PORTLAND — Fritz Hill, young 4-H Club member from Helix, Ore., whose 1,920-pound Hereford won the grand championship among steers at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, pocketed $1,630 here.

That was the price his prize steer commanded at the annual fat stock auction. That was $1.60 a pound, about seven times market value and 58 cents a pound more than last year's grand champion brought.

The grand champion FFA steer, owned by Ewing Stringfellow, Issaquah, Wash., brought 75 cents a pound at the auction.

Air Force Not To Move Squadron From Portland

PORTLAND — The Air Force does not plan to move a fighter-interceptor squadron from Portland to Klamath Falls, as rumored recently, Maj. Gen. Roy Henry Lynn said here.

The commander of the Western Air Defense Force said a new unit will be set up to man the Klamath Falls base when the base is ready for use, probably next spring.

Administrator Defends Power Policies Of BPA

WASHINGTON — Administrator William Pearl this week defended the Bonneville Power Administration against assertions that private utilities and industries are getting preference in the sale of federal power in the Pacific Northwest.

He insisted that rural cooperatives and other public bodies are getting the breaks provided by law. Pearl testified at a hearing of a House subcommittee on government operations, which is investigating the administration's public power policies.

During discussion of an arrangement under which the Idaho Power Co. will build a transmission line and buy federal power, Rep. Daason (D-Ill.) asserted that private utilities have been "blackjacking BPA."

Pearl said Idaho Power will build a transmission line from La Grande to Baker, Ore., and buy surplus power from the federal BPA system.

Dawson and Subcommittee chairman Chetoff (D-Pa.) said BPA should not have contracted to sell the dump power to Idaho Power without attempting to persuade the company to "wheel" or transmit the energy to southeastern Idaho for the benefit of co-ops and other preference customers.

Pearl said BPA twice had asked Congress to appropriate money for a federal transmission line and the company "didn't indicate any interest" in a wheeling arrangement. Dawson said Idaho Power fought the appropriation request for the federal transmission line proposal and then "blackjacked" BPA.

Pacific Power, Light Stockholders Okay Merger

PORTLAND — Pacific Power and Light Co. stockholders this week approved merger of the Western Public Service Co. of Laramie, Wyo., with PP&L.

Paul B. McKee, PP&L president, said that only approval by the Wyoming Public Service Commission is delaying the merger which would be accomplished by a stock exchange.

Under the merger proposal PP&L, which serves 27,000 customers in Wyoming, would absorb Laramie's 5,300 customers. Provision for an additional supply of power for the area is included in PP&L's plans for a 20 million dollar development program in Wyoming, McKee said.

The vote on the merger question was almost unanimous. Stockholders also re-elected the PP&L board of directors.
