Guest speaker was O. J. Killiam, Canyonville, county vice president of the Farm Bureau, whose talk included facts of soil conservation and flood control.

Carl Hunter reported that a petition for a hearing on a soil conservation district had been sent in and that a hearing would be held in the district in the near future.

After the business meeting, scenic pictures and movies of the Oregon and California Coast were shown by Killiam.

At the next meeting, to be held Tuesday, March 9, there will be a movie of great interest to stockman (the movie will be on culling sheep).

About 40 members and guests were present.

Republicans Temper Final Lincoln Day Talks

down the wage payer. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves."

The magazine article as reprinted in the Congressional Record said Boetcker wrote the sentences in 1916. It said they were distributed widely by the Committee for Constitutional Government, credited to Boetcker, along with an authentic Lincoln statement.

Meanwhile, Sen. George (D-Ga.) said the Republican Democratic battle over the GOP charter, Communist codding may not, after all, have much lasting effect.

"This is a political year and you've got to expect things like that," the veteran Georgia Democrat said in an interview. With congressional elections scheduled this year, he said he doesn't think anything much can be done to stop the infighting.

Republican speakers—with some notable exceptions—loaded their oratorical artillery for the big Lincoln Day barrage yesterday with much the same sort of denunciation that had already brought Democratic complaints. Democrats have accused some GOP spokesmen of going beyond the laws of political warfare by seeking, so the Democrats said, to fasten the epithets of communism and treason on the minority party. President Eisenhower this week advised his fellow party members against extreme partisan utterances.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic and Naturopathic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

To understand diseases of the nervous system, one must remember that this system is concerned with both motion and sensation and that diseases or injuries of nerve centers or of nerve trunks may cause disturbances of motion or sensation in parts of the body far removed from where the diseased or injured areas are located. Furthermore, there are disturbances of activity of the vital organs due to diseases or abnormalities of the autonomic nerves that must be taken into account.

One should remember, however, that all of the other organs and systems influence and are influenced by the nervous system and that all these influences, and are influenced by, the mental processes. Psychology, then is not solely the understanding of mental illness. Physical and nervous disorders often lie at the root of what on the surface may seem to be strictly mental derangements, and must be detected and corrected before mental health can be restored.

It is probable that the physical bases for the emotional impulses are the gray nuclei which are situated at the base of the brain. From those nuclei, fibers run toward the so-called silent areas in the forebrain and it is believed that through these fibers an emotional tone is imparted to man's thoughts. In this region two streams of consciousness meet: those of thought or cognition and emotion. The intermingling of these streams of thought and feeling is necessary for the psychic life; one reacts upon the other.

Neurosis, a common nervous disease is a neurosis or functional nervous disorder characterized by a tendency to mental and physical fatigue. It may arise from an attempt to protect oneself from the difficulties encountered in daily life. The quick and prolonged fatigue is often due to absorption and waste of mental energy in repression and conflict. The principal consideration, however, is not to overlook some organic disease which may be present accompanying the nervous disorder. (Pd. Adv.)

Financial Scheme In Japan Fails; Promotor Jailed

TOKYO — The ceiling has fallen in on postwar Japan's biggest financial scheme and Japanese politicians to Buddhist priests are picking the plaster out of their hair.

Three top political parties, including the Liberal party, of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, are scurrying out from under the wreckage of the 13-million-dollar investment company, Hozen Kai.

Government investigators said the company's wizard, Matsutomi Ito, 47, spread contributions lavishly among the three top parties so he could use big names as "advisers."

But there is no indication any of the planned series of tests has actually started.

A recent rash of Pacific area earthquakes has prompted speculation that an H-bomb already has been exploded but seismologists flatly deny the possibility of any such connection. They say the biggest bomb yet devised by man is still a peanut compared to the eruptions of nature.

The tests, which will include the first trial of an actual combat-designed hydrogen bomb, are expected in two or three weeks.

U. S. Sabre Jet Hits Mountain

VANCOUVER, B.C. — A U.S. Air Force F86D Sabre Jet, lost in rain-shrouded skies with useless instruments, crashed Friday on the harbor here. The pilot was killed.

Piloted by Lt. Lamar J. Barlow, 25, of Tacoma, Wash., the Sabre crashed in snow at the 2,500-foot level of Grouse Mountain, a popular ski playground. The U.S. Air Force at McChord, Wash., confirmed that Barlow died in the crash.

Wreckage was found 100 yards away from a chairlift climbing the peak. It's a six-mile drive from downtown Vancouver to the foot of the lift.

Pilot Barlow, married but childless, was last heard from just after noon Friday when he reported he was at 20,000 feet 15 miles northwest of the Vancouver airport.

Stationed at McChord Field, near Tacoma, with the 45th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, he was on a practice flight.

Pope Pius Scheduled To Speak To World

HONOLULU — Preparations for the coming hydrogen bomb test series in the Pacific are nearing a climax, according to indications in this strategic Pacific staging area.

The tests, which will include the first trial of an actual combat-designed hydrogen bomb, are expected in two or three weeks.

Portland Doctor Arrested Again; Claims Robbery

PORTLAND — Dr. George H. Buck, Portland, was arrested again Saturday on a new charge of manslaughter by a jury of six hours after reporting that he had been beaten up and robbed in his office.

It was his fourth arrest in less than three years.

The new charge was based on a complaint signed by a friend of a 37-year-old woman who became ill after an operation Friday morning. Buck was accused of performing the operation.

The doctor was released on $10,000 bail.

Earlier police said Buck told them this story of the attack on him:

A woman, accompanied by two men, came to his office Friday evening. The men remained in the ante room while Buck examined the woman. When he opened the door to the ante room, the men beat him with their fists. They then taped his hands together and took $370 from his wallet.

Detectives said there was about $500 in another compartment of the wallet.

The President's plans were announced here Saturday as he was spending the weekend bird hunting as the guest of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, told newsmen the special message to Congress will be in two main sections.

The President is to qualify his Saturday arrangement for an early start credit in a quest for more birds.

DAYVILLE, Ore. — Search was to continue here Saturday for a high school girl who was believed killed when an automobile plunged into the John Day River.

Three youths escaped when the car went into the icy stream after falling to make a turn on the highway five miles southeast of Kimberly Thursday.

They are Richard Gibson, 19, his brother, LeRoy, 14, and Glen Legler, 20. The Gibsons crawled out of the car and called police. Legler was not found until the next morning. He was about a mile from the accident scene on the other side of the river. He suffered frost bite, broken bones, cuts and bruises.

Alaska Sawmill Is Proposed By Portland Firm

JUNEAU, Alaska — Regional Forester A. W. Greeley said Saturday the Pacific Northern Timber Co. of Portland has asked the U.S. Forest Service to advertise a timber sale in Alaska's Tongass National Forest this spring.

The timber would supply a proposed sawmill at Wrangell as well as a possible pulp mill in the Wrangell area.

In Juneau this week for discussions with Greeley was C. Girard Davidson, attorney for Pacific Northern and for Georgia-Pacific Plywood, which has shown interest in the possibility of a pulp mill and newsprint plant here.

Greeley said they considered various localities for timber raising in Southeast Alaska and areas where logging operations would begin to supply a Wrangell sawmill.

Davidson said Pacific Northern had acquired a mill site about a mile from Wrangell, formerly occupied by a salmon cannery, where it plans to construct a million dollar mill. He said company engineers are expected to be in Wrangell in the spring and it was hoped that construction could start in the summer.

The pulp mill, he added, is part of the company's plans for the future.

Fred G. Hanford of Juneau and Wrangell, handling the company's housing plans, said these called for the eventual construction of 200 houses.

Regarding Georgia-Pacific's program, Davidson said this company was seeking suitable land here with a nearby water supply and expected to send a representative to Juneau this spring to look over mill sites and timber possibilities.

Valentine Symbol Of Double Death

HAWTHORNE, Calif. — The valentine in the apartment read: "The things we share together always make me happiest."

On the floor lay the bodies of Mrs. Ruth McMillan, 42, of Portland, Ore., shot seven times, and Rocco James Christiano, 43, shot four times. Near Christiano's body was a new revolver, bought four days ago.

While police were investigating their deaths last night, the woman's husband, John McMillan, 45, arrived. He told officers he had been here two weeks, trying to persuade his wife to leave Christiano, with whom she had occupied the apartment six months.

Police said Christiano's bags were partly packed.

"He was leaving—giving her the brushoff," theorized Police Lt. M. M. Baumgardner. "She got him mad, and he shot her and then himself."

She died without recovering consciousness at the nearby Treasure Island Naval Station Dispensary. San Francisco homicide inspectors said she had been shot and her receipts taken.

and Georges Bidault that it was impossible for the Austrian government to accept the Molotov proposal.

He asked which of the Big Four would be willing to present such a proposition regarding his own country to his own parliament.

The Western foreign ministers already have written off hope of concluding an Austrian state treaty at this conference, although the debate on it will run into an extraordinary Sunday session.

Some Western diplomats said they expected another secret meeting on the Far Eastern situation to be held Monday and it may be that the ministers will have another go round on the problems of Germany and European security, Western delegations now are pressing for conclusion of the work here late next week.

Dulles, backing up the Austrians, ripped into Russia's program with the charge that it contained "poisonous proposals" for an "Austria without freedom." He expressed "earnest hope" that Molotov would withdraw his demands so that a treaty may be concluded immediately.
