

MRS. LLOYD (PAT) WHITE, above, stands beside two of the pictures she has painted and which will be exhibited in her one-man show at Koop's Modern Photography shop at 222 W. Oak St., Monday, June 20, through Saturday, June 25. Mrs. White is an outstanding artist and has painted pictures of great variety besides doing numerous murals. The public is invited to enjoy the show. (Picture by Koop's Modern Photography).

Mrs. White started painting at the age of 9 and ordered her supplies from a mail order house. She entered contests, sent her paintings to the county fair and won a contest, which paid for her materials. She did a number of wood carvings, which she painted with oils.

Mrs. White was born in Ontario, Ore., and has lived in Oregon all of her life. While in school she was art editor for the paper and year book and also painted a mural around the high school gymnasium. She studied art at University of Oregon and a number of her paintings are hung in the Portland Art Museum.

She has done a number of local paintings including paintings for Umpqua Lounge, Turn Around Inn, Wagon Wheel and Melrose Grange. She is now commissioned to do two large murals.

Mrs. White excels in a wide range of art mediums. She does water colors, pastels, charcoals, oils and pen and ink etchings. She is also working on a book, "The Runaway Letters," a children's book based on the alphabet and which consists of original characters painting in water colors for each letter and poetry for each page.

Mrs. Lloyd is the mother of two daughters, Patty Sue, 2 1/2, and Jimmy Lou, 10 months. Her husband, Lloyd, is employed by the Hotel Umpqua. Her ambition is to do commercial art for cover and layout artwork for national magazines. She is the daughter of Mrs. Paul Krueger of this city.
