

25-Year Murder Finally Admitted

VIROQUE, Wis. — Raymond Kroll, who preferred to sacrifice his freedom rather than live out his life tormented by his conscience, went to prison today to pay his debt to society.

The 46-year-old Davenport, Iowa, man, father of four children, began serving a 7 to 14 year term in the Waupun State Prison for a killing 25 years ago. He pleaded guilty Friday before Circuit Judge Lincoln Neprud to a charge of third degree murder.

A former resident of La Crosse, Wis., Kroll told authorities that as a young man of 21, he and a companion never named by police, attempted to hold up a rural resident named Clarence Sutherland. When Sutherland reached for a gun, Kroll said, he fired a shot at the man and fled. Sutherland received no medical attention for some time and later died of complications.

Kroll went to Davenport where he married, reared four children and led a life of quiet respectability. He finally decided to turn himself in "to clear his conscience," he told authorities. A mental test found him sane and he was permitted to enter his pleas.

SEATTLE — A Navy officer said all 38 ships of the fleet that sailed north of Alaska with cargoes for the arctic radar network are escaping the dangerous threat of Arctic Ocean ice.
