CHICKYWEEMAY GIRLS BUSY ON PROJECTS DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Chickyweemay Camp Fire Girls have been combining pleasure with service during these school vacation months.

Summer means garden work and the girls have been busily engaged in work at the Jackson Street triangle. The Chickyweemay group took over the two sections of the triangle in October 1952. One plot was planted with lawn and a future community Christmas tree, and the other with two-thousand plus bulbs and flowers. Much credit and praise is due these girls for the time and effort which has been given to make this section a place of beauty for the community to enjoy.

Plans are now underway for gathering of bulbs and seeds from the plants as their blooming terminated and placing them on sale in the spring. The proceeds from the sale would then pay for having the sections retolified again and for lawn seed to re-landscape the sections next year.

A wedding session is not all work, however, because it is combined with a sack lunch at noon and a dip in the city pool in the afternoon. Many such days have been enjoyed by the Chickyweemays this summer.

On July 9 a meeting was held to discuss plans for a slumber party and to exchange ideas for next year's projects. Materials were distributed for making 200 Labor Day menu covers for the Veterans Hospital. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

An out-of-doors, sleeping bag, slumber party was enjoyed, July 13, at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Robert Cartwright. An outdoor dinner preceded a splash party at the city pool with the remainder of the evening spent enjoying snacks, chatting and listening to popular music. During the early morning hours of the following day the group breakfasted and then hiked to the triangle to work in the flowers.

An over-night at the river is slated for this month and preparations are being made for a date which does not conflict with trips or working hours for some of the girls.

The Chickyweemays are: Diana Cartwright, Gerry Flink, Joyce Neavoll, Connie Meyer, Sharon Pepple, Karen Bartsch, Sharon Longton, Martha Dement, Judy Hansen, Kay Holcomb and the guardians, Mrs. Robert Cartwright and Mrs. Emil Flink.

POWER BEHIND THE SAW

Paul Bunyan and his blue ox were prophetic symbols of power... legends created by the men with axes and hand saws who felled the trees in early days of lumbering. They were dynamic and colorful figures, but their days are in the past.

The modern lumberman cuts his timber with power saws... quickly, easily and comparatively inexpensively. In ten counties of Oregon and California COPCO brings electricity to the switch at his fingertips. And from the fallen tree to the finished lumber, each step is a product of power.

Our great timber reserves, protected by intelligent conservation and reforestation, assure an unlimited future for the lumber industry. COPCO, a western partner, will continue to bring more power for progress with its continuing program of expansion and construction to help people produce more, have more and live better.
