Ex-Navy Frogman To Attempt Swim

VICTORIA, B.C. — A 275-pound, 29-year-old former U.S. Marine plans to join in attempts to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca this year. Bert O. Thomas, now a Tacoma logger but formerly an instructor of Navy frogmen, will make his attempt in April or May. His plans were disclosed by Hugh Evans, Island tug and barge captain who will navigate for him. A trial run in water only two degrees warmer than the Strait will be made next week — from Vashon Island to Tacoma, a distance of four miles. The Strait between Victoria and Port Angeles is 18 miles wide with cold temperatures and tricky currents. Florence Chadwick, conqueror of the English Channel and other long stretches of water, failed in an attempt last summer to swim the Strait. She plans to try again.

U. S. Assembles Young Olympic Jumping Team

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. — The youngest U. S. Olympic ski jumping team ever assembled will challenge the world's greatest riders in the 1956 winter game at Cortina, Italy. For the first time, teenagers broke the hold of the veterans in the U. S., three of them winning berths. They are Rudy Maki, 19, national champion from Ishpeming, Mich.; Dick Rahol, 19, 1953 national Class C titlist from Iron Mountain, and Ragnar Ulland, 17, 1953 Class C champion from Seattle and the youngest rider ever to win a U.
