A slide projector, in the science room, showed a microscopic one-cell fossil which was further explained by the teacher, Loren Sneddon, who pointed out student papers on the subject. Mrs. Alice Lerwill's 5th and 6th grade room displayed hand-made models of farm buildings and feeding racks in conjunction with their studies on the livestock industry in the Days Creek area.

Johnny Ray, Once Rejected For Movie Job, Now Earns $100,000 In All-Star Film

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Five years ago, a broke would-be actor from Dallas, Ore., petitioned a studio for a job. He was rejected. Today he's back on the same lot working in a multistar film for a reported $100,000.

The young man's name is Johnny Ray and he's appearing in "There's No Business Like Show Business." He, Mitzi Gaynor and Donald O'Connor play the children of a show biz couple, Ethel Mermaid and Dan Dailey. Also in the cast is a girl named Marilyn DiMaggio.

"Imagine me with all those big noses!" Ray says in amazement. "Why, when I was here in 1949, I tried to get a job. They turned me down cold, and I don't blame them. I wasn't ready for it. That's why I don't feel sorry for young kids who try to get a break nowadays. Maybe they aren't ready either."

Twentieth Century-Fox was the only studio I tried. I still wanted to see the lot. So I walked right past the gatekeeper just as though I worked here. Noody stopped me. I walked all over the lot."

Wears Hearing Aid
I met Johnny at lunch, and he appeared handsomer than most of his photos make him appear to be. He also appeared more restrained than his professional singing would indicate, although he is given to emphatic statements, usually in bebop terms. He wears a hearing aid during conversation but takes it off while performing. He said he had some trouble in taking direction because of it, hearing, but that director Walter Lang is being patient.

"My only regret is that I have only one line with Marilyn Monroe," he said. "Otherwise I couldn't be happier. I play the son who abandons show business to become a priest. In the end, I marry Mitzi Gaynor to her boy friend. I have one number by myself — Irving Berlin's 'If You Believe' — and join in the big finale, 'Alexander's Ragtime Band.'"

"My one goal in life has always been to be a movie star. Ever since I saw my first picture at a or 4 — it was Edna May Oliver in 'Murder on the Blackboard' — I have been the world's greatest movie fan. I was nearly run over going across a street in Portland, Ore., to get Jack Benny's autograph one time."

Statistics for the department handling the program said a man steadily employed for 30 years could draw $35 a week for nearly seven years.

Portland Red Cross Instructor Scheduled

W. A. Rogers, Portland, instructor of Red Cross first aid teachers, will be in Roseburg next Monday evening to conduct a class.

The class is to meet in the chapter office in the Roseburg Armory at 7 p.m., according to Director Robert Allen. He said that more volunteers for first aid classes are needed, and may enroll Monday at the class.

What to do when an insurance agent calls

1. Go hide under the bed

He might be selling fire insurance, but your house couldn't burn down. Or could it?

2. Tell him you are in Pongo-Pongo

He might be selling accident insurance, but you couldn't have an accident. Could you?

3. Put up a sign that says "Measles"

He might want you to buy burglary insurance. But nobody would ever steal anything from you. Or would they?

4. Welcome the man!

Especially an Agent for one of the North America Companies. He stands between you and loss.
