No. 17 in a series of RARE CREATURES

THE PETRIFIED WARY

so rooted in caution he can't move a muscle

The WARY is a manufacturer who thinks the advertising field is strewn with booby traps.

He gets buck fever swatting a fly—and wouldn't crawl out on a limb two inches from the ground.

The WARY plays it so safe he's left stranded on base while the competition runs away with the game.

Fortunately the WARY is a rare creature.

Most manufacturers realize that business is highly competitive and that half-way efforts will get them precisely that far.

They believe in backing their products with strong, sound advertising. They believe, for example, in saturating a market to gain dominance; in testing markets to obtain answers to sales potentials.

Naturally they use newspapers—because newspapers blanket any market with maximum impact, creating mass action at the retail level.

Smart manufacturers start—and keep—their national advertising at the local level—in newspapers!

All business is local...and so are all newspapers!
