Members of the Hi-Teeners class of the First Christian Church Bible School, the two were selected to represent the class on the tour sponsored by the United Christian Missionary Society of Indianapolis.

Members of the class worked at odd jobs and donated proceeds to help defray expenses of the two Roseburg delegates.

Delegates from eastern states are gathering at St. Louis, while members from the West joining the party in Texas. The tour is under direction of Charles C. Mills, national director of youth work for the UCMS.

At San Luis Potosi the group will take part in a work project with some of the Mexican young people in that area.

Several Arrests Taken Care Of

Jerry Webb Willis, 46, 1804 N. Stephens St., was free today on $500 bail while waiting to make a plea in district court on a charge of drunk driving, reports Judge Elmer Baldwin.

Willis was arrested by state police over the weekend. Arrested with him was his wife, Opal Elaine, 42, Baldwin said. She was released also after posting $100 bail.

Several other persons were arrested for drunkenness over the weekend.

Jessie Dean Carr, 26, Roseburg, posted $100 bail and was released Sunday after being arrested for being drunk on a public highway and disorderly conduct, Judge Baldwin said.

Francis Emelia Wick, 33, Days Creek, pleaded guilty to being drunk on a public highway and was released after paying a $25 fine, according to Baldwin.

Kenneth Wick, 30, Milo, was also arrested by state police for being drunk on a public highway. He pleaded guilty, paid a $50 fine and was released, Baldwin said. He was released on probation.

The $25 fine against Ace John Jones, 47, Canyonville, was suspended after he pleaded guilty to being drunk on a public highway.

Arthur Lee Dubel, 54, Sandy Creek Road, was sentenced to serve seven days in the Douglas County jail for being drunk in a public place, Baldwin reported. He was arrested by a deputy sheriff.

Gerald C. Hill, Wilbur, was in jail today serving a 10-day sentence for being drunk on a public highway. Ward C. Watson, Sutherlin justice of peace, said. He was arrested by a deputy.

Roseburg Lbr., Firmco Still In Operation raises of 5 cents an hour to members of LSW Local 2949, according to Mrs. Arthur Selby.

Final action depends on negotiations between the union and Roseburg Lumber Co. Union members agreed to go along with an agreement provided it's accepted by employes of Roseburg Lumber. The big plant at Dillard is still operating, as are other operations under the jurisdiction of Local 2949.

In the southern part of the county, Harbor Plywood Corp. was still struck this morning, but other mills were operating, including Stomar Lumber Co. and Riddle Manufacturing. There are nine union mills in the Glendale-Riddle area.

The big Umpqua Plywood Corp. operation at Myrtle Creek was still running Tuesday. Progress on negotiations was not learned.

In the Sutherlin-Oakland area, the three plants under jurisdiction of Local 2814 continued operation today, with negotiations continuing. Merle T. Taylor, business agent of the local, said news of negotiations would be released out of the Portland office.

As far as could be determined, all mills in northern Douglas County were running today. Most of the mills in the Drain-Yoncalla-Elkton area are non-union.

Little Change Seen In Northwest Strike

ern California felt the greatest effect of the strike, with fir operations most seriously crippled. Many Northern California, Nevada and Oregon pine operations were down, but the AFL-LSWU which has most of the Montana and Idaho workers did not extend the strike that far east.

A scattering of settlements was reported, some just before the strike started and some just afterward, but little optimism was taken from these.

Instead, the large firms repeated what they had said before: They would not agree to higher costs.

At Shelton, Wash., C. H. Bacon Jr., vice president and general manager of the huge Simpson Logging Co., put the attitude into these words: "We will not participate now or at any time during the progress of the strike in any settlement which establishes any cost increase pattern. . . . We will settle at any time on the basis of an extension of the current contract without a cost increase."

pending the effectof the U.N.-ordered cease-fire.

The delegation spokesman said a barge loaded with war material, machine guns, dynamite, explosives and small weapons had been captured by Guatemalan government forces at Puerto Barrios.

He said information received from his government Monday morning had stated another barge apparently loaded with similar material was standing off Puerto Barrios beyond the three-mile limit.

The spokesman also said government forces were in contact with the "aggressors" at Chiquimula on the Honduran border and they were driving them back.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. today in Portland for Mrs. Lilla Mallory Phillips, who apparently committed suicide in a hotel there Friday night.

Burial followed in Riverview Abbey. The Miller-Tracy Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Phillips, 42, resided at 915 E. Second St., Roseburg, before going to Portland. Her body was found Saturday by a hotel employe. The body was in a bathtub.

Dr. Dallen H. Jones of Roseburg Animal Hospital received a letter today giving instructions for disposition of Mrs. Phillip's dog, which was left at the hospital Thursday.

The letter, written Friday by Mrs. Phillips, directed that the dog be "put to sleep." She said the pet must not be given or sold to anyone else. The letter had been examined by the Douglas County coroner.

County Schools Reverse Trend; Pass Budgets

25 ballots for its tax excess of $36,387. M. C. Hedden was re-elected as director for a three-year term. Norman Weatherly was re-elected a director on the rural school board for a three-year term.

Drain's extra levy of $25,646 was okayed by a wide 84-4 margin. John Rundell was elected to a three-year directorship over Sidney Moore and Jim Whipple.

An amount of $32,392 was approved by a 66-38 difference in Yoncalla. Keith van Krevelen got 64 votes to take over a three-year term on the school board, beating Quentin Rycard. Edward Blomquist led three other candidates for a one-year term. He polled 52 ballots to win over C. M. Bice, Charles Timmons and Roy Dodd Jr.

Canyonville's voters carried a $40,835.80 amount by a 54-10 margin. Ed Oaks, unopposed, won a one-year term on the school board, and Paul Strahan beat Albert Bozz for a three-year term.

The Days Creek amount of $14,238 went over by 52-14. Francis Sincomb was elected to a three-year term as director, defeating Tom Epping, Bud Gaulke and Claude Howard.

Glendale people also had a money decision to make, but it was how to spend a $27,000 treasury surplus. Voters, by a count of 161-76 authorized it to be used for new bleachers and floodlights on the athletic field. Albert Vaughn beat George Mill for a five-year term on the school board; Glen Kafer defeated Loeta Fisher for a four-year term; and Lewis Brady beat Bert Day for a three year term.

Other districts contacted by The News-Review already had passed on budgets, so only school board members were elected.

At Sutherlin, D. J. Atterbury beat Mrs. Fred Waugh for a five-year term.

Howard Hatfield was re-elected to five years on the board at Glide. He was unopposed.

In the Dillard District, Ralph Fisher was named over Archie Huseby for a five-year term on the board.

Results from Reedsport, Camas Valley and other districts could not be obtained Tuesday morning.

School Budget Defeated Again In Monday Vote

Arthur W. Lamka Jr., who beat three opponents, Lamka had 483, just 10 more than Clarence Currier's 473. Kate R. McCarthy had 396 and John C. Cornilsen, 375.

Supt. M. C. Deller said the budget board will start meeting again Wednesday night in an attempt to pare the budget farther. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Central Junior High School.

School officials would say little about the path that must be taken in setting an acceptable budget. The new budget is effective July 1, and only nine days remain until that date.

Discussing the possibility of the district having to operate within the 6 per cent limitation, Deller said: "If we have to operate under the limitation, there's a possibility some of the schools will have to be closed."

He explained that $911,628.92 had been figured as estimated receipts for next year. However, $98,000 of that would have come from the school lunch program, which might have to be dropped. The difference would be $813,128.92.

That amount, added to the $362,976.78 which may be taxed without vote (inside the 6 per cent limitation) would give the district a budget of $1,176,105.70 if the schools have to operate this year without an excess tax levy.

School Board Chairman N. D. Johnson noted that the vote of 1,985 was considerably lighter than that cast on May 18, when 2,639 persons went to the polls. He said that the vote was cut down because many teachers now are on vacation, because PTA groups aren't meeting during the summer shutdown of the schools, and because many people are up in the air over the lumber strike situation. Johnson didn't run for re-election.

The big turndown of the serial levy indicated that inclusion of money on the school budget for site purchase may have been one big reason for the original budget's defeat. The budget committee cut out the items, extending options on two of three sites and submitting the third on the serial levy.

The serial levy was turned down in each of the eight school precincts. The budget was passed in two—No. 2 at senior high school and No. 3 at Riverside School. It received its worst beating in No. 4, Rose School, by a count of 269-135.

Lamka won only one of the eight precincts, but that was enough to carry him to victory over Currier. The senior high school voters went all out for him, casting 183 votes for him to only 68 for Currier. Bashford won all eight precincts for his three-year post.

Total on the defeated budget was $2,102,720.96, with the total levy figured at $1,298,092.04.

Douglas County Forest Lookouts Placed By DFPA

Douglas Forest Protective Assn. lookouts and fire suppression crews are ready for the summer fire season after a three-day training period at DFPA headquarters in Roseburg last week.

One hundred twenty-five people went through the school. They go to their stations this week, manning 15 forest lookouts and the several division quarters in the county.

State Forestry Dept. men were in Roseburg to run the classes, held annually just before lookouts man their stations. Part of the training course was held at the Mt. Scott Lookout.

The Umpqua National Forest guard school is being held at Wolf Creek Camp, up Little River, the early part of this week. About 50 men are in classes there.

The forest service, though, won't man lookouts until about July 1. Reason is that woods remain wet longer in the higher elevations. DFPA lookouts generally watch over the state and private lands in the lower elevations, while national forest timber is located higher.

Ray Hampton, fire control officer for the Umpqua Forest, again is in charge of the Wolf Creek school. He is being assisted by district rangers and their assistants.

Fire weather again is approaching after a couple of weeks of wet weather that damped down the woods which dried out during rainless May. Reports from both DFPA and the forest service reveal that condition of the forests still is not dangerous, however.

Lookouts, who work in the forester service only during the from as far east as Pennsylvania. Many are forestry students in colleges in many states.

This season, therr ill be 25 lookouts in the entire Umpqua National Forest.

A warrant was issued from municipal court Monday when a Seattle man failed to appear to answer to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, according to Judge Randolph Slocum.

Jack Melson, 26, had been released on $200 bail. He was arrested by city police Sunday morning.

Slocum meted a $150 fine and sentenced a five-day jail sentence to Fred Everett McCall, 38, Rt. 1 Box 1190, who was arrested Sunday night by city police on the same charge. His driver's license also was suspended for 90 days.

William B. Couch, 22, 4626 N. Stephens St., posted $150 bail after he had pleaded innocent to a charge of failing to leave his name at the scene of an accident. Officers said his unattended car backed across Stephens Street Sunday to smash out a window in the Hansen Motor Co.
