

Man Cuts Off Fingers To Free Caught Hand

JASPER, Tenn. (AP)—A prominent Marion County farmer got his right hand caught in a mechanical corn picker last week and amputated the fingers with a pocket knife after a companion hesitated to do it.

A Chattanooga hospital, where J. E. Graham was taken, reported his condition fair. Graham whipped out his pocket knife with his left hand and freed the tangled one by cutting off the fingers at the knuckles.

Natural Gas Companies Plan To Spend Huge Amount To Capture Northwest Market

By LEROY HITTLE
ASSOCIATED PRESS Writer
Natural gas companies plan to spend 250 to 300 million dollars to capture the Pacific Northwest industrial and home-heating market, their leaders disclosed this week.

Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation already has a 150 million dollar gas development and pipeline project underway. It will pipe the natural gas 1,466 miles from Colorado and New Mexico gas fields to local distributors and heavy industrial users in Idaho, Oregon and Washington, the last major area in the country not now served by natural gas.

Local distributing companies planning to shift from manufacturing to natural gas said they will spend more than 70 million dollars during the next five years to expand their facilities and extend their pipelines to new customers.

If the Federal Power Commission approves importation of natural gas from Canada, Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation plans to spend another 26 million to expand and extend its main line in Washington and Idaho.

The president of Pacific Northwest, C. R. Williams of Houston, Tex., told newsmen natural gas will start flowing from the Colorado-New Mexico fields early next year. He said it may be available as far north as Pendleton, Ore., by March and in Portland, Seattle, Spokane and other points on the pipeline by July.

He added, however, that the strike at Kaiser Steel Mills, one of the sources for the gas line pipe, may throw the schedule out of kilter. Another company official, R. D. Ricketts, said the heat energy in natural gas to be available in the Pacific Northwest would be about the same as shipping 500 cars of coal into the area daily.

Expansion plans of local distributors are aimed at the heavy industrial users as well as the home users. They will have 153 million cubic feet daily to sell on an interruptible basis.
