Pvt. Crosby Apparently Not Seriously Injured

TACOMA — Pvt. Philip Crosby, Bing's son, apparently wasn't as badly injured in last Sunday's automobile accident as was first supposed, according to doctors at Madigan Army Hospital just south of here.

Philip was transferred to Madigan from a Raymond hospital Wednesday. A perusal of X-rays that since have been taken show no broken bones, according to a Madigan spokesman.

He said the only injury to young Crosby's back was muscular and that he probably would be released from the hospital in about a week. It was first feared that Crosby had suffered fractures of one or more vertebrae in the accident, which happened when he fell asleep in his car while returning to Ft. Lewis.

Now you Know!

The answers to everyday insurance problems. By William S. Reinhart

QUESTION: A young friend of our son doesn't own a car but is engaged to a girl who does have a car. When they go out together he always drives and I've heard him say he'd like to carry liability insurance of his own. Would this be possible?

ANSWER: Certainly and it is a very wise thing for him to do. The premium for that kind of coverage is very low, too.
