In order to make up time lost by a late start this fall, and in order to make it possible to dismiss school by the last of May, the Christmas vacation in Glendale will be shortened. Patient Released
T. M. Sanders, for whom a call for blood donors was issued last week, has been released from the hospital following two blood transfusions. Eight or ten persons responded to the call last week and went to the Canyonville Hospital to have their blood typed. However, none of them had the rather rare type, O. R-h negative, which was required, and Mrs. Sanders' doctor is reported to have scoured Southern Oregon before he procured one pint from the Red Cross in Medford. Don Snyder, professional donor, who lives up Cow Creek, provided the second transfusion, but more is needed, and it has been requested that persons who are willing to help in that way see Dr. Ferguson in Glendale and make arrangements to have their blood typed as soon as possible.

The William La Prath family spent Thanksgiving weekend in Portland.

Jack La Prath and family spent the Thanksgiving weekend in California visiting with Mrs. La Prath's family there.

PRISONERS OF LOVE — Let this be a warning to love-lorn bachelors. It probably seemed a good idea when Italian honeymooners Francesco Pozzi and his bride, Miranda, had themselves linked together with a three-foot gold chain to guarantee a "lifetime together." The radiant Miranda, shopping on romantic Isle of Capri, still seems to like the idea but Francesco has that end-of-the-leash look. (AP WIREPHOTO)
