

Dorothy Warenskjold Concert Here Monday

The appearance here next Monday night of lyric soprano Dorothy Warenskjold will mark the second in the winter series of community concerts under sponsorship of the Roseburg Community Concert Assn.

Miss Warenskjold, native Californian who has risen to fame in the music world, will appear on the stage of the Junior High School auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The gifted soprano grew up in a music-loving family, but never thought of being a singer until she was induced to play parts in student productions at Mills College, where she was studying law. Concluding then that she would rather sing than plead cases, she had set her sights on a musical career by the time she was graduated.

Her first opportunities came in radio, where she quickly established herself as a concert artist, and in 1945 made her first appearance with the San Francisco Symphony. She has since sung with such famous conductors as Dimitri Mitropoulos, Darius Milhaud, Fabien Sevitzky, Erich Leinsdorf, Maurice Abravanel, Thor Johnson, Bruno Walter, and others.

Attack Plane Shot Down Costa Ricans Report good account of attacking planes, knocking them down just as was done in Liberia.

(Costa Rica's delegate to the U.N. was informed from San Jose that invading forces captured two small port cities on the Pacific Coast. The delegate, Ambassador Benjamin Nunez, identified the cities as Puerto Soley, near the Nicaraguan border, and Puerto Cortez, in the southern part of Costa Rica. He said also invading planes had machinegunned Turrialba and Cartago.)

Costa Ricans troops launched an attack at dawn upon the armed band which seized the Villa Quiesada area Tuesday. There were unconfirmed reports—one brought in by a government plane from the front—that the troops had regained the town after a battle of less than three hours. The command headquarters, however, refused confirmation and said the action was continuing.

and read him a summary. After hearing it, Eisenhower said, he had some doubt as to whether Ladejinsky should be given security clearance. The President stressed, however, that he did not know what he called the other side of the story.

For example, he added, he didn't know Ladejinsky is the author of an anti-Communist book.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since Dec. 15, and the discussion ranged over many topics. They included:

- Nixon—Eisenhower praised Vice President Nixon who is under fire from Democrats for his campaign tactics. The President said Nixon is loyal and patriotic, and has assured him that Nixon never made any sweeping condemnation of any political party during the 1954 congressional campaign.

provision of $200,000 to pay for assistant district attorneys and stenographers to enforce non-support and fraud cases. It said many district attorneys "are so short-staffed they are unable to discharge their obligation" in such cases.

Other recommendations included:

- Legislation requiring a married daughter to contribute to the support of needy relatives on the basis of her husband's income.
- The right to subpoena witnesses in public assistance investigations and hearings.
- Memorials to Congress to permit welfare recipients to earn up to $600 a year, and to liberalize the social security law to provide an additional contribution to guarantee disability benefits before age 65.
- Delay divorce decrees involving child support until the address of the parent required to make support payment is known.
- Increase the one-year jail term for errant fathers to three or five years.
- More staff responsibility in administration of general assistance.

The committee, while "favoring the principle of greatest possible local control," said it feels greater state responsibility "will make it more certain that needed medical benefits are taken care of."

The state now pays 70 per cent of general assistance costs, and the counties 30 per cent.

Other members of the committee were Sen. George A. Ulett, Coquille; and Reps. Gust Anderson, Portland; Leon Davis, Hillsboro; and former Rep. A. C. Goodrich, Bend.

The Rev. Mr. Haldeman, one of the prominent evangelistic leaders in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, is currently conducting a series of campaigns in the Pacific Northwest. His home area is the Ohio Sandusky Conference. In recent years, he has been the speaker at the Oregon - Washington Conference Summer Assembly at Jennings Lodge.

Two trips to Europe and the Holy Land during the last four years provide the basis for interesting reports and the colored slides which will be presented at the beginning of each evening's service by the Rev. Mr. Haldeman. Mrs. Haldeman will use "Scene-O-Felt" lessons to teach the children in the church school both Sundays, Jan. 16 and 23.

Special music by various groups within the local church will be an added feature of each evening's program. Jan. 31 has been designated as "Youth Night," with the young people taking charge of the preliminaries and providing special music. There will be no services on Saturday evenings. Buchanan Lumber Firm Asks Timber Cut Permit

PORTLAND (AP)—The Buchanan lumber firm of Sutherlin is asking the Forest Service to open for cutting a large tract of virgin timber in the Windigo and Diamond Lake region of the Umpqua National Forest.

The firm, which has operations elsewhere, wants to build a new sawmill at Crescent Lake.

Chambers of Commerce at Bend and Redmond have advised the Forest Service they will oppose any attempt by the firm to bid on timber in the nearby Deschutes Forest. They contend that timber is needed for mills in that area.

J. H. Stone, regional forest supervisor, reported Tuesday that it will be weeks before any decision on Buchanan's request can be reached.

ination of the hot lunch program at the school and to make use of the cafeteria for classrooms; and (3) transporting of students to Lookingslass.

The solutions were presented to the District 116 School Board which also met Tuesday evening at the school.

The citizens recommended the school board take preliminary steps in obtaining a school site and making plans for an elementary school where it was most needed in the district.

McLennan said the advisory group realized present available funds were not adequate for more than purchase of a site and preliminary work. Citizens agreed it would be necessary to issue bonds for construction of a building in the near future.

District 116 board members suggested the advisory group to appoint a committee to look for school sites, McLennan said.

Solution to the overcrowding at the Dillard School was regarded as the most pressing need within the district, the chairman said.

Oregon Senators Question Power Company's Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recent Federal Power Commission action in the controversial Hells Canyon case was termed "high handed" Tuesday by Sens. Morse (Ind-Ore) and Neuberger (D-Ore).

The senators in a joint statement declared the commission "is permitting the Idaho Power Co. to shift the scenery and change the script" in the dispute over the private company's application to build three Snake River dams near a site previously selected for a single federal dam.

The statement referred to the commission's decision to defer action on a motion of public power groups to dismiss the application on grounds plans for the three dams were changed during and after last year's hearing on the case.

The commission recently announced it would not act on the motion until after an FPC examiner has ruled whether the company should be authorized to go ahead with the dams.

Morse and Neuberger charged the company and the commission staff had been permitted to "juggle and rewrite the company plan for three small dams."

"This is high-handed action which places an intolerable burden upon the intervenors advocating the high dam. We question whether this recent action of the commission meets the elastic definition of due process of law."

on Highway 99. The badly cut up road would also be widened near the bridge to allow log trucks to make turns onto the highway. It is at this point the right-of-way is needed.

The county also offered to replace the wooden bridge on the same road, with a steel span. It adjoins Forrest Road. This action is also contingent on securing the right-of-way.

Three other items were brought up at the meeting. The council granted persons who purchased buildings at Myrtle Manor until Feb. 15 to remove the buildings.

It was also voted to pay city personnel every two weeks instead of once a month. It was resolved that papers are being taken out to put city personnel on social security.

Finally, it was announced that Leo Wilbur, a sergeant in the Myrtle Creek reserves, has been employed as a new policeman.

Parts for the forthcoming production, "The Night of January 13th," will be cast at the Thalia Community Players' Thursday night meeting.

Rehearsals will get under way almost immediately for the mystery which set Broadway on its ear a few days ago with its unique ending.

Mrs. Dick Ogden, spokesman for the group, said today that 20 parts will be cast, and while no one part is of great length, all are vital to the unfolding of the story. The meeting place will be 522 S. Stephens at 7:30 p.m., and Mrs. Ogden urges all aspiring thespians to attend and try out for the parts, whether they belong to the group or not.

A recognition ceremony for Red Cross volunteers in the Douglas County chapter will be held Saturday in the ARC offices in the Armory, according to Mrs. R. E. Herman, executive secretary.

Mrs. Herman said she expects more than 100 volunteers to be honored by the presentation of pins and bars. They will include canteen workers, production workers, staff aides, bloodmobile workers, first aid and water safety volunteers, gray ladies and others.

They are: Mrs. Madge Gazley of Myrtle Creek, who has been a volunteer 30 years; Mrs. Helen Lewis of Reedsport with 20 years of service; and Mrs. Kate Sewell, whose volunteer service not only stretches back out of the reach of memory, but she also claims fame as the oldest living University of Oregon graduate. Mrs. Sewell now lives in Salem but will be here for the meeting.

Officer Training Offered 4-H Clubs In Douglas Co.

Officers from approximately 124 4-H Clubs in Douglas County are attending officers' training meetings this month.

The young people began assembling Monday when the first such session was held at the Reedsport Grade School for west Douglas County clubs. The meetings are being held in conjunction with or are sponsored by the four leaders associations in the county, according to county 4-H agent Jane Gates.

Purposes of the meetings are to help the 4-H officers understand their duties and responsibilities. Special emphasis is given in parliamentary procedure.

All told, the youthful officers represent nearly 1,200 4-H club members.

First such training meets were held in 1954, Miss Gates said. Due to the good response to the initial venture, it has become an annual event, she added.

Persons attending the training sessions are divided into sections according to the offices represented. Each section is directed by one of the county agents or an adult leader.

Other county area 4-H officers and leaders associations will meet within the next week. North Douglas Leaders Assn. will meet Wednesday night at the Drain Grade School. The following evening the South Douglas Leaders Assn. will gather at the Canyonville Grade School.

Concluding meeting will be held Jan. 19 when Central Douglas leaders will attend a session at the Douglas County Fairground's Pavilion.

Frenchmen Drink More Milk On Per Capita Basis

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—With all this recent talk that Frenchmen should drink more milk and less wine, you may be surprised at the figures reported by Oregon State College dairy experts.

They said the Frenchmen already consume more milk and milk products than Americans.

The per capita consumption was 703 pounds in France in 1953, compared with 682 pounds in the United States, the college reported.

In fact, 11 other countries led the United States in per capita use of milk. Ireland and New Zealand headed the list with 1,382 and 1,349 pounds respectively.
