End Winter Weather Worries

The season blend into each other. Days shorten, nights lengthen temperatures gradually recede. . . Before you know it, winter is upon you: and then there's this to be done -- and that -- and still the other.

Change the oil in the car. Cover the plants. Get the roof patched.

But what about your clothes? They're easily a good 10% of your budget. Don't they deserve some care too?

Sure they do. Any smart householder will agree. If you didn't clean your winter clothes before storing them for the summer season -- (you should have) -- DO IT NOW.

Which of the garments need treatment with water repellents? DO IT NOW, before you're caught in the rain.

Are the drapes and slipcovers decent for the winter? DO IT NOW, they're dirtier than you think.

Putting your summer wardrobe away? Clean it before you do. Get them wringed before storing. DO IT NOW.

Are the sweaters "right"? Can you stand the blankets still? Let us clean them, fluff them up again. DO IT NOW.

Then you'll be ready. Everything will be organized . . . all done, ready to go.

We promise you the finest cleaning care when you BRING IT TO

Son Of Painless Parker Attacks His Dad's Will

SAN FRANCISCO (U. S. P. —) The will of Dr. Painless Parker was attacked in court Friday barely three hours after it had been filed.

Dr. Parker's son, Edgar Randolph Parker Jr., filed an action to contest probate of the will, which indicated an estate valued at over $200,000.

Dr. Parker, who had his name legally changed from Edgar Randolph Parker Jr., filed an action to contest probate of the will, which indicated an estate valued at over $200,000.

The son, a practicing dentist in Vancouver, Wash., charged that his two sisters, each valued $20,000, had influenced their father by saying his son did not love him and did not intend to continue practicing dentistry.

He said the result was a will which deviated from an oral agreement.

Dr. Parker's daughters are Mrs. Jane Hewson, of West Rolling Hills, Los Angeles County, and Mrs. Helen Korn, of Gilroy. Mrs. Hewson's husband operates a Parker dental office.

If he treasurers grandfather's old pocket watch, there's a miniature "bell-case" made of plastic, that shows off the watch, and makes an ideal ornament for his desk.

Property Policy On Guaranteed Loans Announced

WASHINGTON (U. S. P. —) The Veterans Administration announced Saturday that minimum property requirements are now in effect on all new construction to be purchased with aid of VA guaranteed or insured loans.

The agency said that, in order to avoid duplication among federal agencies, it has adopted the applicable portions of the Federal Housing Administration's minimum property requirements and land planning bulletin. It said most builders are familiar with them.

VA said its action was based on the Korean GI bill which directs that new construction on which VA-guaranteed loans are sought must meet or exceed minimum requirements for planning, construction and general acceptability if constructed after Sept. 14, 1952.

The provision does not apply to homes which are completed at least a year before they are purchased with GI loans, the VA added.

The agency said it had enforced minimum construction standards since 1950 but that its minimum requirements for land planning and general acceptability were not mandatory until passage of the Korean GI bill.
