YOUR TELEPHONE'S NUMBER ONE ENEMY
How rising costs put a real burden on good service

Surprisingly, it isn't fire or storm or earthquake... your telephone's biggest problem today is the rising costs of the things we buy to provide telephone service—coupled with low telephone rates which have increased much less than the cost of the things we buy to run the system. New techniques and improved equipment have helped greatly to cut operating costs. But the pressure of high prices is unrelenting. And, since a financially healthy telephone system is so important to good service for you, we believe you'd like to be brought up-to-date on your telephone's biggest problem.

It costs much more to add telephones today

Investment per telephone added in 6 prewar years	$172
Investment per telephone added in 7 postwar years	$434

Our operating expenses and taxes have shot up

$53 per telephone in 1940	$103 per telephone in 1952

Our profit has dropped sharply on telephones added postwar

5.3¢ In 1940, profit on each dollar invested in the average telephone added in 6 prewar years	2.5¢ In 1952, profit on each dollar invested in the average telephone added in 7 postwar years

Up sharply are our costs of keeping the system running. Operating taxes, for example, have almost doubled—from $10 per telephone in 1940 to nearly $20 in 1952. Average wage rates of telephone people are more than double what they were in 1940. In fact, nearly everything we must buy to keep your telephone on the job costs about twice what it did prewar.

With our costs up so much more than our prices, the profit on the investment in facilities for each new telephone has been cut in half. And this is important to your service because it takes profits to attract investors' savings into the business to pay for new facilities needed to meet the continuing telephone demands of the growing Pacific West.

Despite our higher costs of building and running the telephone system, the economies we've made have helped keep your telephone a bargain. It carries your messages for just pennies a call.
