the mourners, would go down in history as one of the great benefactors of suffering mankind.

She had discovered the now famous, much-disputed "Kenny treatment" of therapy for polio sufferers when she was a 25-year-old nurse in the bush country.

In Australia and throughout the world she battled doctors opposing her theories.

Finally governments, universities and private organizations of many countries honored her and her treatment methods were widely accepted.

Foundations bearing her name now carry on her work in the United States and other countries.

Sister Kenny had never married. Her mourners included her two sisters and her adopted daughter, Mrs. Mary McCracken.

She was 66.

Last minute injections of a new drug, Trypsin, brought from New York, could not save her life.

Relatives and her life-long friend, Dr. John Ogden, were with the nursing sister when she died.

Sister Kenny, the Rev. J. Tainton told the mourners, would go down in history as one of the great benefactors of suffering mankind.

Driver Trapped Seven Hours In Auto Mishap

A Roseburg motorist lay pinned under the steering wheel of his ditched car for about seven hours Saturday night before he was discovered and rushed to the hospital with a broken right leg and a bad case of shock, state police reported.

Gerald McClurg, 27, Rt. 3 Box 1420, was returning home from work at Youngs Bay Lumber Co. about 5:30 p.m. Saturday when his car skidded on an icy turn about five miles west of Roseburg on Melrose Road. The car hit a log, throwing McClurg into the windshield and pinning him under the steering wheel, his mother, Mrs. George Showers, reported.

That's the way he remained until an unidentified passerby discovered him about 1 a.m. He was immediately taken to Community Hospital by Mohr Ambulance. He was reported in fairly good condition this morning.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

Mrs. Showers said she is anxious to find out who discovered and aided her son.

International Affairs Draw Consideration

Eisenhower Includes In Appointments Top Aide On Foreign Topics

By MARTIN POST
NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower turns his attention to international affairs again today after a busy weekend during which he named two top foreign staff officers.

His appointment list for today, as announced by Secretary Arthur Vandenberg Jr., is composed almost exclusively of the men who will carry the burden of the incoming administration's foreign problems.

It contains these names:

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate; Republican banker Winthrop W. Aldrich, named yesterday to be U.S. ambassador to Great Britain; Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts, who will head the American delegation to the United Nations; and Harold E. Stassen, whom Eisenhower has selected to head the vast Mutual Security Agency.

Lodge is also to huddle with Dulles separately, and, if possible, with Ambassador Warren R. Austin, the Vermont Republican whom Lodge will succeed at the U.N.

In addition, Gen. Lucius D. Clay is due to see the President-elect. Clay, now chairman of the board of the Continental Can Company,