

Crown-Zellerbach To Build Plant For Green Veneer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Crown-Zellerbach Corp. will build a $750,000 green veneer mill on the Columbia River near Portland, Ore., president J. Z. Zellerbach announced Tuesday.

Describing the mill as a start toward a "full fledged plywood operation running eventually into several million dollars," Zellerbach said work will get under way in the near future and the plant will be completed in about six months. Zellerbach said the mill will be designed to produce about 87 million feet of green veneer three-eighths of an inch thick annually. Eighty people will be employed at the start.

The market will include plywood producers in Oregon, Washington and possibly California, Zellerbach reported.

Ex-Officer Sentenced For Masterminding Holdup

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A former policeman must serve five years to life on a robbery sentence for masterminding a holdup by three juveniles.

Paul S. Rhines, 26, former Oakland, Calif., and Anchorage, Alaska, policeman, pleaded guilty to first degree robbery. He was sentenced Wednesday.

Rhines helped disguise the juveniles Feb. 9 and told them to rob Pasadena car dealer Robert Cass of $1,250. Rhines had just paid him for an auto, police said. They said the juveniles got $550 and a wrist watch in the robbery and then started on a crime spree which ended a week later when they were arrested in Bakersfield.

Officers said the youths picked up two juvenile girls and another boy and stole three cars, robbed a woman, and kidnaped a man.
