

Maranville, Dickey, Terry Voted Into Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Rabbit Maranville, Bill Dickey and Bill Terry are in baseball's Hall of Fame today but Joe DiMaggio still is on the outside—for at least one more year.

Maranville, the sprightly little shortstop of the 1914 "miracle" Boston Braves who died Jan. 5, led the ticket in the latest elections by the Baseball Writers Assn. Dickey, all-time Yankee catching great, and Terry, last 400 hitter in the National League, were close behind.

DiMaggio, who retired in 1951, missed by 14 votes. Totals of 252 ballots were cast by 10-year members with 75 per cent of 189 necessary for election.

The rules were changed this year, restricting the field to players active within the last 25 years but out of baseball in "field" capacity for at least five years. That eliminated managers, coaches and umpires who still are active or have been since 1948. The only exceptions were Dickey, DiMaggio and Ted Lyons, who had received 100 or more votes in the 1953 election.

Plaques will be dedicated to Maranville, Dickey and Terry at the Cooperstown, N. Y., Hall of Fame Museum in August when the Yankees play Cincinnati in the annual exhibition game at Doubleday Field. Six others, including Chief Bender, who were named by a special committee last September, also will be officially accepted at that time, when the membership will be increased to 75 men.

Except for a surge of votes for Maranville, inventor of the "baserun" catch, the 1954 results closely followed last year's pattern. Those who finished well up the ladder behind Dickey, Dean and Al Simmons, the '53 selections, moved up. A total of 53 players were named with seven receiving 100 or more votes.

Maranville drew 209, Dickey 202 and Terry 195. DiMaggio at 175 and Lyons at 170 barely missed. Then came Dazy Vance, ex-Brooklyn pitching ace, 158, and Gabby Hartnett, former Chicago Cub center-manager with 151 votes. There was a long gap between Gabby and Hank Greenberg in eighth place with 97 votes.

Seattle Center Leads Scorers

Seattle University's Big Chief Joe Pehanick used St. Mary's College as a springboard to bounce his basketball point total to 328 for the season and take over top spot this week in the Northwest Collegiate scoring scramble.

Pehanick picked up 57 points versus the Gaels and climbed from fourth place to the pace position while Wade Halbrook of Oregon State humped in a trouble against Washington and faded to third. Gonzaga's Jerry Vermillion ambled at Pehanick's heels, adding 44 to move up to second.

Only eight points separate these three front runners and Vermillion is actually ahead of Ed Halber, although the Webfoot star ranks 12th in total points. Counting games through Saturday, Sharpshooters Ed had connected on 61 per cent of his tries from the field.

It took 240 points to get a play-in into the Top Ten this week and 180 to make the first 20. Ron Benink of Washington State took over fourth place and Leon Keefe of Southern Oregon College slipped from second to fifth.

A newcomer to the select group is R. C. Owens of College of Idaho, who placed seventh behind Jackie May of St. Martin's. Roundout the Top Ten are Dick Edwards of Eastern Washington, Stan Glowaski of Seattle U., and Nick Trutanich of Portland.

For the third straight year Miss Wene paced the 14 women finalists into Thursday's head-to-head match play by totaling 4,680 for the 34-game route.

Norkus weighed 197 pounds, 15 1/2 more than Nardico, who had been clamoring for a title fight with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Glide Town Team Surprises J.C. Sporters In Upset Win

Glide's town team led all the way after a 9-9 first quarter tie to upset a favored J.C. Sporting Goods team 75-69 in a game played by the two teams at Glide Wednesday night.

J.C. had taken a 9-3 advantage when Glide tied the count midway through the period and then went ahead to stay, holding quarter margins of 17-14, 34-28 and 54-46. After the first period, the townies never appeared to be in trouble as they held leads of 10 points in the second quarter and once built up a 12 point difference in the third chapter.

With about five minutes remaining to play in the fourth period, J.C. used a full court press in an attempt to get the ball and whittle down the margin. But the Sporters never got within six points of the winners as guard Jack Forsythe picked up 13 points on a combination of long shots to help Glide pull away.

A determining factor in the Glide win was the control of rebounds by 6-7 center Dale Heigh. Heigh also contributed 24 points on hook shots and tips to lead all scorers.

Forsythe was second high for the game with 22, while Bill Harper, guard, and 6-7 center Jack Loomis topped J.C. pointmakers with 20 and 19 points respectively.
