Dannie And Una Now Honeymooning At Delake Resort

DELAKE, Ore. — Airman Daniel Schmidt and his wife Una were enjoying what they called their "first honeymoon" at a coastal resort cottage here today.

Schmidt, 23, and Una, 20, were reunited in Portland late Wednesday, nearly a week after they had filed suit for divorce in Red Bluff, Calif. He came home recently after 2 1/2 years in a Communist Chinese prison camp and was told she had remarried.

He agreed to a reconciliation in a telephone call from his wife in San Jose, Calif.

He sent her plane fare and she arrived at the home of his mother Mrs. Ray Peters in Portland, about 90 miles northeast of here. After spending Wednesday night there they drove here, not disclosing their destination.

The Associated Press located them late last night in a cottage off beautiful Devils Lake and Schmidt said, "We are very, very happy."

They have no definite plans. We're just going to enjoy ourselves for awhile.

Schmidt said he was overjoyed to see his son Daniel Jr., 3, for the first time. The child was born while he was overseas. Una brought him to California to Portland, where he remained today with Schmidt's mother.

Schmidt confirmed that he dropped his plan to divorce Una. She said lumberjack Alford Fine, whom she said she had married in the belief Schmidt was dead, is "definitely out of the picture."

Attorneys in Portland said the marriage to Fine "never existed legally" because she was married to Schmidt.

Flood-Wrecked Areas Are Given Another Big Lift

WASHINGTON — Six North-eastern states, struggling to rebuild flood-wrecked towns and factories, have been given another hefty lift from a sympathetic federal government.

President Eisenhower yesterday made available up to 900 million dollars for loans to reconstruct, repair or replace defense industries.

A preliminary estimate by the Army Engineers set damage at $1,600,000,000 in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Lt. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, chief of engineers, made a personal reconnaissance of the stricken area. He spoke of "appalling" loss of life and "utter destruction" in forecast "one of the biggest, toughest rehabilitation jobs since Noah faced the great flood of Biblical days."

The President's latest flood relief move was made at his Denver summer headquarters. He made a personal visit to the flood area and conferences with state governors and federal officials.

Before leaving Washington Wednesday, the President had marshaled the resources of a host of government agencies to help in reconstruction of public facilities and to aid the homeless, the farmers, small businessmen and others.

On top of this emergency relief program — which may cost more than 100 million dollars — he ordered the loan program to spur restoration of the defense industries.

Army To Answer Motion For Bell

SAN FRANCISCO — The U. S. Army has been ordered to appear in Federal Court next Wednesday to answer a defense move to get Korean War hero Capt. Otto Bell out of military jail at nearby Ft. Baker.

The Army will answer a petition seeking release of the Hillsboro, Miss., ex-soldier on grounds that the charges are "too vague" for effective defense and that the ex-soldier can be prosecuted by the Army now that he is out of the service.

Bell, 24, faces a court-martial with two other war prisoners: William C. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga., and Lewis W. Griggs, 22, Jackson, Miss. The three remained with the Communists after being captured in the war and only last month returned to the United States.

The petition in effect questions the legality of the new code of military justice, which provides that an ex-soldier can be tried after discharge for any acts committed during his service.

U.S. Requests Postponement Of Talks With Reds

GENEVA, Switzerland — The United States Friday requested a four-day postponement of Saturday's scheduled meeting with Communist China on the question of American detainees held by the Peiping regime. There was growing speculation that the issue was near settlement.

U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, who has been carrying on the talks with Red China's Ambassador Wang Ping-Nan since Aug. 1, requested the postponement. He gave no reason. The Communists agreed to the request and the next meeting was set for 8 a. m. Wednesday.

The postponement request came on the heels of official confirmation in New Delhi that the United States is discussing with India a prime minister Nehru's government.

Indian officials said the United States suggested informally that the Indian Embassy in Washington and Indian consulates be placed at the disposal of Chinese nationals in the United States who might wish to be repatriated to Communist China.

There also have been reports from Washington that the talks here might take a decisive turn soon.

Of the 41 Americans whose freedom the United States is asking, 25 are in Communist prisons and the remainder are either under house arrest or denied exit permits. The Communists insist Chinese students in the United States are being prevented from returning to China. The United States has declared that all are now free to leave.

Soviet Stations Jam Broadcast Of Own Delegate

MUNICH, Germany — Soviet stations kept up their customary jamming of the Voice of America Friday while the U. S. government station repeated a broadcast to Russia by the head of Russian farm delegation in America.

Engineers at the VOA's relay station here reported "no perceptible change" in Soviet jamming during Russian-language broadcasts by Vladimir Matskevich, Soviet first deputy minister of agriculture who led the Russian farm tour of the U. S.

His remarks, recorded in Washington this week, were beamed to Russia on more than 20 repeat programs Thursday night and Friday. It marked the first time a Soviet official ever had broadcast to Russia over VOA.

Matskevich said in his broadcast that the Russian farm delegation had received "a friendly and hospitable welcome" in the United States and had seen "useful things that may be applied in the state and collective farms of the Soviet Union."

They may do this by attending two of the three three-hour classes which will be offered daily Monday through Friday of next week. The course will also include instruction in drape and slipcover making.

It is conducted by Mrs. Mae H. Frye of the Eugene Vocational School.

Boss said the Camp Fire Girls will earn honors with the project. He said there was "plenty of room for more persons" in the class. Hours are 9 a. m. to noon, 1 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 10 p. m.

Soldier Injured In Auto Crash

A soldier from Twentynine Palms, Calif., Charles Luther Wade, apparently escaped without serious injury early today when his car was demolished in an accident on Highway 99.

The 21-year-old man was in Community Hospital with bad bruises and shock, but attendants said he might be discharged this evening. X-rays were scheduled to determine if more serious injuries occurred.

State police said Wade's north-bound car struck a small barricade where the highway divides on the north side of Rice Hill, north of Oakland.

The car ended up in the north-bound lane of traffic on its wheels, but only after it creased into the south-bound lane, into a ditch, back onto the highway, into another ditch, rolled over and then bounded right side up. Wreckage was scattered for some distance, officers said. Wade was admitted to the hospital about 4 a. m.

Planning Commission To Seek Legal Opinion

der that assumption in all phases of its endeavor.

Time Element Questioned But before the meeting was over, the legality of the building inspector's office itself was questioned on a "which comes first" basis.

Although the issue of the County Court to adopt an ordinance setting up the office cannot be questioned, the time at which an office is set up was questioned.

An old opinion of the attorney-general indicates building permits should not be issued prior to an election empowering enactment of zoning. Other factors indicate this is not the case, but commission members feel an interpretation is needed at this time.

The district attorney will be asked to give an opinion on the matter. As soon as possible, the commission will meet with him to give more study to the problem. In the meantime, present operation of the office will continue.

Definition Needed Earlier in the meeting, the definition of who is a farmer in other words, who is exempt from building inspection? The commission will try to get a suitable definition.

Throughout their discussion to date, legal aspects of their work, commission members and county officials did not lose track of their ultimate goal, however.

Bonnie, for example, pointed out that the work of his office is not to restrict construction in any way, but to see that suitable buildings are erected for the benefit and welfare of all the people. Use of the code adopted by the county will give people a chance to see how they can be helped, he said.

And, earlier in the meeting, the value of planning was evident during the inspection of plans for proposed subdivisions. Members questioned everything from water supply to road access, things which protect owners and future home builders from expensive corrections at a later date.

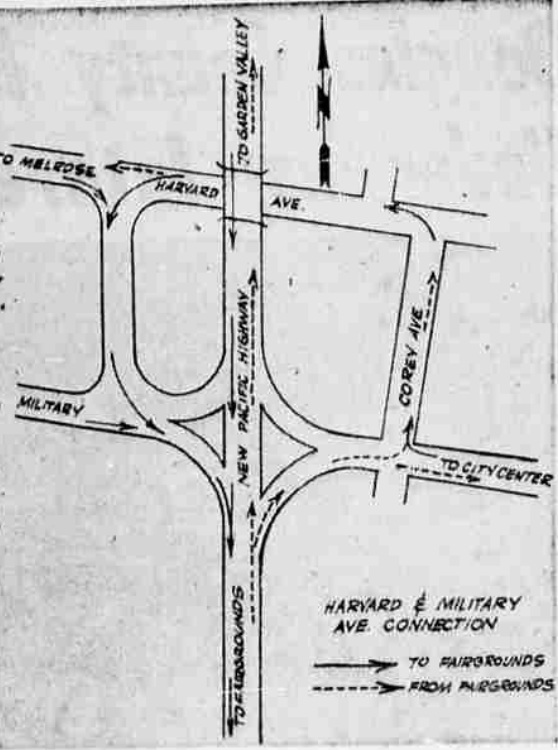

Plans Studied The commission gave tentative approval to two new subdivisions, with certain restrictions, some listed by the land owner and some by the commission. One is the Goodwin Estates in Garden Valley near the county club. The other is the Goodwin subdivision on Lander's Lane.

No action was taken on another proposed subdivision along relocated Highway 99 just north of Canbyville. The commission gave a stamp of approval to a plat revision in the old Masonic Cemetery at Roseburg, and approved a plat for the Kellogg Cemetery with a recommendation for a wider access road.

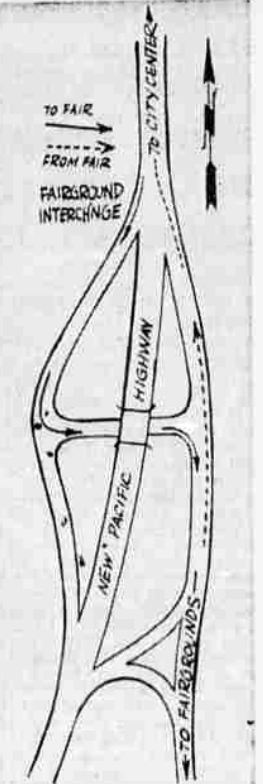

New Law Effective County Surveyor Ben B. Irving called to the attention of the commission some new legislative planning laws which became effective Aug. 4. They will be given further study.

The commission's new secretary, Margaret Albuschie of Roseburg, was introduced. She will work fulltime after Sept. 1. Up to now, Martha Davis has divided her time between the commission and the lands department. She has given notification she will resign her post in September in order to join her husband in Utah.

FELLOWSHIP MEET A fellowship meeting will be held Friday, beginning at 7:45 p. m., at the Church of God, located 1 1/2 miles south of Myrtle Creek. The church was formerly called the Highway Chapel, according to the Rev. Leslie E. Kol. It is situated one block east and two blocks south of John's Plumbing.

FAIR ROUTE—The drawings shown here are designed to help motorists find their way to and from the fairgrounds during the annual Douglas County Fair this weekend. At top is the interchange in west Roseburg at relocated Highway 99. The lower map shows the interchange and routes of travel near the fairgrounds.

Engineering Firm Explains Sewer Survey Report

Two members of the engineering firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield of Corvallis were in Roseburg Thursday night to acquaint the newly-formed citizens committee on sewer construction with a comprehensive survey and recommendations on a new system of sanitary and storm sewers.

The two men were Ralph Roderick and James Howland. They met with the citizens committee and members of the city council.

As a result of the meeting a recommendation was made that the firm be retained until completion of preliminary survey and estimates necessary for a bond issue are completed. Technically, the firm's contract was complete after its 90-page report was submitted last year.

It was reported that the committee and council will meet again Sept. 15 at 7:30 p. m. in the council chambers. Between now and then, the Corvallis firm will re-examine costs and estimates. These will be presented by the firm at that meeting.

The firm is also expected to have a more detailed breakdown of the stages of construction of the sewer systems and treatment facilities. In the comprehensive report on the engineering study already submitted, the firm recommended the systems and treatment facilities be handled in four separate stages.
