Convict From Yakima Shot In Break Effort

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Louis Record, 20, Yakima, Wash., was shot in the back as he tried to escape a convict road gang near here Monday, James A. Brosky, the guard, reported.
Brosky told deputies Ernie Hartley and George Walker he fired a load of fine shot first, then the buckshot when Record kept running. A single pellet hit the prisoner who said he was sent up from Palm Beach with two five-year terms for armed robbery and burglary.
Record's condition was reported as fair at Duval medical center.

Saves Modesty As Well As Life In Auto Plunge

PASCO, Wash. (AP) — Mrs. E. J. Hansen escaped with both her life and her modesty Sunday. But it looked for a while like she would have to sacrifice one or the other when the family automobile slipped into the Snake River South of here.

Mrs. Hansen, 32, and her husband, from Mabton, had just finished swimming in the river. She got in the car to dress, when the hand brake gave way and the machine started to go into the river. Hansen said he shouted to his wife and she jumped in the front seat and tried to start the engine. But the car continued to slide in deeper water. Hansen said. She tried opening the door, but the water pressure kept it closed.

Finally Mrs. Hansen rolled down the window. But she hesitated because she was garbed only in her birthday suit. While Hansen shouted for her to get out, she ignored the treatise long enough to don a pair of overalls her husband had in the back seat. Then she grabbed her purse, her husband's billfold, and scrambled out—just moments before the car submerged.

White Slavery Count Sends Seattleite To Pen

SEATTLE (AP) — Gus L. Hüller, Vancouver, Wash., cafe owner, was sentenced to nine years at McNeil Island by United States Judge John C. Bowen Monday after pleading guilty to white slave traffic charges.
The 38-year-old former Seattle bartender was accused by United States Atty. Richard D. Harris of having operated "a placement bureau for white slave traffic" in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

Besides damage to the car, Mrs. Hansen said she also lost her wedding ring, valued by her at $300.
