Two Round Aerial Bombs Removed From Storage

Two, round aerial bombs, black in color and 8 inches in diameter were removed from a storage shed at the Douglas County Fairgrounds during the day Tuesday or sometime during the Monday night fireworks display, according to Warren Woodruff. Woodruff is chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee which presented the display. He termed the bombs "extremely dangerous and highly explosive." Woodruff urged parents to check with their children and make sure they were not playing with them. The bombs are filled with gunpowder. They have fuses which ignite immediately. Woodruff said the bombs would probably cause serious injury to persons unfamiliar with exploding them. He said there would be no prosecution in the case, and that the Jaycees just wanted to make sure "no one gets hurt."

Photographer Explains Trials, Tribulations

allowing a back shutter to close thus making it impossible for light to reach the film except for the first exposure made. Of course I should have checked this adjustment before shooting any pictures. As a matter of fact I did, both visually and by touch; but too casually, for the darned thing had appeared all right to me. At any rate, when I discovered the damage which had been done, all I could do was lean against the darkroom wall and curse weakly and weakly, withal venomously. Also I decided to do humanity a service, by explaining the treacherous inherent in photography, the cancerous eating away of a photographic career; the certainty that, if such a career is persisted in, the madhouse ultimately will claim another victim. If you have to be anything, be a soldier, you can only be shot at; or a big game hunter, wild animals only can claw or bite you; or a snake charmer, snakes only can poison or choke you; but don't become a photographer, more unpleasant, usually much more unpleasant, can, and will, be your lot as long as you live. Oh, another thing. The picture I was going to run with this story didn't turn out. It was light-struck in the darkroom, of all things.

Police charge Johnson drove in a "winding and slow rate" of speed along Harvard Avenue and across the Oak Street Bridge, impairing traffic. Investigation disclosed an opened liquor bottle in the car. Morals Counts Jail 2 Here On Weekend

Two Douglas County men, one the postmaster at Elkton, landed in jail over the weekend, both charged with moral offenses. The postmaster, Kenneth Patrick McCollum, 39, is charged with sodomy. He was arrested Sunday by a deputy sheriff, but posted $5,000 bail set by Justice of the Peace Clarence Leonard, Drain, and was freed. The act allegedly involved a 14-year-old boy in the post office. McCollum was to be arraigned, possibly today, in Judge Leonard's court. The second man in custody is Woodford Orest Weathers, 49, Reedsport. He's charged with the rape of his daughter, 16, and a deputy sheriff said the girl is pregnant. Complaint against Weathers was signed by his wife, Thelma, who the deputy said is also pregnant. Judge Leonard bound the prisoner over to the grand jury and set bail at $2,000. Weathers, the deputy said, has four other children, all younger than the girl.

Glendale Man Fractures Pelvis In Log Accident

K. B. McNabb, 19, Glendale, is in Josephine County Hospital at Grants Pass with a fractured pelvis, but he is probably thankful for his life. Glendale correspondent Mrs. G. B. Fox reports the youth was rushed to Grants Pass by a National Hospital ambulance Tuesday afternoon after a log rolled off a truck he was loading and struck him on the hip. Relatives said his pelvis was cracked in several places. They said X-ray plates have been sent to a Medford bone specialist for further study. His employer Sam Stuart said the youth stumbled as the log toppled over and this may have saved his life.
