Portland Man Confesses Attorney's Bomb Slaying

he was there, Wolf wired the bomb to the starter, Langley quoted the confession.

Smith was killed when he tried to start the car.

Wolf was picked up as a suspect because Smith had reported Wolf's license number to police after the March 10 ambush. Smith said that he did not want an arrest made. Wires found in Wolf's car were similar to wire used in the bombing of the Smith car, Langley said.

Wolf, according to the confession, planned to shoot the attorney March 10 with Smith's gun, which the woman gave him. But, the electrician said, he was afraid to use the gun and decided to try to club him to death, instead.

Smith told city Det. Sgt. Myron Warren after the assault that he suspected Wolf because "he kinda likes my wife."

Wolf told police he first met Mrs. Smith in October, 1954, while staying at a rooming house she owned. Langley said Wolf told him they became intimate and within a short time, she proposed the remarriage-murder scheme.

Wolf, who worked in a railroad yard, told a reporter Saturday:

"I wish I had never met her. But I still love her."

Of the plot, he said, "All the time I knew it would never work out, but for some reason I did it."

Langley quoted him as saying that as a cover for planting the explosives, Mrs. Smith invited him to her home Wednesday to fix a swing and playground equipment for her daughter.

In the rear of Wolf's car police found a half dozen books about life in Alaska. Langley said Wolf told officers he and Mrs. Smith planned to take the insurance money and make their home in the territory.

Chou Would Negotiate Tense Formosa Situation

the United States as he did in the formal statement, delegates present said.

Burma's premier U Nu, who has assumed the role of an East-West negotiator and plans a trip to the United States, called Chou's statement "a good step toward ending world tension."

Prime Minister Nehru of India refused immediate comment.

The statement was not issued at a regular conference session and many delegates did not know about it.

There was no elaboration from Communist sources at the conference on what Red China would consider a basis for negotiations concerning the Formosa area.

On Tuesday Chou told the conference the danger of war is increasing in the East and West. He accused the United States of trying to create tension in the Formosa area and overthrow the Red regime in Peiping.

Chou defended as just, what he called the determination of the mosa, now the island stronghold of the anti-Communist regime headed by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Chou said Formosa "is entirely a matter of our internal affairs and the exercise of our sovereignty."

Last Feb. 3 Red China rejected a bid from the United Nations for talks on a cease-fire in Formosa Strait. Only this week U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said he could see no merit in suggestions that the United Nations take up the Formosa question at the present time.

Chou's statement was timed a day ahead of the scheduled arrival in Formosa of Adm. Arthur W. Radford head of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, and Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robinson. They will confer with Chiang on Sunday, presumably about the hot question of the U. S. position on defense of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Chou did not give out the Formosa statement himself. It was distributed by Kang Mao Cho, Red China's chief press representative at Bandung.

Symphony Group To Give Concert Sunday At Drain

The Roseburg Symphony Orchestra will present its first out-of-town concert this season Sunday in Drain.

Sponsored by Drain businessmen, the free, public concert will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium there.

Featured soloists are Prince E Schaeffer, William Jelski and David France. Schaeffer will sing. He is band director at Drain High School.

Jelski, oboist with the orchestra, will be heard in the Handel Oboe Concerto.

Young France, a senior at Roseburg High School, will play the second movement of the Haydn Trumpet Concerto. France was one of the finalists in the young artist's contest sponsored by the Roseburg Symphony Orchestra Society earlier this year.

Arrangements for the Drain concert have been handled by Mrs. W. F. Carlson, Drain, a member of the RSOS board. The symphony is directed by Wendell Johnson. The group will be heard in Roseburg May 3. It will be the concluding appearance of the orchestra this year.

Dancer Guilty Of Trying To Get False Testimony

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — William Colombany, a Los Angeles dancing school instructor, Friday was convicted by a Federal Court jury of trying to obtain false testimony in the Cecil Wells murder case here in November 1953.

The jury took only two hours to reach a verdict after hearing a local musician, Robert Caffee, testify Colombany asked him to give false information to officers investigating the slaying of Wells, a prominent businessman.

Caffee said he was asked to give information that would "take the heat off Diane Wells" the slain man's wife, and implicate Johnny Warren, a nightclub employe, more deeply.

Mrs. Wells and Warren were both indicted for the murder. The woman later committed suicide in Los Angeles and Warren has never been brought to trial.

Federal Judge Vernon Forbes said he will pass sentence on Colombany, who faces a sentence of up to three years in prison, within 10 days. Colombany's attorneys said the conviction will be appealed.

Bulganin Favors Top-Level Parley

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikolai Bulganin said Saturday he favors a "parley at the summit" but the date depends on President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden.

Bulganin told this to Western correspondents at a gala reception given by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the Spirodonovka Palace for a Polish government delegation. The Poles are in Moscow to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Soviet-Polish mutual aid treaty.

Bulganin was questioned by Western correspondents around a buffet table.

He was asked if the Soviet proposal on a Big Four foreign ministers' conference to sign the Austrian state treaty might be followed by a meeting of the four heads of government.

"Ask Eisenhower and Eden about the date," Bulganin replied "I have made my position clear."

"Do you mean by that statement that you are of a positive attitude toward a Big Four meeting" this correspondent asked.

Bulganin nodded.

This was taken by Western correspondents to mean that Bulganin is ready to meet with the three Western heads of government when the date is set.

Portland School Gets Bomb Threat In Latest Terror

PORTLAND (AP) — The second high school evacuated in this area in as many days was emptied Friday morning because of threat of a bombing.

The 1,750 students of Lincoln High School, west of the downtown district here, were marched out of the building after a man had telephoned that a bomb would be exploded in the school cafeteria unless he received $100.

Audrey Jones, student secretary, said she took the call at 10:20 a.m. from what sounded like a middle-aged man. When principal Olin Wills cut in to get instructions about how to pay off, the man hung up.

Miss Jones quoted the man as saying the explosion would occur at 11:45 a.m. Wills contacted Police Chief James Purcell who advised that classes be recessed until 1 p.m. while police looked for a bomb.

Thursday the 1,800 students at Vancouver High School, across the Columbia River, were evacuated after a woman telephoned the principal that a bomb would explode in the building unless $45 was left in a downtown park. No bomb was found and classes were resumed Friday morning.

Two days before that a similar bomb threat was made to Lake Stevens High School near Everett.

Police believed the threats may have come from cranks inspired by last Friday's explosion and extortion attempt at the Meier and Frank department store here.

Also Friday, Tolt High School in the Puget Sound area was evacuated on a bomb threat that failed to pan out.

Extent Of Avery's Victory Uncertain

CHICAGO (AP)—How bad a beating Sewel Avery gave Louis Wolfson in the battle for control of Montgomery Ward and Co. was the only question remaining today.

Election inspectors began counting the votes cast at Friday's annual stockholders meeting. The final decision will not be known for about three weeks.

Sewell Avery won. Louis Wolfson lost. The only point was how many friends Wolfson would have with him at Ward's director meetings.

Wolfson said he took at least three seats, leaving six on the nine-man board for Avery. The Avery forces contended Wolfson took two, leaving seven for Avery.

Actually, neither side could be sure. It would all depend upon how many of the votes cast would be valid. Each side undoubtedly had proxies which were automatically revoked when the same signers sent proxies with a later date to the other.

Ward's meeting was adjourned until May 13. On that date the election inspectors will report on the total number of valid votes cast, and how they were distributed.

Fong Says He Last Saw Diane Night Of Jan. 6

PORTLAND (AP) — Wayne Fong testified at his first degree murder trial Friday that he last saw Diane Hank alive the night of Jan. 6, 1954.

Fong and his wife, Sherry, are accused of slaying the 16-year-old Portland high school girl. Her body trussed in blankets, was found in a roadside ditch near Washougal, Wash., on Feb. 26 last year.

Sherry Fong told police earlier that the girl spent the night at their home and that the last she saw the girl was when Diane left for school the following morning.

Brownell States Truman Was Lax On Racket Laws

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell told a banquet audience Friday night that the Truman administration was lax in its enforcement of anti-labor racketeering laws.

Brownell was the principal speaker at the annual Lawyers Week banquet sponsored by the Southwestern Legal Foundation.

Brownell spoke of 20 years of "toleration of labor racketeering" but cited only examples from the Truman administration.

The attorney general stated that although racketeering in labor unions has existed for years that only 23 individuals were indicted during President Truman's two terms. In contrast, he said, there have been 149 such indictments since the beginning of 1953.

Brownell declared that "the lack of law enforcement in this (labor-management) area was an open invitation to hoodlums and gangsters to infiltrate and to capture control of the business on the one hand, or of the labor organization on the other, or both."

He said that whenever this happened, always there was ruthless extortions of business and exploitation of union members.

The attorney general cited at length prosecutions in the St. Louis and Illinois areas and the New York waterfront situation, but said "there were many other communities in 1953 infested with similar industrial and labor racketeering."

Pat Ward Breaks Arm In Tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Ward, key figure in the conviction of wealthy Minot F. Jelke on cafe society vice charges came home from a date early Saturday with a broken arm.

Police said the 21-year-old former call girl told them she slipped and fell in Greenwich Village as she was getting into a car.

At the girl's lower East Side tenement, her mother said Pat took the tumble on a village sidewalk, when she and her date had stopped in the village to investigate a squeak in his car.

The mother said Pat, who had been associating with a group of motorcycle enthusiasts, came in near dawn after getting the arm treated at a hospital.

"When she came in," the mother related, "she said right away, 'Don't worry Mother.' I was so worried about those motorcycles and Pat told me how it happened."

Vaccine Shortage Seen For Oregon; More Hoped For

PORTLAND (AP) — The allocation of Salk vaccine to Oregon will not give even the first shot to eligible children and has been strongly protested, the State Board of Health reported Friday.

In a letter to all county health officers, Dr. Harold Erickson, state health officer, pointed out that the allocation was based on 90 per cent of eligible children getting the shots.

But in Oregon more than 90 per cent have been signed up by their parents. Instead of the 76 140 cubic centimeters allocated, 81,738 will be required, Dr. Erickson said the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was told.

Meanwhile, since shipment date for neither the first nor second shot has been set, county health officers were urged to caution those signing up late that they faced longer delays than those registering their children promptly.

Although there is no certainty when the vaccine will be available, the state board said it remained hopeful that an increased allocation would be made.

Many counties had planned to start inoculation of first and second grade puoils Monday. The state board said there was small chance of this date and advised cancellation to some future time, still to be set.

Judge Informally Holds Helser Violated Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The trial of the J. Henry Helser Co. of Portland, Ore., which began April 4, ended Friday with an informal decision from Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman that the company had violated the investment advisers law.

But Judge Goodman said he would withhold any injunctive action to allow the company to show voluntary compliance in the future. He indicated he would order a continuance of one year.

He said he was prepared to accept a voluntary "undertaking" by the company in which it would set forth specifically future policy.

Securities and Exchange Commission counsel Franklyn Kennamer objected. He said "in view of the deeply imbedded practices of deceit, misrepresentation and fraud . . . characteristic of the company," an injunctive order should be issued.

He said if the SEC had such an injuction it could supervise the Helser operations to protect the public. He also asked that the court reach a finding on the company's past violations.

Robert Burns, Helser attorney, strongly protested to a written finding of that nature, saying it might result in action against the company by state regulatory bodies.

A long discussion, brought an agreement that allowed Kennamer to aid Helser in mapping company practices.

Falling In Love Much Like Being Hypnotized

LONDON (AP) — Falling in love is a lot like being hypnotized, a leading medical hypnotist said Saturday.

Dr. S.J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists cited these similarities:

1. A lover appears indifferent to the attractions of others. A hypnotized person pays attention only to the hypnotist.

2. A lover is easily swayed by the opinions of the loved one. A hypnotic subject is influenced by the suggestions of the hypnotist.

3. Love can change the habits of a lifetime. So can hypnosis.

Writing in the British Journal of Medical Hypnosis, Van Pelt said that there was a solution for unhappy lovers plagued by headaches and sleepless nights. Go see a hypnotist.

Richard Thomson Trial Will Resume On Monday

NEWPORT, Ore. (AP) — The trial of Richard Thomson, charged with assault with intent to kill his former business partner, was in recess Saturday.

The trial will resume Monday.

Thomson is accused of striking James Mueler with a lead pipe and then sending him in a car over an ocean cliff. Meuler was seriously injured but recovered.

This is the second time Thomson has been tried on the charge. He was convicted the first time but released from prison when the State Supreme Court ordered a retrial.

U. S. Public Health May Study Mosquito Control

ponds differ between the adjacent counties of Douglas and Lane, where the problem is similar, Miller pointed out. Types of equipment vary.

The County Health Dept. here has spent the past five years in developing what it believed the best possible control program. Some of the county's equipment even has been built here to meet local conditions, such as that of reaching into cold decks to spread spray. Work with cold decks started only three years ago.

The problem hasn't been as acute in other areas of the timber belt, and some counties such as Coos and Curry just now are becoming aware of need for increased mosquito control.

What might be done was beyond the guess of Miller.

He said if the request is accepted, it may mean that a team of specialists from the Public Health Service will be here to conduct the study.

Miller estimated it would be the latter part of May before it's known whether the study will be made.

Ogden took photographs and other material to Atlanta for the staff conference.

Meanwhile, the local mosquito control program is under way, having started Monday.

Spraying in ponds with DDT is the first phase of the program, and a chemical, dieldrin, will be used later in the year. Also later, chemical fog will be used in cities and recreation areas of the counties to get rid of adult insects.

Climacteric, a word derived from the Greek meaning, refers to critical stages in one's life.

The male climacteric, a term which has come into use only within the last few years, means a physiological change in men which, according to the term, should be expected to occur at a farily regular time of life in all men.

However such a definite period does not exist. Some cases appear in men before the normally expected atrophic changes, others in men well past middle age.

The production of the elements of the cells which have to do with sexual potency reaches its highest level between puberty and the age of twenty-five, maintaine this level for from five to ten years as a rule then gradually declines. This decline becomes more rapid between the ages of forty and fifty until at sixty, in numerous instances but by no means all, it approaches that level which existed before puberty

The parellel of this process in the female is the rise and decline of the female productive elements of the ovaries.

This so-called climacteric in the male is by no means a grouping of sexual symptoms and disturbances alone. More often than not professional counsel is sought for the other manifestations characteristic of these symptoms. These symptoms should be divided into three groups; nervous and mental manifestations, circulatory disturbances, and sexual disturbances.

Most men describe a feeling of tension, an inward tremulousness. They are irritable and easily angered. Insomnia is frequent. Numbness and tingling of the hands and feet is a common complaint. But most important are the mental disturbances, the decrease of memory and ability to concentrate, and the presence of a depression which may reach the stage of melancholia. The circulatory symptoms are characterized by a sudden redness of the face and neck that is akin to blushing and is due to the sudden dilation of the superficial blood vessels of the skin. There may also be increased heart beat with irregularity or palpitation.

The sexual symptoms may be overshadowed by the above mentioned and these symptoms may be elicted only upon questioning. However, they are always there and may include a complete loss of desire and or loss of sexual potency. On the other hand the reverse often exists, and the primary concern is of the sexual disturbance, the nervous and circulatory symptoms being secondary. These symptoms are, to some degree found in all individuals at this time of life however are often unrecognized. (Pd. Adv.)
