11-Point Plan Recommended By Sec. Of Welfare Hobby For Distributing Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration this week asked Congress for 28 million dollars to help provide polio vaccine for poorer children. It stood firm for voluntary distribution methods despite elements in Congress demanding federal controls.

Secretary of Welfare Hobby presented and President Eisenhower adopted an 11-point program keyed to state control of distribution with:

THE NEWS-REVIEW

in state borders. Mrs. Hobby would advise the manufacturers how much vaccine should be sent to each state, based on child population.

The 28-million-dollar federal fund would help the states provide vaccine for children of low income families.

Mrs. Hobby presented her report in an hour-long meeting with the President. She made no reply to congressional criticism, mainly from Democrats, who have charged the administration was "bungling" the program—both in failing to provide government distribution and to set up adequate safety standards.

Afterward, while posing for photographers, Mrs. Hobby replied with a smiling "no comment" when asked about published reports she might resign.

Here in brief are Mrs. Hobby's recommendations:

1. The Public Health Service "must have every facility, including necessary additional funds and personnel, to insure maximum precautions in testing the vaccine for safety and potency."
2. All current distribution should be aimed at completion "at the earliest possible date" the National Foundation's free immunization program for first and second graders.
3. The vaccine should be administered for the time being only to children of the 5-9 age group.

4. The secretary of welfare should "direct on a national level the division among the states of the entire output of Salk vaccine as pledged by the manufacturers."

5. Vaccine supplies should be allocated to each state on the basis of the number of children it has in the 5 through 9 group until all those children have been vaccinated.

6. Each state governor should designate a single agency to direct the distribution of vaccine within the state.

7. More funds should be given to the Food and Drug Administration for "vigorous enforcement" of laws prohibiting sales of the vaccine outside authorized channels for prescription drugs.

8. Medical organizations should do all they can to make sure doctors (A) vaccinate and issue prescriptions for children within the priority age groups, and (B) doctors keep a record for each child showing the age, date of vaccination, place on body of vaccination, name of vaccine manufacturer, and lot number of the vaccine.

vaccine.

9. Manufacturers and all others concerned with distribution should keep careful records showing where every shipment goes.

10. Congress should make funds available to states for the purchase of vaccine "or, in lieu of funds, the vaccine itself." These funds "must be sufficient to pay the cost of vaccine for children through age 19 in low income families." The funds would be used between the end of the free immunization program and the end of 1956.

11. Eisenhower should designate a special committee for further study of ways to help other nations get Salk vaccine.

Mrs. Hobby said the latest industry estimate is that enough vaccine will be available by July 1 to make possible two inoculations for all children in the 5-9 age group.

A further estimate said July 31 should see enough vaccine. "If no delays develop" to give approximately 29 million persons two shots. This represents "about 94 per cent of children from 1-9."

The report said the supply was expected to increase steadily so that enough would be on hand next Jan. 1 for two inoculations of nearly 60 million people.
