Brownell Says Stronger Laws Needed For Reds

the death penalty for peacetime, a well as wartime espionage.

In his program to meet the Communist "threat to our nation's safety," he outlined also these proposals:

Permission for an employer to dismiss from defense plants during a national emergency any person whose record shows he is likely to engage in sabotage or espionage.

Measures to prevent witnesses from pleading self-incrimination as an excuse for refusing to testify. There have been proposals for a law that would permit the government to grant immunity from prosecution to witnesses, who could then be ordered to answer questions. Though their testimony could not then be used against themselves, it might help catch "high ups."

Legislation on the use of wiretapped evidence.

Taking away the citizenship of any person found guilty of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Eliminating the statute of limitations—which prevents prosecution for crimes after a number of years—in espionage cases.

A bill to permit use of information obtained by wiretapping as evidence in federal courts has been approved by the House. However, instead of providing for the wire tapping operations to be performed on the authority of the attorney general, the provision favored by Brownell, it would require a federal court order.

River Dragged For Body Of Missing Motorist

200 yards north of Myrtle Grove, ranges upwards to 25 feet in depth.

Hanchette said the car, tumbled by the current, bobbed out of the water about 100 yards downstream from where it left the road. It settled and wasn't seen again.

The highway employe's description of the auto checked with the color and make of the Henry car. He told officers that a gray Willys station wagon, driven by a woman, had passed him moments before at a high rate of speed.

Police called off the search Friday night because of darkness. They said that it's a certainty that anyone in the car is dead, and they refused to risk a drowning by working at night. The search resumed this morning at 7:30 o'clock.

The operations are centered from the point where Hanchette said the missing car finally sank from sight to eddy water about 150 yards down river. It's in the eddy where the water is deepest that officers think the car most likely will be found.

The state police launched a river boat belonging to Leo O'Mara, Dillard, at about 3:30 p.m., an hour after Hanchette reported the mishap. Later, deputies put another boat into the water. A 16-foot pike pole used by state officers barely touched bottom in the swifter water. Hooks also were put to use.

The bottom of the river at that point is littered with boulders, adding to the difficulty of the search.

Police were aided in the quest by several citizens, including O'Mara and Billy Mohr of Roseburg.

Cars lined the winding highway for more than a half-mile at the scene. A large crowd soberly watched police efforts at recovery of the automobile and its victim.

Mrs. Henry was 39. She and her husband, an employe of Umpqua Plywood Corp., have a son, James, 16, in high school, and a daughter, Rosalie, 14, in grade school. An older son is serving in the armed forces.

Glendale Lions To Get Charter At Meet Tonight

By MRS. G. B. FOX

The Glendale Lions' Club is scheduled to receive its charter in ceremonies which will be held at the Lodge Hall in Glendale tonight.

Some 200 persons are expected to attend, with reservations in from Medford, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Rogue River and Cave Junction. Robert Dames of Medford, district governor, and other district officials will be among the guests. The Glendale Service Club, organized only a few weeks ago, now has 45 local members.

Supper will be served to the organization members and their wives at 8 p.m. at the Glendale IOOF Hall by ladies of the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Mae Basye and Mrs. Elsie Meisner expect to leave this weekend for a vacation trip to the East. They will visit with Mrs. Meisner's son, Rule Meisner, who is with the FBI in New York City, and with Mrs. Basye's parents in Kansas. They also plan some sight-seeing in Washington D. C. and other places.

An interesting feature of the regular Rebekah meeting last week at the IOOF hall in Glendale was a game in which the group chose menus from several lists. The chosen menus were served but were not edible. Salted nuts, for example, turned out to be metal nuts, served on cardboard plates. Real refreshments were actually served, however, later in the evening.

Earl and Bobby Allen and baby daughter are now living in Tacoma, Wash. Allen, who recently returned from overseas service, is stationed at Ft. Lewis. He will be released from active service in June.

The Rev. Clint Wilkins and family left Glendale after the morning services last Sunday for a week's visit at Brentwood, Calif. They will return on Saturday. The Wilkins family were accompanied to California by Mr. and Mrs. Vestl Sewell and their two smaller children. The two older youngsters are spending the week with the Conley Heyne family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tittam and three children from Rogue River have recently moved to Glendale.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic and Naturopathic Physican, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

Chronic nephritis may develop from an acute nephritis that does not go on to recovery, or it may come on gradually from a low-grade infection of long standing or a chronic, low-grade chemical irritation. Persistent and heavy drinking of alcoholic beverages is also a causative factor. The damage done to the kidneys in the toxic pregnancy cases may be permanent, resulting in chronic kidney inflammation.

An individual with chronic nephritis may not realize that he has any serious kidney disease. The accidental discovery of high blood pressure may be the first warning sign. The removal of wastes from the blood by the kidneys is partly due to a filtering process, and blood pressure is necessary for proper kidney filter function. The increased blood pressure of chronic nephritis is due to the attempt of the body to compensate for the kidney damage, and, by greater pressure, to maintain the normal rate of waste disposal.

The kidney damage may have existed for quite a long period of time before the characteristic headaches, loss of weight, weakness, shortness of breath, and failing eyesight of chronic nephritis appear. The urine findings are not so characteristic as in acute nephritis. There is usually a large quantity of light-colored urine, but it may contain little or no albumin.

This disease may run a course of from two to twenty years, but is seldom, if ever, curable. Its final stages may be uremia, apoplexy, or heart failure. Uremia is due to poisoning that takes place in the blood stream from retained substances of which the damaged kidneys are unable to remove.

Many cases of acute nephritis are completely cured; but the disease may gradually develop into a chronic form, lasting over a period of several years before a fatal termination. In some cases it may terminate fatally within a few days. Nephritis following scarlet fever or during pregnancy is especially dangerous.

In acute nephritis there may be fever and great weakness. The urine becomes scanty, highly colored, turbid, or bloody. Albumin, pus, blood, and casts are present these can readily be detected and measured in the laboratory by urinalysis.
