Trout Season To Open May 1

PORTLAND (AP) — The 1954 Oregon trout season will open May 1 and close Oct. 10, the State Game Commission announced Friday.

The winter steelhead season will close March 1, the commission reported after a second public hearing on this year's fishing regulations.

The commission turned down requests for extending the steelhead season to March 15 and for continuing of the practice of opening various zones to trout fishing at staggered dates.

Only minor changes were made in tentative regulations which were announced following earlier public hearings. These included:

The winter deadlines on Wilson River and Drift Creek, tributaries of the Alsea River, will remain the same as last year.

Lake of the Woods in Klamath County will open May 29 along with most other Cascade lakes.

The Metolius River opening was changed to close the river to angling for a distance of 100 feet above and below the bridge at Camp Sherman.

The winter deadline on the north fork of the Scappoose Creek was changed to a point 200 feet below Bonny Falls.

The winter deadline on the South Santiam River was changed to the Cascadia Ranger Station.

The middle fork of the Santiam River was opened to winter angling up to the confluence of Quartzville Creek.

The 400-foot closure below the diversion dams on the North Santiam at Stayton was amended to include both the north and south channels.

Diamond Lake opening was changed to May 1.

The commission reported that printed copies of the complete regulations will be available about April 1.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic and Naturopathic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

Mumps is chareaterized by swelling of the parotid glands, and sometimes of the other salivary glands. This group of glands consists of two parotid glands located one on each side of the face, deep in the cheek, and immediately in front of the ear; the submaxillary glands, lying under the lower jaw; and the sublingual glands which are located under the tongue.

Swelling of the glands is often the first sign to attract attention to the disorder. In some cases the disease begins with several days of headache, loss of appetite, vomiting, pains in the back and limbs, fever, chilliness, sweating, and tenderness of the affected glands.

The characteristic swelling begins below and in front of the ear, and gradually extends upward and backward. Ordinarily, pain precedes or accompanies the swelling; and it is increased by movements of the jaw, by pressure, and by acid substances in the mouth. In most instances the saliva secretion is scant and the mouth dry. Such foods as tend most to stimulate the flow of saliva are productive of great discomfort when taken into the mouth. Swallowing is painful. The swelling usually lasts from three to six days, and then begins to subside. Frequently the disease affects both sides, but one side is usually involved before the other.

Mumps is an acute infectious disease, caused by a virus which occurs in the saliva during the first six days of illness. There is a tendency for other glands to be involved, particularly the testes or ovaries in adults.

The condition is rare in children under four. It occurs chiefly between the ages of five and fifteen. Although not highly communicable, mumps may occur in epidemic form.

Mumps in itself, while painful, is not fatal, both fever and glandular swelling subsiding in a few days. However, complications, chiefly in the years ofter adolescence, may be serious. Atrophy of the testicles occurs in about 6 per cent of hospitalized boys and young men, though it is extremely rare in childhood and complications are few and generally unimportant. (Pd. Adv.)

Longtime Drain Resident Dies

One of Drain's longtime residents died at a Roseburg hospital Friday at the age of 81.

She was Cora Bartholomy, whose parents homesteaded east of Drain in 1880. She and her husband, Henry, celebrated their 50th anniversary in Drain in 1946.

She was born June 4, 1872, at Altoona, Pa., and came to San Francisco as a small girl. A year later, in 1879, she came to Portland by ship. The following year her parents brought her to Drain.

She was married to Bartholomy in Salem in April 1896. Since his death in 1947, Mrs. Bartholomy has lived with a daughter, Mrs. George Sundberg in Roseburg.

Other daughters and sons were: Homer, Portland; Oliver, Sutherlin; Milton, Anchorage, Alaska; and Jasper Fegles, Vader, Wash. She was also survived by 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled Monday at the Drain Methodist Church at 11 a.m. The Rev. Mr. Ecklund will officiate. Interment will follow in the Drain Cemetery. Stearns and Little Mortuary, Oakland, is in charge of arrangements.

Cpl. Dickenson Arrested By Army Authorities

finished and its results "fully reviewed for legal sufficiency." The Army said this preliminary will be held "at the earliest date possible."

Dickenson, whose home is in the remote mountain town of Cracker's Neck in southwestern Virginia, was one of 23 American soldiers who refused to return to United Nations lines when the Korean truce was signed last summer. He later asked neutral Indain guards to take him back.

The young Virginian told reporters at the time that the Chinese Reds "kept me back" with threats.

A second American—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor—renounced the Communists on New Year's Day. He is in the Tokyo General Hospital.

The Far East Command said last night that it has no knowledge of any similar action that may be taken against Batchelor. The soldier's mother—Mrs. O. L. Btchelor—said in Kermit, Tex., that she hopes her son will come home "and face whatever he has to face."

The fate of the 21 Americans who still refuse to come back to the U. S. forces remains in doubt. They are on a sit-down strike with 326 other pro-Reds in their camp. The Indians unlocked camp gates last night—deadline for the release of all prisoners.

The UN Command virtually told the Communists today to take back the 21 Americans, 325 South Koreans and 1 Briton—but the Reds would not do so.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said yesterday the 21 Americans are "free to do what they want," but that they had better act quickly, if they have any ideas of coming home.

The Army is known to have prepared "undesirable" discharges for the 21, but Pentagon officials said the Red refusal to take them back from their Indian guards had in effect, given them a brief period of grace.

Reporters tried to get Dickenson to make some comment on the charges, but Army officers said he would not talk to newsmen.

Down in Cracker's Neck, the news came as a mighty jolt to his folks.

"Oh, my God!" exclaimed Mrs. Van Buren Dickenson, his mother. "He's no more Communist than I am," declared his 78-year-old father.

Dickenson's bride of less than two months, Lottie Kate Laney, could not be reached. She was staying with Dickenson's relatives farther up the mountain.

Dickenson is charged with violating two sections of the uniform code of military justice—one dealing with aid to an enemy and another covering alleged misconduct as a prisoner.

Article 104—aiding the enemy—provides the death penalty or lesser punishment, including imprisonment, may be imposed. Under Article 105, misconduct as a prisoner is punishable by such a penalty as a court-martial may order—but not death.

Dickenson is accused of:

"Having without proper authority communicated with, and held intercourse with the enemy directly and indirectly."

"Having, for the purpose of securing favorable treatment by his captors, acted without proper authority in a manner contrary to law, custom and regulation, to the detriment of other persons held by the enemy as prisoners."

Meanwhile, the Air Force reportedly was setting up procedures for dealing with former war prisoners who broke under Communist torture and made false germ warfare and other confessions, or who fell for Red indoctrination.

Tongay On Trial For Child's Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay, husky father-teacher of the famed "Aquatots," Kathy and Bubba Tongay, may take the stand Monday in his own defense against charges that he caused Kathy's death by forcing her to dive from dangerous heights.

Tongay's manslaughter trial was recessed yesterday until Monday after County Solicitor John Marsh had presented all but one of the state's witnesses.

Five-year-old Kathy Tongay died May 5 after practicing dives from the top of the 3-foot tower at the MacFadden-Deauville Hotel pool in Miami Beach. Dr. Victor Calderin, who performed the autopsy, said death was caused by peritonitis brought on by a ruptured intestine.

Both Calderin and Dr. Ben Sheppard, sheriff's office medical expert, said Kathy's body was a mass of bruises.

Star witness for the state in yesterday's opening day of testiminy was Pete Desjardins, former Olympic springboard and high diving champion. He testified that Tongay was not qualified to teach high diving.

Flight Of Communist Planes Causes Alert

SEOUL (AP) — A flight of unidentified planes from Communist North Korea flew as far south as Seoul Saturday and touched off a half hour air raid alert.

American Sabre jets "scrambled" into the air but failed to make contact with the unidentified aircraft which turned and flew back into North Korea.

The 5th Air Force said the alert was sounded at 5:08 p.m. and lasted until 5:35 p.m.

The unidentified flight of "several planes" was picked up by radar and tracked as it crossed the demarkation line, sped over the Seoul area and turned back north.

The planes were listed by the Air Force as "unidentified" since no contact was made. It could not be determined whether they were jets or propeller-driven craft.

Plainclothesmen Solve Apprehension Problem

NEW YORK (AP) Plainclothesmen Philip O'Brien and Thomas Cagney had a problem on their hands last night:

They had just raided a card game, nabbing 17 persons. However, there was no telephone available for calling the nearest station house for reinforcements. And the two officers figured one of them could not watch the prisoners alone while the other went for help.

They thought a bit, then forced the 17 to hand over their wallets, announcing:

"If you want your wallets back, come to the station house."

Without further word, the 17 followed the officers a block and a half to the nearest station house.

There, the officers returned the wallets and handed each person a warrant of arrest on disorderly conduct charges.

Bloodhounds Lead Police To Drowned Children

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Led by a bloodhound, police chopped through the ice in Swan Creek yesterday and found first a red corduroy hat and then the bodies of two first-grade children.

Three times a bloodhound ended its trailing at the same spot on the creek's bank. Then police started chopping the ice.

Just before the youngsters left her home, Douglas' mother, Mrs. George Chaney, warned them away from the creek, about 500 feet from the house.

Roseburg Student Attracts Attention With Paintings

FRANK BAUMEISTER . . . young artist

By LORRAINE KESNER
Staff Writer, News-Review

A 16-year-old junior student at Roseburg Senior High School is attracting city-wide attention with his ability to portray the Oregon country in water color.

He is Frank Baumeister, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Baumeister, who moved to Dillard only last summer.

Baumeister is one of six children, and the only one inclined to be artistic, and, he says, he has been drawing and painting since he can remember. His particular forte is wildlife and landscapes, some of which are now on display at the Roseburg Public Library.

He has done some interesting things with ink over crayon, which produces a remarkable sharp black-and-white effect. However, he believes his future lies in water color.

The future holds a career in art for Baumeister, if he realizes his dreams. He plans to major in art throughout his education, with his ultimate goal doing illustrations. His teacher, Robert Feasley, who has work displayed in the Seattle Art Museum, feels that such an ambition is justified in Baumeister's case. He is giving the youth instruction in technique and composition to help him mold his work in professionalism as well as retaining the originality it displays.

Although a resident of the area only since last summer, Baumeister feels that Roseburg is his home and Roseburg may someday lay claim to the fact that his talent was recongized here.

Big 4 Session Ready To Start First Of Week

rived as his opposite numbers from the Western Big Three conferred on strategy for the four-power conference opening Monday. The West has been cold to the idea of having Red China sit in on the present meetings.

The West wants to put German and Austrian settlements to the fore. But the Russian foreign minister made it clear he would push the issue of China.

"The Berlin conference will measure up to its chief task in so far as it contributes to strengthin international relations, and really guaranteeing security in Europe" Molotov asserted.

"The Soviet Union has had no aims directed against the freedom and national rights of other peoples and also has none now.

"On its part, it has supported the efforts of all countries that are concerned with the welfare an security of their peoples, in so far as these efforts were not contrary to the interests and rights of other states. The USSR government would like to see the same attitude also shown to the Soviet Union."

A responsible western source said the three Allied foreign ministers had not concluded any kind of formal agreement among themselves today "to avoid the appearance of ganging up on the Russians."

State Emergency Board Questions Thornton's Right

SALEM (AP) — The Oregon State Emergency Board said Friday it might go to court to overturn Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton's opinion that the State Board of Control can't buy the site for the proposed state reformatory.

The board instructed Sam Haley, legislative counsel to see what steps could be taken to get a court decision.

The Emergency Board, consisting of nine legislators, said it was clearly the Legislature's intent that the Board of Control should buy the site out of the $1,250,000 appropriation for the new institution.

The matter came on the Emergency Board's agenda by a request from the Board of Control for funds to buy the site.

Members of the board were sharply critical of Thornton's opinion.

Rep. David Baum, La Grande, said "We can't run this state on attorney general's opinions."

Rep. Robert Root, Medford, said "This board must determine if the attorney general should be allowed to rule contrary to the intent of the Legislature."

Sen. Howard C. Belton, Canby, said the Board of Control made a mistake in asking Thornton's opinion. He said the board should have gone ahead and built the building, asserting that no one ever would have challenged it.
