Mary Schulze Is Crowned Roseburg High Carnival Queen; Weird Theme Used

Wearing a crown that was "Out-Of-This-World," Mary Schulze reigned over the Roseburg High School carnival Friday night, after topping seven other coeds in the ticket sales contest for the affair.

Miss Schulze was only one of several hundred "spacemen" occupying the Army which was decorated on an inter-planetary theme. Concessions and booths were named after planets and other astronomical terms and weird Mars-men and Venusians took turns at trying their skill and purchasing refreshments.

Advisor Ken Simon stated that approximately $750 (in earth currency) was gained from the event and has been earmarked to purchase caps and gowns for the graduating class of 1955. Simon and Mrs. Daphne Riffe were class sponsors and the student committee was headed by James Brooks, senior class president.

Jenner Warns Of Soviet Spies

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) said today the Soviet Embassy here directed establishment of Communist spy rings in "every part of the government" and within the United States.

Jenner said "the free nations must not be fooled again by the Kremlin's slogan of peaceful co-existence."

The Indiana senator is chairman of the Senate Internal Security sub-committee and sponsor of a resolution calling for a break in diplomatic relations with Russia.

He made the statement in announcing publication by the sub-committee of another volume of testimony taken in public hearing on Communist strategy and tactics.

Referring to reported Soviet talk of "peaceful co-existence," Jenner said "we let them fool us in 1933 with that phony slogan and re-establish their embassy spy center here."

He said the late Premier Stalin promised, in return for diplomatic recognition by this country, to refrain from "interfering with our government." But, Jenner went on, after Russia won that recognition 21 years ago, Stalin broke his promise.

"It was in that period that the first secret Communist spy ring in our government was established," Jenner said, referring to an alleged red cell in the Agriculture Department.

Possible Sale Of Associated Plywood Told

The status of the Associated Plywood sawmill south of Roseburg and other holdings in Douglas County in a prospective sale of all Associated Plywood holdings in the country was in doubt today.

District manager Ernest Wentz could not be contacted for comment since he is out of town. It was probable, however, that the Roseburg mill was also included in the sale.

The prospective sale was announced Friday from New York. United States Plywood Corp. announced that directors of Associated Plywood Mills has approved sale of its assets to U.S. Plywood. The sale is subject to approval of stockholders at a meeting Nov. 27.

The acquisition will be effected in exchange for 62,804 shares of new 4 1/2 per cent, $100 par value, preferred stock and 276,000 shares of common stock of United States Plywood Corp.

Associated has two Douglas fir plywood plants in Oregon with an annual capacity of approximately 150 million square feet of plywood. It also operates seven plywood distributing warehouses, and a sawmill. It owns 1,100,000,000 feet of standing timber in Oregon.

The plants, with an annual capacity of 150,000,000 square feet, are at Eugene and Willamina.

At Portland, industry spokesmen said the capital stock involved represents at least 15 million dollars.

Research Work To Be Explained

An explanation of how the Stanford Research Institute does its work will be given at the regular Roseburg Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon Monday noon at the Hotel Umpqua.

Speaker will be Patrick M. Dowling, manager of the Portland office of the institute.

N. D. Johnson, chairman of the forum committee, said he believes the program will be of special interest to members of the chamber.

No research organization has become more important in its field in recent years than the Stanford Research Institute, Johnson said, and its officials are outstanding in their line.

The chamber realizes that facts should determine strategy, he said, and facts cannot be obtained in a comprehensive manner without careful research. Therefore, chamber members should be concerned with the best methods of obtaining facts.

Five Alleged Trespass Cases Are Dismissed

Five cases involving alleged trespass by deer hunters, which have been hanging fire for 13 months, were dismissed Friday by District Court Judge Elmer G. Baldwin.

They all pleaded innocent when arraigned before the late Judge A. J. Geddes.

Bail of $100 each will now be returned to the men.

McCarthy Censure May Be Softened

Monday Seen As Target Date For Compromise

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders reportedly set a Monday target date for efforts to soften a censure resolution against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Monday was the day specified by an influential GOP senator who, asking to remain anonymous, said in an interview that unless McCarthy and his friends can agree by then on a compromise resolution "it won't be much use to try any further."

"So far, this senator added, McCarthy himself has not agreed to accept even the criticism involved in a proposed watered-down alternative to the direct censure recommendation now before the Senate.

The Senate itself was in recess over the weekend after a session Friday which saw McCarthy assailed as a spreader of "slush and slime" and defended as "the strongest voice now speaking out in America against communism."

During the debate Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican floor leader, seemed to be laying the groundwork for a possible Senate verdict differing from the censure resolution unanimously proposed by the special committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

Eisenhower Will Urge Approval Of Alliance

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — President Eisenhower will tell the Senate Monday that ratification of the Western Europe anti-Communist alliance to free and disarm West Germany would be "a very great step" toward world security.

The chief executive's press secretary, James C. Hagerly, told newsmen here Saturday that will be the substance of a special 2,000-word presidential message.

Eisenhower is in Ohio as the guest of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey hunting duck off Maumee Bay, 14 miles east of Toledo. He fired at ducks yesterday for the first time in 20 years and brought down the daily legal limit of four in half an hour. Then he bagged five pheasants, on which there is no limit.

The President planned to return to Washington late today. Tomorrow is Mrs. Eisenhower's 58th birthday.

The nine-power treaty Eisenhower will send to the Senate Monday was signed in Paris last month. It opens the way, upon ratification by all of the signatory nations, for restoring sovereignty to Allied-occupied Western Germany, and for German contribution of 500,000 troops to defense of Western Europe against any Russian aggression.

R. Arensmeier Gets Promotion To Medford Job

Ralph Arensmeier, Douglas County field representative of the Southern Oregon Production Credit Assn., will soon be transferred to a bigger position in the organization.

Irvin Patten, secretary-treasurer of the association, reports that Arensmeier has been boosted to the position of assistant secretary-treasurer. The position will be in Medford.

Arensmeier has worked as the Douglas County representative in Roseburg for five years. A successor has not yet been named. Patten said. He said, however, that a representative would maintain the office.

Arensmeier, while in Roseburg, has served in several community capacities. He has been Oregon State vice president of Gidsons International, a member of the Citizens' Lay Committee in the school district and a Sunday school superintendent at North Roseburg Church.

Mrs. Arensmeier and two sons will accompany him to Medford. Both Mrs. Arensmeier and her son, Dan, have gained recognition in Roseburg. Mrs. Arensmeier was the founder of the Nu Delta Club at Roseburg High School, and her son, a former News-Review carrier boy, is presently president of the Roseburg High School student body.

Russia Must Trim Demands, U. S. Declares

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States says the Soviets will have to trim their demands for changes if they want to participate in President Eisenhower's peaceful atom pool plan.

Russian objections to the proposed pool were presented to the U.N. last night by Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky. He said Moscow would like to take part — but on conditions the West so far refused to accept.

Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. describes Vishinsky's speech before the Assembly's main Political Committee as "a magnificent display of forensic fireworks but very little substance to them." Lodge said he would make a detailed reply early next week.

Vishinsky charged the United States and its atomic partners reduced the original Eisenhower proposal to a mere shell by:

1. Trying to set up an international atomic agency independent of the Security Council. The Soviets want the body subject to the council, in which they have a veto.
2. Attempting to make the agency a clearing house for moving fissile materials from one land to another. The Russian delegate branded this an infringement of national sovereignty.
3. Sponsoring a resolution which makes no provision for a prior pledge among the nations concerned not to use nuclear weapons in the future. Vishinsky added, however, that the Kremlin would make such a pledge a condition for joining the agency.
4. Failure to reflect the intent of the Eisenhower proposal by not considering methods for preventing use of atomic materials for warlike purposes.

Work Holds Up Well In October

Only minor mill shutdowns because of log shortages marred the Roseburg area employment scene in October, George Foster, district manager of the Oregon Employment Service, said Saturday in his regular month-end report.

Otherwise, employment in the area held up well through the month. Claims for unemployment insurance increased over the previous month, but were 32 per cent less than for October of last year.

Foster said that with the winter rains still holding off, work opportunities still are available in outdoors work. Loggers are making use of all available time to keep the log supply rolling before they have to shut down because of bad weather.

Construction work has had no decline, and employers indicate work will be available for some time to come. Retail trade and service industries are preparing for the Christmas rush and expect no let-up until after the first of the year.

Additional jobs, not of a seasonal nature, will be created with the opening of two new stores in the area, according to Foster.

Convicted Wife Slayer Faces Electric Chair

RALEIGH, Miss. (AP) — A convicted wife slayer faces death in the electric chair Christmas Eve.

A Circuit Court jury Friday found 59-year-old Ross Hawkins guilty of murdering his wife and then faking an automobile accident to collect insurance on her life.

The jury, which deliberated 15 minutes, refused to recommend mercy, making it mandatory that Judge Homer Currie impose the death sentence.

Better Fleeces Needed To Compete In Wool Market, Growers Are Told

Delegates to the Oregon Wool Growers Assn., meeting in Roseburg this week, were told Friday afternoon they must produce better fleeces if they are to continue in the sheep business.

J. M. Coon, Portland, general manager of the Coon Wool Co., told producers that they face a question now in whether they "want to continue treating their wool as a by-product and continue the downward trend in well-prepared wools. The time is here," he warned, "when the wool growers must get every dime out of their sheep business if he is going to stay in it."

Coon said producers are making a mistake in not "giving their clip the care that they give in the production of a fat lamb."

Marketing of domestic wool is falling off in favor of foreign imports because of bad fleece-handling methods, he declared. He explained that this was due in part to the close of the Commodity Credit Corp.'s purchase plan, in which each clip was appraised and purchased by the government on its own merits.

However, with the return of outright selling, Coon said, "it took just one year for the growers to slide back downhill in preparation of wools for market."

He put blame partly at the hands of wool buyers, who fail to offer premium prices for quality wool.

Coon urged development of better flocks for uniform fleeces, which are premium in fine manufacture. They are needed, he said, if the United States is to compete.

Party Line Vote Favors AEC Project

Decision Waives Need For 30-Day Waiting While Congress Meets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overriding Democratic protests, the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee voted Saturday for a immediate go-ahead on the controversial Dixon-Yates power project.

The vote was 10-8, following straight party lines with Republicans solidly backing the administration. The decision was a victory for President Eisenhower, who had urged the speedup so that construction could begin as soon as possible.

The effect of the committee decision is to permit the Dixon-Yates private utility group to proceed at once with final plans without waiting until 30 days after the incoming Democratic controlled 84th Congress meets.

Under the contract, the Dixon-Yates group is to build a 107-million dollar steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

The plant would feed electricity into the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority to replace power supplied by TVA for atomic plants in Paducah, Ky., and elsewhere.

Before actual work can be started, Dixon-Yates must obtain SEC approval on financing plans involving issuance of bonds and stock for the company which will be set up to handle the actual operations.

The committee's vote Saturday waived a requirement of the atomic energy law for a 30-day waiting period while Congress is in session. The delay, if it had been enforced, would have laid the contract over for consideration by the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress meeting in January.

The committee vote was delayed for a time when the committee agreed to reopen public hearings for testimony by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), a foe of the project.

Kefauver labeled the contract "dishonest," "fantastic" and "untruthful."

He predicted the contract would be involved in litigation for interpretation "time and time and time again."

But when he finished, the committee returned to its session and gave its approval to the plan.

Leaflets Tell Of Turkey Show Here Next Week

It rained leaflets in Douglas County Saturday.

The leaflets were dropped from an airplane carrying Dick Turley, manager of the Northwestern Turkey Show which will be held in Roseburg Nov. 18-20.

They contained information relating to the show.

The unique method of advertising was the brain child of Turley. He termed it "special air delivery in the county."

There were several other innovations for the forthcoming show which the manager said today would make it better than ever.

A new fire heater has been installed in the pavilion at the Douglas County Fairgrounds. Turley said the heater was a necessity since visitors at the show last year had urged the building be better heated.

Saturday morning workmen were putting the finishing touches on a barbecue pit and rack located in the main part of the pavilion. It will be used to prepare the turkeys for the barbecue, one of the concluding features of the show Nov. 20. Tickets to the turkey barbecue are now on sale at the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce, 244 N. Main St.

Following the barbecue, a free variety show, featuring students from the University of Oregon, will be presented. The show is being arranged by KRXL's Gordon Howard.

Turley said the show and all festivities broadcast at the 2nd turkey convave would be aired over a new sound system which has been installed at the pavilion.

Three Persons Suffer Injuries As Cars Collide

Three Douglas County residents escaped serious injury Saturday morning when the two cars in which they were riding hit head-on on Melrose road.

Both vehicles were demolished. State police cited the driver of one, Donald Isakson, 33, Box 1065, Roseburg, for driving in the left lane of traffic.

Isakson was reported in fairly good condition in Community Hospital Saturday at 11 a.m.

Occupants of the other car, John Walker, 42, and Frank Wright, 35, both of Rt. 3, Box 940, Roseburg, were reported in fairly good condition by the hospital attendants.

Walker was said to have received a broken jaw and lacerations on his hands. Wright was said to have head lacerations. Isakson had a lacerated lip and bruises, attendants said.

State police said the accident occurred about 7:30 a.m. on a sharp curve at Rocky Butte, about a mile out on Melrose Road. Investigating officers said the cars crashed head-on. Weather conditions had made the highway wet and slippery.

The officers said Isakson said he felt asleep at the wheel as he traveled west. Officers said the crash occurred five feet over in the left lane of traffic. Both Mohr Ambulance and Towing and P&B Ambulance and Towing were called to the scene.

An earlier auto collision on Stephens Street near Lane Friday afternoon caused minor damage to the two cars involved, according to Roseburg police.

Officers said a car driven by Robert Lee Rains, 16, Rt. 2 Box 234, bumped into the rear of one operated by Rose Sweet, 125 W. Cass St. Neither driver was cited.

City Officials To Attend League Meet In Portland

The roster of city officials who will attend the League of Oregon Cities convention in Portland Sunday through Wednesday was revealed this morning by City Manager George Farrell.

Mayor Percy Croft, who leaves office at the end of the year, will head the delegation. Councilmen Rudy Ritzman, George Luoma, Dr. Byron Woodruff and William Adair also signified intention to be in Portland on at least one day of the convave. All are holdover councilmen. Employed officials going include Farrell, City Recorder Mildred Hennessey, Police Chief Stan Olson, Fire Chief W. E. (Dutch) Mills, Engineer John Loozley and Building Inspector C. H. Bonolis.

Farrell said new members of the council, including Mayor-elect Ernest M. Barker Jr., hadn't informed him of their intentions by this morning.

Oil Drillers At 1,857 Foot Depth Saturday

Oil drillers in Melrose reached a depth of 1,857 feet Saturday morning, according to geologist Les Childs.

Childs said the drilling was now in hard, fine sandstone. There was increasing gas and oil show he added.

Right now drillers for Community Gas & Oil, Inc. are looking for a break in the sandstone. Childs said no test was needed at this time.

COMMITTED TO JAIL

Lloyd Raymond Hurlburt, 39, Roseburg, was committed to jail in lieu of $1,500 bail Friday after arraignment on a non-support charge, according to District Judge Elmer G. Baldwin. Hurlburt requested a preliminary hearing, the judge said.

Levy Fact Rant

By L. F. Reizenstein

With politics now mostly off the air, the listening public should now brace itself for the holiday season's annual onset of "Jingle Bells."

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

My colleague Charley Stanton of the News-Review has been talking with Les Childs, a geologist who has spent years exploring the mineral deposits of Southern Oregon, and he wrote a column about it the other day.

His column suggests some fascinating possibilities.

For example:

"Douglas County, Les predicts, will eventually have a very large and important mineral industry... He is particularly interested in Douglas County clays. He reports extensive deposits of clay of the type used in ceramics. Douglas County could supply the entire nation with dishes for many years to come, Childs says.

"Another abundant material is talc. Talc is to be found in many parts of Douglas County and in large amounts. Much of it is of a quality suitable for use in cosmetics."

Charley goes on with a discussion.
