nie Hicks, Leon Patterson and Richard Heller. The wedding took place June 3 at the First Christian Church with the Rev. Newell Morgan officiating. (Picture by Gene Powell, Master Studio).

A myriad of fall tapers encircled the balcony and altar of the First Christian Church for the candlelight double ring ceremony uniting Miss Joyce Dean Hicks and

William George Clarenbach II in marriage Friday evening, June 3. The Rev. Newell Morgan officiated.

The lovely bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father, L. B. Hicks. She wore a traditional white satin wedding gown, the bodice of lace with seed-pearl trim and a full satin skirt which fell into a long court train. Her fingertip tiered illusion veil edged with lace was caught in a Juliet cap of white satin and lilies-of-the-valley. She carried white orchids fastened to her white Bible.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were Little Miss Sherry Patterson of Drain, as flower girl, gowned in bouffant, white nylon and carrying a white basket of rose petals, and Master Bobby Guy, ring bearer, wearing dark trousers and white jacket and carrying the rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride's three honor attendants donned identical ballerina gowns of crystaline. Maid of honor, Miss Janice Saar, wore mint green; Miss Loya Hicks, sister of the bride, wore shell pink, and Miss Rosanna McCarthy wore shrimp. All three attendants carried old-fashioned bouquets of white Esther Reed daisies.

The candles on the altar were lighted by Ruth Ann Thomason, in mint green, and Marsha Heller, from Richmond, Calif., in pink. Their frocks were floor-length bouffant nylon organdy. They wore wristlets of Esther Reed daisies of a contrasting color.

Best man was Ronnie Hicks, and usher duties were assumed by Leon Patterson of Drain and Richard V. Heller of Richmond, Calif.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Machy Eason of Dillard sang "Benediction" and while the newlyweds knelt at the altar she sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Frank Poole was organist.

Miss Phyllis Sutton was in charge of the guest book. The church was beautifully decorated by Mrs. C. A. Ricketts. Miniature frosted wedding bells centered in bows of white satin ribbon were fastened to the pews. The wild fern, laurel and ivy combined with spring flowers transformed the vestry, chancel and church parlors into a veritable spring garden.

At the reception held in the church parlors the bride and bridegroom cut a three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. William Guy served the iced punch and Mrs. C. A. Ricketts served the wedding cake. The bridegroom's cake was given to the guests by the candle-lighters.

Mrs. L. B. Hicks, the bride's mother, wore a blue lace dress and white accessories, with an orchid corsage. Mrs. W. G. Clarenbach, mother of the bridegroom, wore a silk print dress with heliotrope accessories and an orchid corsage.

The new Mrs. Clarenbach donned a carmine red suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage for her California honeymoon. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hicks of Fairhaven Avenue, Roseburg. She was graduated from Roseburg High School.

Mr. Clarenbach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Clarenbach of Flagstaff Street, Roseburg. He was graduated from the Roseburg High School and attended the University of Oregon and is presently employed by the Proflame Gas Company.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mrs. C. B. Clarenbach, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Heller, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, Marsha Heller, a cousin, all from Richmond, Calif.; C. L. Parkhill Jr., from San Mateo, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Smith of Seattle, Wash.; and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Patterson and family, uncle of the bride from Drain.
