

Correspondent Jean Radcliffe Busy With Children, Writings

Children form the principal ingredient of Jean Radcliffe's life and likes. Mrs. Radcliffe, the correspondent from the Dixonville area, is the mother of four, grandmother of four, and perhaps could be termed "foster-mother" of the many children for whom she has started clubs, aided in 4-H work and generally supervised.

She has been a counselor at summer camps, and is at present actively aiding Albert, her 10-year-old, and Mike, her six-year-old, in learning the advantages of 4-H work. Her elder son, Dick, is the father of four children, and Grandmother spends many Sundays with the youngsters.

Perhaps second in her list of favorite pastimes, is the writing of poetry, short stories and articles and particularly of matching her wits with others in contests. She has admittedly won several of the latter, on subjects ranging from "What I like to cook best," to "What I don't like about my husband." She has sold several short poems to the Denver Post, in Denver, Colo. The Radcliffes hail from Colorado, where Jean wrote a column for one of the small weeklies there.

Tall, (five feet eight inches) Jean Radcliffe keeps a busy schedule, and remarks that before coming to Oregon some two years ago, enjoyed taking a turn on the skis. Since their arrival here, however, she has only had one opportunity to try her hand—or her feet—at it, and after the experience, sold all her ski equipment.

"I nearly broke my neck," she says, "and was thereby convinced that I am too old to be prancing around on skis."

Mrs. Radcliffe expresses more than enough energy gathering news for her columns, however "old" she may claim to be, and the energy pays off in news for and about her neighbors, her church and the community in which she takes so active a part.

Crowds Cheer Churchill At Perhaps Last Visit Here

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—They came by the hundreds to have a look at him — perhaps the last — and he obliged with all the rugged grace of a mellowed old bulldog.

They cheered and applauded from the picket fence of the White House to the sleek lobby of the Hotel Statler to the austere gates of the British Embassy.

"Attaboy, Churchill!" they cried, forgetting his knighthood, his 79 years and the decorum due the prime minister of Great Britain.

"Good old Winnie!" they called, remembering his American mother and his many visits — this was the ninth since Pearl Harbor Day in 1941.

They cheered the man and the symbol — the living pink and white, brassy, nipping, cigar-chomping legend of British-American solidarity.

"I am quite certain," he told them at a luncheon news conference Monday "that half the evils of the world can be prevented by our going hand-in-hand together and, if necessary, standing shoulder to shoulder.

Sir Winston had ignored his cold meat and potato salad luncheon to prepare his replies to the written questions submitted. His shell glasses slipped halfway down his short nose, his lips pursed in concentration. He read the questions and sorted them in stacks in front of him.

As he worked through the questions, he quoted from a speech he had made years before in England. Quoting yourself, he confided, was a good idea. It not only saved you the trouble of making up something new — "also it shows what a far-sighted politician you are."

He also mentioned television — "but still many like it" — and football pools — "I don't know whether you have them here" — and gave out some political philosophy: "I am not going to choose between Republicans and Democrats; I want the lot."

"Politicians who can't face unpopularity are really not worth having. They look like it for a time, but afterwards you will find that you have had much the worst of the deal."

There was general agreement that he had lost none of his power over words — nor his charm with people.

And he looked indestructible, but many watching him recalled he had already had two strokes and would be 80 next Dec. 3 and they kept asking themselves: "Is this the last time?"

Log-Truck Victim Is Getting Better

By HAZEL S. MARSH

Archie Huseby, who was hurt Thursday in a logging truck accident, is reported making satisfactory recovery.

He was taken to the hospital with a fractured vertebra and multiple bruises. He was hurt when the logging truck he was driving for Bob Starnier, went out of control and plunged down an embankment on the Little River Road. The accident was apparently caused by a break in the steering mechanism.

The truck has been taken to Portland for rebuilding. It was covered by insurance.

To Camp Tye

A group of Lookingglass young people left Sunday afternoon for Camp Tye where they will attend the American Sunday School Union Bible Conference under the direction of the Rev. Arthur Kelstrup, Roseburg.

Members of the Lookingglass group were: Mary Jean Buell, Lorna Vance, Ruby Ann Vance, Betty Jo Wylie, David Swift, Ned Nay, Louis Vance and James Jacoby. Tommy Vance is counselor.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Neilson and family moved into one of the Buell cottages this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Matthews left the last part of last week for Fairbanks, Alaska, to resume occupations following a month's vacation in the state. They visited relatives here, including Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Matthews and sons. They also visited Mrs. Matthews' mother in Southern California.

Mrs. Leona Buckle is making an extended visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Buckle, and children in Kellogg, Idaho. Mrs. Buckle went with her son and family to Peck, Idaho, earlier in the month for a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Robinson, former Lookingglass residents.

CHARGE DROPPED

A non-support charge against Milo Marland Claugton, 20, Camas Valley, has been dropped by the district attorney, reports Sheriff Calvin Baird.

Claugton was released from the Douglas County jail Saturday after having been arrested June 21.
