Last Chance To Pass School Budget Wednesday

one more mill than for the 1953-54 levy. Of the amount, $362,976.78 would be within the 6 per cent limitation, requiring no vote.

School men say the budget would maintain the present school program with some reductions from last year. The budget total would be $1,100,720.96, of which $211,528.96 would be raised from revenue sources other than property taxes.

To turn down the budget levy, Supt. M. C. Deller points out that the schools would then operate within the 6 per cent limitation. Only the $362,976.78 mentioned above would be raised by property taxes—a load of approximately 13.5 mills.

The budget would be rounded out by other revenues from non-tax-raised sources of $813,624.50, making a total of $1,176,601.26. About $88,000 revenue would be lost through discontinuance of the school lunch program.

Besides the school lunch program, other auxiliary services would fall by the wayside, Deller told the district budget board on June 23. They would include all bus transportation, the health service and others.

As an important effect would be the probable closing of five rural elementary schools in Winchester, Garden Valley, Melrose, Edmondson and Riverside, plus the new Joseph Lane Junior High School.

The district, Deller said, may have to deny enrollment of first-graders in schools.

Class loads would be doubled in the rest of the schools, with double shifts in Wilbur School and Central Junior High School. Maintenance work on buildings would be curtailed, and allocations for supplies would be reduced seriously, said Deller.

Among the teachers, some elementary and junior high school instructors would find themselves out of jobs, and supervisory positions would be eliminated.

The budget Monday drew support from one powerful body in Roseburg: The Chamber of Commerce board of directors went on record as favoring approval. President Wayne Crook said: "It's our feeling that approval is vitally important to the community. We think that having a good school system and good educational program is a primary factor in attracting new industry to the city."

The Roseburg Junior Chamber of Commerce also urged voting in favor of the budget in a resolution passed by the board of directors Monday night.

Governors Ask Showdown On Big Road Program and as involving continued federal aid which a majority of the governors have opposed.

Fine said he thinks the states should "take advantage of the President's offer" only after a conference of the governors in Washington this fall where "the states determine once and for all what is meant by it."

Gov. Knight, also a Republican, supported the conference proposal—so long as the meeting is held after the November elections in which he is running.

But the Californian told his colleagues that they are going to have a figure out how the states can take the gasoline tax away from the federal government and still build a system of interstate roads such as the President suggested.

Gov. Dan Thornton, Colorado Republican who is chairman of the conference, told a panel meeting Sherman Adams, chief of the White House staff, had authorized him to say that Eisenhower is asking the government to come up with suggestions as to how to build the proposed system of highways.

Thornton said the President agrees the "primary responsibility" rests with the states.

Gov. Paul L. Patterson, Oregon Republican, told Fine he differs with him to the extent that "I don't think we can solve the problem simply by repealing the gasoline tax. There are many things the federal government still would have to do. National defense use of the highways, for trucks, guns and so on, are a proper federal expense."

Lumber Strike Talks Break Down Monday

such activities become serious, he warned, the union will extend the walkout into pine belt areas where a strike has been authorized.

Davis also charged that the employer committees have intimidated some operators, preventing them from signing wage increase agreements.

Employers have contended costs in the lumber industry do not justify any boost in production costs.

The Lumbermen's Industrial Relations Committee was expected to reiterate its stand to the AFL union's Puget Sound district council at a meeting scheduled for Seattle Tuesday and to CIO Woodworkers at a session set for Portland Wednesday.

Meanwhile new contracts were signed Monday for two plants in the Eureka area of Northern California. That left only three plants closed in the Humboldt Bay area out of 32 struck June 16.

The new settlements involve about 235 workers. They are between the Humboldt Lumber Co., Arcata, and an AFL local and between the McIntosh Lumber Co. and the CIO Woodworkers.

The Humboldt settlement provided a 5-cent hourly increase above the old $1.87 minimum. The McIntosh terms were not announced.

"This, as well as pressing European problems, will, I hope, be among the subjects of our conversations here, which are bound to emphasize to the communists the futility of their efforts to divide us."

The reference to European problems indicated Dulles expects to discuss plans for the six-nation European army which France has delayed placing before its parliament for ratification.

Dulles' flight here was in answer to an urgent appeal from Mendez-France. On leaving Washington Monday night, the American secretary emphasized that Paris was his present destination.

Livestock Tour For 3 Counties Thursday, Friday

The annual South Coast 4-H livestock tour, sponsored by county extension services in Douglas, Coos and Curry counties will be held in Douglas County this year, says Frank von Borstel, county 4-H extension agent.

Dates are this Thursday and Friday. Four-H members will be charged $4 for the two-day tour, and cost will include bus, transportation, insurance and three meals.

For Douglas County youngsters, the tour will start in Roseburg at 8:30 a.m. Thursday when the bus loads participants at Central Junior High School. Other stops for passengers will be at Sutherland Hotel and Elkton Roadhouse.

First point to be visited is the Anasima farm, eight miles east of Reedsport, where Guernsey dairy cows will be inspected. A stop will be made at Umpqua Wayside for lunch.

The Workman bull farm at Scottsburg is the next stop on Thursday. Hereford beef cattle will be looked over on the Comp-ton farm near Elkton. An overnight stop is to be made at the Howard Carnes farm at Elkton after corn and irrigation facilities are seen there.

On Friday morning, sheep on the Inda farm at Oakland will be shown to the group. Also in the morning, grass and tree demonstration plots at the fairgrounds in Roseburg will be seen. Lunch is scheduled in Umpqua Park.

Holstein dairy cows are to be pointed out on the Schulze farm, Lookingglass, in the afternoon. The tour will end at the Henry farm, Tenmile, with inspection of hogs.

Red Cross Closure Seen If $4,000 Not Raised

Portland is set up to collect blood from all over the Northwest and to disburse it quickly to where it is needed.

The Red Cross, as an official Civil Defense agency, performs at least two tasks to keep that organization on its feet. Its home nursing program, besides teaching women to care for their own families, is considered vital for relief in the shortages of nurses and doctors in the event of national disaster.

The disaster program has paid off already at three different times in Douglas County in this decade.

One hundred ninety-nine registered cases were reviewed following the 1952 flood. Baird pointed out, and $17,880 was expended for relief in this area. Aid also was extended to the amount of $7,500 in the 1951 Elgarose fire and $1,400 in the December 1951 Reedsport fire when 41 loggers were left homeless when their rooming house was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. R. E. Herman, executive secretary of the chapter and, incidentally, only paid Red Cross worker in the county, says that over 200 calls come in for aid to the local chapter each month. Not all are cared for, for the Red Cross isn't set up as a welfare agency. But calls for help from ineligible persons are transferred to the proper agencies.

The agency, in fact, is chartered by Congress under three conditions: 1. Volunteer aid to sick and wounded in time of war; 2. act as a medium of communications between men in service and people at home; and 3. act in times of national disaster.

ley to have the "greatest potential for kraft paper pulp among any of the 11 western states.

The association took no further action on the matter.

It did, however, decide to explore means of making the county better known. Rising out of the recent publication of 10,000 brochures by the Roseburg Chamber extending the Umpqua Valley, the association decided to prepare brochures for next year covering the whole county.

Jim Daugherty, Harold Hicker-son and Robert Hansen were appointed as a committee to prepare the brochures and study means of financing the project.

The association was also asked to test the reactions of the different communities represented as to the feasibility of setting up a county water commission. The purpose of the commission would be to help in the water survey which is being attacked this year by the county surveyor's office.
