Fierce Thundersquall Upsets Small Sailboats

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP) — A brief but fierce thundersquall capsized some 70 small sailboats in Marblehead Harbor Wednesday.

The wild, 20-minute storm might have spelled tragedy for about 100 persons but for the swift rescue operations of nearby speed boats whose crews took aboard the foundering yachtsmen. The worst injuries suffered were slight cases of immersion.

About 400 small boats were in the area taking part in and watching race week events when the 30-mile wind, whipped up by a thundersquall, struck and toppled the tiny sailboats like ten-pins.

The yachtsmen simply clung to their crafts until help arrived. Coast Guard rescue boats and helicopters sped to the scene but rescues had been effected before they arrived.

engineer, L. H. Young and Frank D. Morgan, assistant division engineers, and George Soliman, district maintenance superintendent. The party drove the new route from Divide to Roseburg, except for detouring at the Winchester river crossing.

Following arrival in Roseburg the party was entertained in the beautiful garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Fiegel, with dinner following at the Umpqua Hotel. The dinner was sponsored by the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce.

With Attorney George Neuner of Roseburg as toastmaster, the program was confined to brief talks by the visitors.

Speakers generally followed the theme expressed by Commissioner Reynolds who said that "Highway 99, from Portland to Astoria, will be one of the finest highways in the nation when the work now assigned is completed."

Improved Riddle Water System Begun Aug. 10

By ERMA BEST

Construction of the improved water system for the city of Riddle got underway Aug. 10, under supervision of Albert Steinmetz, engineer for the Corvallis firm of Cornell, Hays, Howland and Merryfield. The work is to be completed in 125 days from July 20.

Work Resumed

Work has been resumed on the construction of the Riddle post office after several weeks of delay while building code adjustments were made. Specifications have been changed to call for a one story building.

Mr. James Nichols, Mrs. Nichols and their four children, Rex, Ira, Susan and Lorelei, left Thursday for Escondido, Calif., where Nichols is stationed with the U.S. Navy, after a two weeks leave spent here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stille Nichols, and Mrs. Frank Hamlin.

Has Medical Treatment

Stille Nichols went to Eugene Wednesday from medical treatment at Sacred Heart Hospital where he expects to remain for several days.

Lloyd Lake of Berkeley, Calif., is a guest this week at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams.

Mrs. Don Pierce and three children of Sacramento, Calif., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Lou Rigby and other relatives in the area. Pierce will drive up later in the month to take them home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Hendrick and daughter, Gail Ann, spent the weekend at Diamond Lake with his sister, Mrs. James Briggs and family.

KILLED BY CAVE-IN

American Farms Studied By Turkish Delegates

about increased production and taking with them much literature. Moore said, and the men agreed, that Turkey is now in the midst of a tremendous industrial and mechanical expansion such as the U. S. A. experienced about 35 years ago. Their problem is to successfully change from manpower to mechanical power in agriculture.

They are here because Turkey's minister of agriculture, Nedim Okmen, chose them.

Turkey pays their salary and expenses to and from their native land. The U. S. pays travel expenses while here. It's on a loan basis, the men emphasize, and Turkey will eventually pay back all money.

Their trip began in Washington, D. C. June 22. After one week's orientation, they travelled to Kansas. There the climate is like part of Turkey's central area, Anatolia, relatively high and dry. And, the next stop was Oregon. The three months will end with two or three weeks' concentrated study of the veterinarian program in Ohio.

Ohio, incidentally, is the only area they will visit where agriculture and climate differ from Turkey's. They go there, says Moore, because Ohio's veterinarian program is the best organized in this country.

Here they are mainly concerned with their job — learning how to improve livestock production. Turkey, for example, has made tremendous gains in sheep production and, next to Australia, leads the world in export of mutton and wool.

In Turkey the export of turkeys is 60 million yearly to almost all mid-eastern and European countries.

What impresses them the most in agriculture? Nail Bascavusoglu, director of veterinary medicine in Ankara, chose 4-H clubs, home economics divisions and county agents, Osman Buyukkay, director of bacteriology in Istanbul, chose the "almost total absence of waste of human labor." He commented that "the head works, the machine works, but the body doesn't."

And Dilaver Bester approved the fact that women and girls on the farms prefer living there to the city; that they would prefer to marry farmers.

Finally, not in the line of agriculture, the visitors are not worried about Russia. They pointed out, through their interpreter, that Turks from 7 to 70 hate Russia, since that country has overrun Turkey many times. They are not worried about Communist infiltration.

Interpreter Semih Ustun is working for a master's degree in political science at George Washington University. He also works for the Voice of America in Washington, D. C. His father is press attache for the Turkish Embassy.

Milk Control Measure Assured Ballot Place

SALEM (AP) — The revised expense statement for the initiative to repeal state milk control was accepted Wednesday, so the initiative will be on the November election ballot.

The new statement, filed by Elmer Deetz, Canby dairyman who sponsored the initiative, is in more detail than the original statement showing the expense of circulating the petitions.

Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton had ruled that the first expense statement wasn't complete, and that the initiative couldn't go on the ballot unless a complete report was filed.
