Governor Dedicates Building

Rod, Gun Club Ceremony Held On Friday Night

A heart-warming welcome was rendered Gov. Paul Patterson by approximately 350 members and guests of the Roseburg Rod & Gun Club, then, the Governor, in return, offered a heart-warming message of conservation to the assembly at dedication ceremonies of the new Rod & Gun Club building.

The evening's main speaker, Patterson sketched first for his listeners a picture of association between the "great heritage" of this area and the attraction of its resources to migrants from less fortunate areas of the country.

And to the governor, the item or commodity mainly responsible for the different standards of living and the opportunities for individual and group progress is water.

"We must be proud of the fact that we have water; we have to learn how to use it, conserve it, care for it."

Continued the governor: "We should attempt to solve the problem of water conservation ourselves rather than depending entirely upon some federal agency to do this for us. We can't expect the water commission to do in one year what we have been doing our eyes for so many years."

Affirming the pride we take in calling ourselves the timber capital of the world, Patterson explained the association between the continued success and development of our timber industry and the effective use of water.

20 Die, Many Hurt In Quake

ATHENS, Greece (U. S. Press) — Greek officials reported Saturday the earthquake which struck Central Greece Friday and crumbled whole towns killed at least 20 persons and injured 130. More than 25,000 were made homeless.

Earlier official reports had the death toll as high as 150.

Light tremors continued throughout the day after the violent initial shock lasting 20 seconds. The Athens Observatory reported 38 disturbances, three of them violent.

King Paul and Crown Prince Constantine cut short an inspection of Army units in Thrace to fly to Volos in the Gulf of Pagasae, where the earthquake destroyed the town hall and split open a section of the quay. From Volos the king and prince will inspect the worst hit areas.

The quake disaster was the worst since the shocks that devastated the Greek Ionian Islands last August, killing up to 1,000 persons and destroying the homes of 120,000.

Car Prowlings Confessed By Probation Violator

A series of Roseburg car prowlings in January was cleared up this week with the confession of a 19-year-old Roseburg youth in Eugene.

Joseph Guse admitted to a probation officer that he and another youth were responsible for petty thefts from several cars here during the month.

Guse had been held in Eugene for probation violation. Circuit Judge William G. East revoked Guse's two-year probation, meted earlier in Eugene when he pleaded guilty to a burglary charge.

New York: When comes the month of April each year, the newspaper men of America swarm on Washington and New York much as bees swarm on the limb of a tree. First the editors in Washington. Then the business people of the newspapers in New York.

If you are of the school that grew up in the country, you will recall that when bees swarmed on a limb people came from miles around. They came because they wanted something the bees had, namely honey. It's much the same here in Washington and New York.

The newspapers BUY THINGS—machines and news services and comic strips and columns and pictures and such. So the people who SELL these things descend on Washington and New York in April in numbers almost as great as the newspaper men.

All in all, it brings quite a batch of people together.

For a decade and a half newspaper costs have been going up, but subscriptions and advertising have also been going up—some what more slowly, but still going up. Newspaper costs are still going up, but income is beginning to FLATTEN OUT.

That poses problems, and America's top newspaper people are ga-

It starts at 8 p.m. each evening in the Central Junior High School auditorium. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

The film, which runs for two hours, also shows the extensive Alaskan wild life and many natural scenic shots of the territory to the north. It was photographed in color.

The picture also depicts industry in the territory, and includes the break-up of Lake George, the world's only self-filling and emptying lake, a phenomenon brought about by glacial action.

County O-C Share Near Million

Hill Pleased With Appeals Court Decision

A federal court decision dealing for distribution of more than five million dollars to 18 western Oregon counties was "surprising" to Douglas County Judge Carl C. Hill, but he "can see no reason why the O & C counties should not be pleased with it."

Judge Hill, who is president of the Assn. of O & C Counties, said the move is satisfactory because such a distribution is one of the things the association wanted settled.

But, he said, the court decision does not settle the bigger problem of management of O & C lands. Distribution of funds from the 472,000 acres of disputed lands "is a great victory," the judge said, because the difference of opinion by the Agriculture and Interior departments as to management of controverted lands, particularly as to the methods of handling the allowable annual cut, still exists.

The only real benefit might be that the 18 western Oregon counties may get the money sooner this way, the judge said. Hill said "I

Long Fight Over OGC Funds Ends; Counties Favored

WASHINGTON (U. S. Press) — A U. S. Court of Appeals decision Friday ordering distribution of more than five million dollars to 18 western Oregon counties at least temporarily ends a long fight over funds from 472,000 acres of timber land claimed by both the Agriculture and Interior departments.

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court could hold back distribution of the money to the counties. The lower court's decision reversed an earlier federal district court order.

The lands involved have been the center of dispute for many years. They were part of a grant by Congress in the 1860's to the Oregon & California Railroad, and later taken back because the railroad violated terms of the grant.

Congress ordered proceeds from sale of timber on the lands set aside in a special account to be distributed to the counties.

The 2,000 acres became the subject of controversy between the departments of Interior and Agriculture on the basis of contentions that this land should not be included as OGC lands because it had been set aside by presidential order as national forest. Timber sale proceeds from this acreage have been set aside by presidential order until a decision could be reached on its distribution.

Judge Elijah B. Prettyman said in majority decision:

"It may well be, and probably is, true that upon accepting the proclamations of the President attached to the lands and they became forest reserves so far as their future was concerned. But that fact could not destroy the specific directions of Congress as

Lumber Strike Deadline Nears; Situation Poor

PORTLAND (U. S. Press) — CIO Woodworkers and several groups of lumber operators Saturday continued meetings in an effort to reach an agreement before the union's Monday strike deadline.

In negotiations with the union were the Lumbermen's Industrial Relations Committee, Willamette Valley operators, the Plywood and Door Manufacturers Industrial committee and the Tri-County Loggers Assn., Everett, Wash.

Federal mediators indicated Friday after a day-long meeting between the LIRC and the union that little progress had been made toward settlement.

A. F. Hartung, union president, said, "The situation looks very gloomy."

A strike would involve some 50,000 CIO Woodworkers in the Pacific Northwest and Northern California.

Employers, contending the industry cannot afford additional production costs, have rejected the union's proposal of a 12 1/2-cent hourly wage increase and other benefits.

Meanwhile, F. C. Nelson, the Southern Pacific Railroad's Portland district traffic manager, said Thursday's shipments of 965 carloads of lumber and plywood in Oregon was the biggest movement of its kind in the railroad's history.

Some observers took this to mean that employers were bracing themselves for a strike.

Eugene Miller, business agent for IWA Local 307, Roseburg, said Saturday that about 500 men in Douglas County would be affected directly in the event negotiations break down.

It also would affect the operations of the lumber mills: Douglas County Lumber Co., Associated Plywood, Stebbins Lumber Co., Wilbur Lumber Co., Weyerhaeuser Timber Corp. and Conifer Wood Products, a subsidiary of St. Helens Wood Products.

Miller said a local meeting has been scheduled here Saturday afternoon.

Henry Carstens Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

A heart attack Friday afternoon took the life of Henry (Hank) Carstens, one of Roseburg's leading civic figures, at a local hospital.

He was stricken late in the day while gardening at his home at 1225 Madrone Ave. Carstens had been owner and manager of Carstens Furniture Co. here since 1941.

He was a director of the Douglas County Housing Authority and also of the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce. Between 1945 and 1950, he served on the Roseburg City Council, and was a promoter in the office of such projects as the municipal airport, the swimming pool, improvement of Umpqua Park and betterment of street lighting. He also was past president of Rotary Club in Roseburg. Carstens also was a veteran of World War I.

Carstens was born in Payette, Idaho, April 8, 1896. He came to Roseburg, where he entered the furniture business, in 1941. Prior to that, he had been a salesman for a wholesale furniture firm.

Surviving are his wife, Flossie, and a son, Bill, both of Roseburg; a brother, Gus, Colfax, Wash.; and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Forber, Woodland, Wash., and Mrs. Jack (Dorothy) Hanigan, Payette.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Chapel of St. Rose, Roseburg. Burial will be in Roseburg Memorial Gardens.

Secret Talks Being Held On Vital Issues

American Diplomat Returns Home Sunday; Replaced By Smith

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (U. S. S. Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov went into a private huddle today to carry on their talks on President Eisenhower's plan for an international atomic energy pool.

It was the second meeting between the two top East-West diplomats since they came here for last Monday's opening of the conference on Far Eastern questions.

The meeting today was held in strictest secrecy. Molotov had indicated early this week he was ready to deliver Russia's reply to super-secret "concrete" proposals made by the United States March 19.

These talks between the Americans and Russians have been going on behind the tightest cloak of secrecy since Eisenhower proposed an international pool of atomic energy raw materials and know-how for peaceful uses in his address to the U. N. General Assembly last Dec. 8.

There is nothing that would prevent Dulles and Molotov from going over other problems, including the currently bogged-down discussions on Korea and the projected talks on Indochina here at Geneva.

Dulles has a full weekend schedule before he leaves Monday to return to Washington. This includes a meeting with Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, who is arriving today to head the U. S. mission at Geneva after Dulles departs.

On his way to Washington, Dulles first will stop off in Milan, Italy, to confer briefly with Prime Minister Mario Scelba on mutual U. S.-Italian problems.

Roseburg Booster Group To Form; Meet Wednesday

An organizational meeting for a local merchants' group, tentatively called the Roseburg Boosters Assn., will be held Wednesday, May 5, at the Hotel Umpqua.

Acting President Roland West said all Roseburg area businessmen are invited to attend the noon session.

A constitution and bylaws will be adopted, and officers elected at the meeting. Other temporary officers are Vice President Ed Nolte and Sec. Lowell Rhoden.

A committee is working on nominations for officer positions. On the committee are Alan Knudson, Harold Horn, Rod Neveus, Scott Kalien, Chuck Ricketts and Mabel Lewis.

The organization is designed, West said, to promote better business and a larger trade area for Roseburg and vicinity, coordinate spring and fall openings, bring in speakers to talk on trade problems, and so forth.

Previously, local merchants worked through the Chamber of Commerce in their trade relations, but it is felt a booster organization can do a better job without a tie-up with the chamber.

Members of the chamber feel the same way, and President Wayne Crooch and member Alan Knudson have been working with local merchants to lay the groundwork for the booster organization. Several meetings have been held already. Knudson said the chamber will continue to donate a small amount toward financing such work as putting up Christmas tree lights and decorations, work which will now be handled by the booster organization instead of the chamber.

Molter Served Warrant While Serving Jail Time

Vern Edward Molter, 32, Roseburg, who recently was involved in a hit-and-run and drunken driving escapade, received a 15-day sentence and $150 fine in district court Friday when he pleaded guilty to another charge of drunken driving.

Molter, serving 10 days from sentences out of municipal court, was charged with drunken driving on a warrant issued April 10, before the other arrest by city police here.

District Judge Elmer G. Baldwin also recommended Molter's driver's license be suspended for one year, after Molter pleaded guilty. Molter was cited on the charge after his car allegedly was involved in an accident at Glendale.

Molter received fines totalling $150 in municipal court last week on the hit-and-run and drunken driving charges. The warrant on the new charge was served on him while he was serving the 10 days he received in connection with the other charges.

The public is invited to the meeting.

Tract Of Timber Sells Far Above Appraisal Price

A tract of Umpqua National Forest timber located east of Cottage Grove sold Friday at far above appraisal price, but a second block 50 miles east of Roseburg went for the appraisal price in a timber sale in Roseburg.

Roseburg Lumber Co. was sole bidder on the second block, paying $20,210 for 2,550,000 feet of timber. Bid was the appraisal $8.20 per thousand for Douglas fir and pine and $1.20 for hemlock and other sawtimber.

The more northern sale attracted four bidders, and it was the Bohemia Lumber Co., Culp Creek, which entered the highest offer. It paid $134,647.50 for 9,770,000 feet of timber on Patterson Mountain. The parcel had been appraised at $79,688.

The company bid $16.35 a thousand for Douglas fir and pine appraised at $9.60, and $1.05 for other species appraised at $1.

Other bidders were Springfield Plywood Corp., Farmen and Sons Logging Co., Cottage Grove, and Guerrier Lumber Co., Springfield.

Carson Stresses Need For Industrial Development

By MERLE F. PUGH
Staff Writer, News-Review

While his political foe, Gov. Paul L. Patterson, spoke at the Roseburg Rod & Gun Club Friday night, governor candidate Joseph K. Carson Jr. of Portland told a capacity crowd at the Roseburg Woman's Club of Oregon's need for industrial development.

With quiet assurance, the short, round-faced ex-mayor of Portland outlined what he believes is vital to the state's industrial future.

Only at the end of his talk did Carson's voice tremble slightly as he peered through his heavy hornrimmed glasses and claimed, "We're out to win this fight. We're going to win, because we will offer the people of Oregon what they want."

Early in his speech at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner sponsored by the Douglas County Democratic Central Committee, Carson maintained, "We can all express our views without dealing in rancor." He practiced what he preached, and mentioned no opponents or Republican leaders by name during his address.

The unopposed Democratic candidate for the governor's race emphasized that "it doesn't matter whether Joe Carson, as an individual, becomes governor or not." The important thing is what candidates stand for.

Calling Oregon and export-import state, Carson said the state must do something to get its share of industrial development. "The state now has many natural resources which are shipped elsewhere for manufacture. The speaker urged methods of producing finished goods in Oregon."
