Two Men, Woman Are Charged With Robbery Attempt

SPOKANE — Two men and a woman were charged Thursday in the attempted robbery of the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Deer Park last June 15. The hold-up was a flop.

The charges were filed against Earl Stanford Jr., 20, formerly of Deer Park; Charles Hodges, 25, Crescent City, Calif., and Katie Castellano.

The sheriff's office is still looking for the two men, but said Miss Castellano is in custody at Crescent City. Sheriff Roy Betlach said she has admitted aiding in the attempted robbery and is charged with that.

Two masked men walked into the bank in Spokane County just at closing time on a Wednesday afternoon. They were armed and approached Charles O. Snapp, the bank president, and asked:

"Are you Snapp?" He replied that he was. The gunmen got frightened and promptly fled, empty handed. Hodges and Stanford are charged with attempted bank robbery.
