School Children Get MOD Cards In Polio Effort

Protection against polio may be available to the 3,700 first and second graders enrolled in Douglas County schools before summer.

Roseburg's March of Dimes Chairman Elmer Baldwin said Wednesday the youngsters were in the "highly susceptible age group which will be the first to receive polio vaccine."

Vaccination is not mandatory, he added, but it will be offered to all children, subject to parental approval.

The polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk is now being extensively evaluated. If proven an effective protection against polio, it will be supplied without charge by the MOD, Baldwin added.

Administration of the vaccine will probably be handled through local medical and health groups, he said, although details are yet to be worked out.

Right now the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is stockpiling large quantities of the vaccine. The stockpile will contain enough to safeguard nine million children. It will be administered before the summer's polio epidemic season, if the Salk vaccine is given the green light.

Oakland School Board Slates Budget Meeting

Leo Sparks, chairman of the Oakland School Board, today announced that the second meeting in the formation of the new school budget will be held Friday at 8 p.m. He called for a turnout of citizens when the budget board and school board meet to consider items on the new budget.

Oakland was one of the two cities in Douglas County last year in which a special tax levy to fill out the school budget was defeated. Voters there, as in Roseburg, turned down the levy on the first try. A special levy was approved later in the spring.

Wheat Growers Referendum Vote May Come Sooner

WASHINGTON (AP)—The annual referendum to determine whether wheat farmers want acreage allotments on next year's crop may be held earlier this year than heretofore.

Under the permanent marketing quota law as it existed prior to last year, the Secretary of Agriculture had until July 1 to issue a proclamation declaring the necessity for quotas and announcing proposed acreage allotments.

A referendum to determine whether two-thirds of the farmers would vote for the quota program, thus entitling them to obtain price supports of between 75 and 90 percent on their production, was to be held not later than July 25.

The last Congress changed the law to provide that the secretary must issue his marketing quota proclamation not later than May 15.

The referendum deadline remains under the amended law as July 2, but it can be held earlier in view of the fact the secretary will issue his proclamation much earlier than under the old law.

The referendum might be held this spring or in early summer, the Kansas said.

SALEM (AP)—Gov. Paul Patterson appointed a committee Wednesday to aid in settling refugees in Oregon.

Master Sergeant Faces Collaborating Charges

ET. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—A Pennsylvania master sergeant stationed here has been charged with collaborating with Chinese Communists and informing on his fellow soldiers while a prisoner of war in Korea.

The Army said Wednesday that Sgt. William H. Olson of Youngsville, Pa., was given papers informing him that he will be brought to trial on a charge of violating article 104 of the uniform code of military justice on eight alleged acts.

If found guilty on any one of the eight charges, the public information office here said, the maximum penalty could be death.

Sgt. Olson, who was also a prisoner of the Germans during World War II, was charged earlier with perjury for allegedly falsely swearing that he had not collaborated with the enemy while a prisoner in Korea.
