Three Roseburg Men Take Bath In Umpqua

Three men from Roseburg were tossed into the choppy waters near the mouth of the Umpqua River Thursday when their 14-foot boat was swamped.

The men were: Raymond Halliday, 645 Fall St.; Jack Fulmer, 153 Pleasant St., and Irvin Joshi, 1330 W. 3rd. They were pulled from the waters by Stanley Spooner, operating a commercial fishing boat. Coast Guard officials of the Umpqua area urged all fishermen to take precautions and check with Coast Guard on water conditions before fishing in the area, particularly over the July 4 holidays.

City Of Sutherlin Sells Bonds For Sewer System

The City of Sutherlin has sold bonds in the amount of $475,000 for construction of a complete sewer system and treatment plant, according to City Manager Hugh McKinley.

The bonds, set up on a 20-year repayment plan, were sold to the State Bond Commission.

A crew of engineers is due in Sutherlin early next week to begin a survey. McKinley said it is hoped some of the construction can be completed this summer.

At present, Sutherlin has no sewer system.

SLEEPING BEAUTY — Mandrake the Magician gestures hypnotically and Micki Eason, his subject, falls into the dreamless sleep from which she did not rouse for five hours. Miss Eason slumbered in the window of Modern Furniture throughout the Friday afternoon hours as prelude to the presentation of Mandrake's benefit show for Camp Easter Seal, crippled children's camp, and Camp Tsilcoos, Boy Scout camp. Mandrake's last appearance is scheduled tonight at 8 o'clock at the Junior High School Auditorium. (Paul Jenkins picture).

Glendale Sets Celebration, Fireworks On 4th Holidays

Some schedule changes have been made in the plans for the Glendale Lions Club fourth of July celebration in Glendale, reports Mrs. G. B. Fox, correspondent.

The city will start its celebration tonight at 8:30 at the Glendale City Auditorium with a dance. Benson's Orchestra from Grants Pass will play and Lester Huff of the Glenway Market is sponsoring the choice of a sweetheart for the dance.

Sunday's festivities will begin with a parade just after noon. Individuals and organizations have been invited to join with cars, bicycles, trieyeler and any other type of vehicle.

At 2 p.m., the Glendale town team will play Battle Falls on the Glendale Grade School diamond. It will be a non-league game.

At the same time, youngsters can join in contests and games at the edge of the field where they will not interfere with play. There will also be various amusement booths at the edge of the field. The booths are being built by Homer Tooley, John McDonald and Pete Smith. The Boy Scouts will sell hot dogs at the game, and profits will go into their treasury.

Another contest will be carried on through the afternoon at the Glendale City Auditorium. Climax of the big weekend will be the fireworks show at the high school athletic field at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. The assortment of showy fireworks will be handled by Ralph Haggard, John McDonald and Jack Day. Fire fighting equipment will be standing by in case of emergency.

Profits from the holiday program will go into the Glendale Youth fund.

Mandrake Most Talked Of Man

Mandrake the Magician was becoming the most talked of man in town with his marathon of performances over the city.

He started in Thursday with a quick performance in front of the Hotel Umpqua before piloting a new car through the city streets blindfolded.

He put on his regular performance at the Roseburg Central Junior High at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Then, he added another performance for the youngsters Friday afternoon. At noon Friday, he put a young Roseburg woman into a hypnotic sleep for five hours in the window of a Roseburg furniture store.

This afternoon, he was scheduled to give a free magic performance for youngsters at the junior high at 4 p.m. He will complete his in the saturation of the city by playing his last performance tonight at the junior high. It starts at 8 p.m.

The proceeds from his performances will go to a benefit fund for the new Boy Scout camp at Lake Silteos and to the crippled children's camp at North Lake which opened Thursday. The performances were sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Support Program Vote Conceded Victory For Ike

WASHINGTON — Senate supporters of the Eisenhower flexible farm price support program took heart today after a notable administration victory in the House.

"We are well on the way to completing a farm bill that the President can accept," said Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

At the same time, Senate advocates of continued high, rigid price props for basic field crops appeared taken back—for the moment at least—by House approval Friday of farm legislation embodying the flexible principle, although in a narrower range than that sought by the administration.

Sen. Young (R-ND), a leader of the high support faction in the Senate, conceded he was "greatly surprised" by the 58-vote margin by which the House late Friday approved, 228-170, a sliding scale of price floors ranging from 82 1/2 to 90 per cent of parity for five basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts.

Curtailed School Activity Vs. New Finance Method

ized at a maximum of $375 per student per year and that the educational program be tailored to meet this figure.

"2. That the public be fully advised that the school levies can be expected to increase about 50 per cent by 1960 and that the only way such an increase can be avoided is by reducing operating costs by curtailment of present educational program."

The school program next year already has been lowered below the recommended $375 a year—it's about $323 for next year, as seen on Friday. School men say this is a rock-bottom figure. And further, that operating costs be cut further.

The citizens committee will continue the study. It asked to be permitted to examine and amend the estimates at least once a year.

How can it recommend further cuts? It answers that question, recommending:

"That a subcommittee be empowered and directed to examine the annual cost per student for various types of divisions of the educational program such as athletic, art, music, academic, etc.; determining the per student cost of each student per year; and project such costs for the years 1954 to 1960 for the purpose of determining if it is advisable, desirable or necessary to curtail such programs for the purpose of reducing the annual cost per student per year."

The watchdogs are helping to develop the school program. The subcommittee of taxpayers has asked to continue study of school costs. It seems unlikely that not too many extra pennies will be tossed away.

In the final analysis, it's up to the parents, property owners, businessmen and the rest of the community.

But they must remember that the problem is here and must be faced.

Sutherlin City Hall Bids Being Received

Bids for construction of Sutherlin's new city hall will be received at the present city hall until 8 p.m. July 19, according to City Manager Hugh McKinley.

The one-story concrete block structure, will house two fire trucks, a dormitory for firemen, the recorder's office and a council chamber. The small building has been planned so a jail, library and more offices can be added at a later date.

The building will be constructed on the corner of Central and Umpqua Avenues, facing on Central.

Administration Conceded Win In Tax Bill Fight version would lose about $1,400,000,000 in revenue in the first year.

This loss would be largely offset in the first year by extension of the 32 per cent corporation tax rate to April 1, 1955. This would bring in an additional $1,300,000,000. Without the extension, the rate would fall to 47 per cent.

The Senate accepted most of the provisions in the bill sought by the administration, thus pretty well assuring the President a substantial victory in the final outcome.

The only major section in the bill badly mauled by the Senate was the one giving big relief to stockholders on dividend income. The Senate knocked out all but a small part of this benefit; the administration will get a chance to restore it in conference.

The administration succeeded in beating off four attempts in the week's debate to put into the bill a general tax cut for individuals. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said such an additional revenue loss cannot be sustained now.

The last effort came just before final passage vote when Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) moved to send the measure back to the Finance Committee with instructions to write in a relief for all income taxpayers.

The roll call vote was 62-35 against the Douglas proposal. Fourteen Democrats and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) voted for it, 21 Democrats and 41 Republicans opposed it.

Just ahead of Douglas' maneuver, administration forces beat down an amendment aimed to give farmers a substantial benefit in the purchase of farm equipment. The vote was 65-15.

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), floor manager for the bill who fought the proposal, asserted it would cost $40 million dollars in revenue in the next year. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), chief sponsor of the amendment, disputed this, offering the opinion the loss would not be more than 100 million.

U. S. National Deposits Approach $17 Million

Deposits in the Roseburg branch of the U. S. National Bank now stand at $16,974,423.38, reports H. E. Schmeer manager. The branch shows a loans and discount figure of $7,794,971.77.

The U. S. National marked up an increase in deposits of more than $40 million during the 12 months since June 30, 1953, he related. Deposits for the statewide system now stand at $640,338,281. Loans and discounts for the system are $237,295,630.

Growing in all phases of its banking activity, the U. S. National now lists total resources of $894,976,970, a gain of more than $12 million dollars during the past year, Schmeer said.

In the final analysis, it's up to the parents, property owners, businessmen and the rest of the community.

But they must remember that the problem is here and must be faced.

YOUR BODY
ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic and Naturopathic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

Enlarged prostate gland is especially likely to occur in men who have had frequent inflammation of the prostate in early life. Enlarged prostate is a true tumor formation and a certain percentage become cancerous.

The symptoms that are present due to prostate obstruction are usually very typical. They begin with frequency of urination during the night. At first the individual may have to get out of bed to urinate only once or twice. This simple condition may exist alone for two or three years; then frequency occurs also during the day. Work and pleasure are interfered with. Pain gradually develops which at first is a burning sensation, soon becoming cramplike at the end of urination.

If the urine is examined at this time it will be found to contain some pus and not infrequently blood. If at this time treatment is instituted, usually the severe symptoms will subside, but the frequency will persist, which means that the condition is not cured. If relief is not obtained or not sought, comp. etc retention of urine occurs, the individual cannot void any urine, and, unless relieved by catheterization, the kidneys may become damaged by the urine backing up into them from the overfilled bladder.

There are many cases where patients have had rational prostate care for many years. They had no more annoyance than having to get up once at night to empty their bladders although they had been told many years previously that surgery was necessary.

Although twenty five per cent of men past fifty years of age have prostate enlargement, only a small percentage of these really require surgery. The majority of men who have symptoms of prostatic disturbance causing bladder distress can be kept in comparative comfort for an indefinite number of years. More than half of the cases of true enlargement are associated with inflammation, and the enlargement producing the obstruction to free urination can be greatly reduced by proper early care. (Pd.
