Brooklyn Eagle Placed Up For Sale, Says Owner

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank D. Schroth, publisher of the 114-year-old Brooklyn Eagle, says the paper is up for sale.

Schroth made the statement Friday after a meeting with state mediators on the possibility of putting the strikebound paper back into operation.

Schroth announced on Wednesday that because of the 47-day strike by the CIO American Newspaper Guild the paper would not publish again.

There is not the slightest chance," the publisher said Friday, of the Eagle resuming operations.

Dollar-Patterson Co. Pays High Timber Price

Dollar-Patterson Lumber Co. of Glendale has paid a record-breaking $44 per thousand for four million board feet of timber in the upper Cow Creek area, according to District Forester E. K. Peterson of the Medford office of the Bureau of Land Management. It was the highest price ever received for Douglas fir timber in that district, Peterson said.
