

Eisenhower Takes More Unassisted Steps At Hospital

DENVER — President Eisenhower Wednesday took more unassisted steps than at any time since he was hospitalized—and he also sat up in bed unaided for the first time.

The 11:30 a.m. bulletin from Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported: "After an excellent night's sleep of 8½ hours, the President awoke feeling refreshed and cheerful. Mrs. Eisenhower joined the President for breakfast.

"His morning examination showed that his pulse and blood pressure continued to be normal. "During the morning the President sat up unaided in his bed and walked unassisted several times to an easy chair in his room. Later at 11 a.m. he was rolled in a wheel chair to the sundeck."

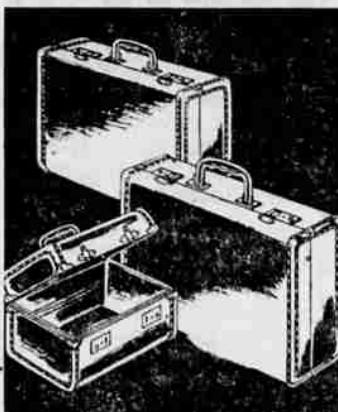

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said that heretofore the easy chair has been placed close beside Eisenhower's bed and he had to take only a couple of steps to reach it. Wednesday the chair was moved a greater distance and Eisenhower took six or seven steps each trip back and forth.

The Chief Executive has been sitting up in bed for some time each day, but up until now he always had been assisted into a sitting position by hospital attendants.
