Kansas Restaurant Owner Holds To Nickel For Coffee; Different Opinions Given

NEW YORK (AP)—Fellow out in Kansas says he makes money in his restaurant selling coffee at a nickel a cup. Restaurateurs in big cities are pushing prices up to 15 cents a cup.
How come?
The answer seems to lie in how many cups you get out of a pound, what kind of profit margin you want, and your overhead costs.
Restaurant men started talking about 15-cent coffee when the retail price reached $1 a pound. Because of a short crop in Brazil, further hikes in ground coffee are expected.
But Paul Park of Liberal, Kan., says he's going to stand firm at a nickel a cup because he's making $90 a week on coffee in his restaurant at that price.
Another Kansan, Jim Lofland, says that's his break-even point and that coffee "is just an accommodation for our customers anyway."
But things are different in New York.
"We get 48 cups from a pound of coffee and estimate it costs us

8 1/2 cents to put a cup of coffee in front of a customer," said a spokesman for the Childs Co., large Eastern restaurant chain. "We've been charging a dime for years and still do. But look what's happened to basic costs in that time!"
"Coffee was selling for 29 cents a pound when we went to a dime a cup. Now it's 99 cents. Waitresses are making 10 times as much now. The cost of cream has tripled and sugar is twice what it was. A cup that used to cost 8 cents now costs 36 cents."
At the swank Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where one man does nothing but look after coffee brewing, you'll pay 15 cents for a cup in the coffee house. The Waldorf said it doesn't have the exact cost per cup but that it gets only 34 six-ounce cups from a pound.
One large factor in the food field has its own formula for making coffee in restaurants.
"We recommend 2 1/2 gallons of water to a pound of coffee," a spokesman for the firm said. "Allowing for water absorbed by the grounds, that's the equivalent of 41 seven-ounce cups or 57 five-ounce cups."
"We figure that with cream and sugar, labor and breakage, it should cost a restaurant about 3 cents a cup. So at a dime, it's making a good American profit."
Restaurants, as indicated by Childs' comment, disagree.
A leading roaster said it fears restaurants will start diluting coffee.
"Some of them get 70 cups to a pound now," this source said. "We'd rather see them serve a smaller cup than dilute it. The last impression a customer gets in a restaurant is made by the coffee he has."

IN THE RACE—Matt Cvetic, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a former FBI undercover agent, will seek the Republican nomination as congressman from Pennsylvania's 28th District. He plans to campaign on the issue of no compromise with Russia or her satellites and will oppose recognition of Red China by the UN.

McCarthy Welcomes Back Democratic Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) promised Wednesday a "no hard feelings" welcome back to the Democrats who have agreed to return to his Senate investigations Subcommittee after boycotting it for six months.
Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), who led the Democratic walkout, Tuesday made public a letter to McCarthy formalizing the peace agreement under which the Democrats will receive some concessions from McCarthy.
"The proper democratic processes respecting committee procedure having been restored," McClellan wrote, "the Democrats are now willing to serve as members of the subcommittee."
McClellan, the senior Democratic member of the parent committee on government operations, reassigned the three Democratic members who resigned. He is one. The others are Sens. Symington (Mo.) and Henry M. Jackson (Wash.).

Bill Asks More Money For Columbia Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—The monetary authorization for four Columbia Basin projects would be increased five million dollars under bills introduced Tuesday by Reps. Mack (R-Wash) and Angell (R-Ore).
The bills would authorize Congress to appropriate up to a total of 155 million dollars for The Dalles, Detroit and Lookout Point Dams and Willamette River bank protection work. The present maximum is 150 million dollars.
Mack and Angell said the five million dollars in addition to the unused portion of the presently authorized 150 million dollars should cover funds Congress is expected to appropriate for construction.
