German Repatriates Tell Of Meeting Three Americans

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany — German repatriates from Russia told Friday of meeting three more Americans in Soviet prison camps.

Maria Jakisch, a civilian internee, said she met an American woman in the Taished Camp area in Central Asia who gave her name as Mrs. Mary Silbermann-Noah.

Mrs. Jakisch said the American woman was released to Romania in 1954 and hoped to get an exit permit there for the United States. Her American address was not known to the German woman.

Konrad Schlegel, another civilian internee, said he was in a Russian prison in East Berlin in 1952 with an American soldier, William Dieterson, from North Carolina. He said Dieterson told him he was picked up by the Russians while on a drinking spree in the four-power city.

U. S. Army officials in Berlin suggested "Dieterson" may be Pvt. William J. Peterson, of Beaufort, N. C., listed as absent without leave from a military police unit in Berlin since Aug. 31, 1949.

Paul Biedermann, a former wehrmacht intelligence officer, reported he met an American newsman in Taished in 1950-51 but said he could not recall his name.

An Army spokesman said there were no records on two American officers who prisoners reported Thursday were seen in Russia. The repatriates identified the two as 1st Lt. Todd (phonetic) Robertson and 1st Lt. Guenther Wolfgang von Schwab, the latter an American counterintelligence officer last stationed in Austria.

Five other Americans had been reported to be in Russia by prisoners arriving earlier this month.
