

ARMED FORCES DAY in Douglas County was being observed today without great fanfare. Most recognition was along the lines of the display above in the J. C. Penney Co. store window. The display was set up by the local National Guard infantry unit. Other displays could be seen at the Toggery, Miller's and J. C. Sporting Goods in Roseburg. Here and over the nation, the sixth Armed Forces day was keyed to the theme "peace through power." Public displays included some of the latest weapons. Gates of U. S. military installations here and abroad were thrown open to receive an expected five million visitors. President Eisenhower invited all Americans to take advantage of the day "to become better acquainted with the armed components of our national power for peace." (Paul Jenkins picture)

The contestants must be residents of Douglas County, single, and from 16 to 21 years of age, according to an announcement made by D. Loyd B. Rapp, publicity chairman of the event. The profits from the Timber Days will be turned over to the Sutherlin Park Board for use in bettering the park facilities, Dr. Rapp said.

YOUR BODY

ROSEBURG, OREGON — These health articles are written and paid for by Dr. B. A. SMITH, Chiropractic and Naturopathic Physician, 1500 Garden Valley Road, in the interest of public health and to help you understand the body function. Look for these informative articles every Saturday.

Mucous colitis is a chronic inflammation of the large bowel of colon in which great masses of mucus are discharged in various forms. There may be a slimy mass of indefinite composition which, on testing, proves to be almost pure mucus. Or there may be several silver-like long threads which may be suggestive of intestinal worms, or an entire cast of the intestinal lining may be thrown off at once in the form of a ring the size of the portion of the colon from which it was separated.

In children, there may be an associated disturbance of digestion. There may be a slight colic. Mucous may be discharged in older individuals as a cancerous process in the colon or rectum. It may be a secretion neurosis found in hysterical or neurotic individuals. The condition is the result of a highly nervous condition, and the appearance of mucus shreds or casts in the stool will excite the person to a higher nervous state. Thus is established a vicious circle which is a trying situation to break.

Emotional disturbances, worry or indiscreet diet may bring on an attack. Overfatigue must be considered as a cause. Very often there is a condition of spastic colon associated with this disease. Abdominal pain and the passing of mucus in the stool are usually the first symptoms. Occasionally one mistakes the shreds from some type of food eater, such as asparagus, sausage skins or other similar structures with mucus from the bowel wall. Constipation is usual but there may be diarrhea. There is usually considerable pain at the time of the separation of the mucus shreds from the colon wall and due to irritation of the denuded area after the separation. The entire abdominal wall is generally tender and distress is noted upon pressure.

The probability of clearing up this condition with complete recovery depends greatly upon the individual. However if the condition is properly recognized and proper care of the body is instituted the prognosis is usually good. Mucous colitis is a chronic state of congestion of the colon which has been built up over a period of years, more commonly in highly nervous individuals and the entire mental problem and emotional outlook must be corrected before a cure can be assured. Ex-Suitor Slays Expectant Mother, Commits Suicide

WEST NEW YORK, N. J. — A beautiful young housewife, expecting a second child in a week, entered a store at dinner time yesterday to buy fish for supper. She was outside walking a man who had been refused when he asked her to marry him in 1950. Unknown to her he had lived nearby more than four months. Minutes later, Mrs. Joan Empson, 28, was lying dead on the floor from four bullets and Alfred T. Carpenter, 35, of Hollis, N.Y., had ended his life nearby with the same pistol, police said. An emergency caesarean operation by a doctor with a butcher knife failed to save the baby, who died 15 minutes later. Carpenter's body was found in his rented furnished room around the corner from the store. Near his body were a diary, recording in detail the activities of Mrs. Empson and her husband, William, 29, an insurance underwriter; and a pair of field glasses which police believe were used to watch her movements. Although the room which Carpenter rented last January was within sight of the Empson home, relatives said she was not aware he was in the neighborhood. She had not seen him since 1950 when she married her husband.

Bank Friday, was back at his post Saturday after pleading innocent in East Boston district court to a charge of indecent assault. Judge Augustus Loschi declined a request of Winthrop police to set bail and said it was the custom in the cases of servicemen to turn them over to their commanding officer. He set next Thursday for hearing. Winthrop Police Chief William F. Pumphrey ordered a blockade at the fort gate Friday morning after Army officials refused to release Schmidt for the alleged assault on a 16-year-old Winthrop girl. Col. Philip B. Stines, commanding officer at Banks, had declined to release Schmidt until a request was made through proper channels—the district attorney's office.

Truckers' Strike Effect May Spread Eastward

(Continued from Page One) service to the public "as long as they are able to do so." Brewster asserted the slowdown by trucking companies was an "arbitrary, illegal combination in violation of the law and haunts the public interests." In reply an industry spokesman said the union's contention was "all nonsense." "The entire industry was struck," he said. "The union singled out three firms, out we say when one company is struck the entire industry is struck, and therefore we cannot continue operations." Officials of both the trucking industry and the union said they are attempting to continue shipments of hospital supplies, perishables and government freight including mail. The struck trucking firms are Consolidated Freightways, Pacific Intermountain Express and the Pacific Motor Trucking Co. The walkout and lockout climaxed a month's futile negotiations. The employers' latest offer was 5 cents an hour more this year and for the next two years and pension benefits. The union said it was rejected almost unanimously. Old contracts gave drivers $2.14 an hour or 7 1/4 cents a mile, whichever was greater. Large grocery and department stores reported no effect as yet and railroad lines have reported no increase in business. Some shippers and receivers anticipated the tieup and planned ahead for it. Other effects of the strike included: In Jefferson City, Mo., an official of the Missouri Bus and Truck Assn. said they and the Denver-Chicago Trucking Co. have stopped handling shipments to and from St. Louis and Kansas City. There was no dispute among truckers in that area. One Los Angeles firm reported a serious shortage of medicine stocks and an ice cream plant was forced to shut down when milk deliveries ceased. In Seattle there is no interruption on special truck mail service between Seattle and Portland which Consolidated Freightways Co. handles.
