

Portland-Seattle Airline Run Stopped By CAB

WASHINGTON — A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner recommended Monday Pacific Northern Airlines' authority to operate Alaska, be extended for seven years.

Chief Examiner Francis W. Brown recommended the service be authorized via Juneau, Yakutat and Cordova subject to the requirement that flights serving both Seattle and Juneau originate and terminate in Anchorage.

Other changes recommended: 1. Northwest Airlines be given continued authority to serve Anchorage on an unrestricted basis providing that the company's authority to serve the Far East is renewed.

2. The authority of Alaska Airlines to operate between Fairbanks and Seattle-Portland should not be renewed.

3. Pan American World Airways should not be authorized to serve Anchorage unless Northwest's Oregon authority is terminated, in which case Pan American should be allowed to serve Anchorage as an alternate co-terminal for seven years.

Brown said that in view of the volume of service now being provided by domestic airlines between Portland and Seattle, and the cost of operating even a minimum of service south of Seattle to Portland—along with the relatively small volume of traffic to be benefited—"there is no justification in extending Alaska flights south of Seattle."

Pacific Northern was authorized to serve Portland as a co-terminal with Seattle in 1951, and had applied for renewal of that authority. In general it has been serving Portland on one daily flight.

THINK YOU HAVE TROUBLES?—Here's a Columbus, O., family with a problem. They're hoping Congress will pass a bill to make their son, Bobby, 7 (center), eligible for citizenship. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods are faced by immigration laws that say the boy is an alien. Richard, 14 months, in his father's arms, was born in the United States. Mrs. Woods, a former German war bride, The Immigration and Naturalization Service has given Bobby's parents six months to raise the money to pay his way back to Germany. His parents, both American citizens, are carrying fight to Congress.

Portland Cellist Honored Sunday

A Sunday afternoon tea honoring Roman Dukson, first cellist of the Portland Symphony Orchestra, was held at the Episcopal Parish Hall. Highlight of the tea, according to the many music lovers present, was the playing of a Vivaldi sonata which featured Dukson as cello soloist. He was accompanied by a string quartet. Members of the quartet were Mrs. Martha Mulkey, first violin; Mrs. Doris Hall, second violin; Wendell Johnson, viola; and Mrs. Marcia Johnson, cello.

Dukson will be in town until the end of this week, conducting a workshop for string instruments. A workshop recital will be given Friday evening to which the public is invited, according to Wendell Johnson.

Johnson said the Friday program, which starts at 8 p.m., will include the entire string group playing Handel's Concerto Grosso, Number 2. It will be held at the Episcopal Parish Hall. A complete program will appear later this week.

Canyonville Receives Rights To Old Highway

An order was signed by the Douglas County Court Monday officially turning over part of the Old Pacific Highway in Canyonville to the city.

It was a supplemental order of surrender to an agreement between the state and city, which the city was given until July 31 to accept. The Canyonville City Council accepted the agreement July 19. Absolute jurisdiction of the old highway in the corporate limits of the city is now vested in the city.
