

HIMSELF!

At last—the fabulous redhead himself tells the whole Godfrey story!

"I am sick and tired of the fantastic tales that have been concocted for gullible newspapers by the press agents of my former associates. I think it is about time that folks heard the true story."

Millions of words, friendly and otherwise, have been written about Godfrey. But this is the first time Arthur HIMSELF has told his story. The fabulous redhead tells it all in the style that has become his trademark. He pulls no punches. He tells of his troubles as well as his triumphs. The whole fascinating Godfrey story starts today in The Saturday Evening Post. It's on the newsstands right now. So be sure to get your copy before they're sold out.

Navy Launches First Robot-Carrying Ship Tuesday Afternoon

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Navy had its first robot weapons warship ready to join the fleet Tuesday.

The heavy cruiser Boston—with a battery of dart-nosed, anti-aircraft guided missiles pointing skyward from the after deck—stood at a pier in the Navy yard here, awaiting an afternoon commissioning ceremony.

At a preview Monday, Capt. Charles B. Martell, commanding officer, said the Terrier missiles can track down enemy aircraft and "do the job of destruction a good part of the time." He also disclosed for the first time that the missiles have a range of 20 miles.

The Boston, veteran of gunfiring days in the Pacific campaigns of World War II, has been under conversion for the past three years to arm her with the weapons of the jet plane and atom bomb age.

The Navy says she marks the advent of the guided missile in the combatant fleet. The five-inch gun, until the last few years the mainstay of protection against enemy aircraft, now have been relegated to the category of a close-in, last resort weapon, top Navy officials have said. Interception of swift jet planes must be made at relatively long distance, by missiles.

The Boston and other converted cruisers and destroyers to follow her will provide, along with fighter aircraft, the protection for today's fast carrier task forces.

The Terrier missile follows a radar beam and finally "homes in" by another self-contained radar unit as it reaches the area of a target aircraft. It has supersonic speed, probably about 1,700 miles per hour.

Woman Hunter Finally Rescued

THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (AP)—Rescuers struggling down a steep, tortuous creekbed in a blinding blizzard brought to safety Monday night a woman hunter ill since Saturday in the mountain vastness of Wyoming's Washakie Needles formation.

Mrs. Mildred Ernst, 55, of Worland, Wyo., was whisked to a hospital here by ambulance after the ground party, aided on its final few miles by a National Guard truck, took her to the Col. Tim McCoy ranch, 35 miles west of here.

Her doctor said Mrs. Ernst's condition was good. He said she had "blacked out" from lack of oxygen due to high blood pressure.

At first it was believed she had suffered a heart attack. Mrs. Ernst collapsed at 11,000 feet mark on a steep mountain face after a four and a half-hour horseback ride. Her descent by litter took a little more than three days. She spent two nights on the mountain, often under blizzard conditions.

Howling winds, thick clouds and snow thwarted rescue attempts by an Air Force helicopter.

With Mrs. Ernst at the time of her attack was her husband, Joseph and a guide.

Mrs. Smith Tells About Bearing Child

McMINNVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Marjorie Smith, 34, concluded her defense against a charge of plotting the death of her attorney husband, by telling of the birth of an illegitimate child in 1946.

This was brought up by her attorney, Bruce Spaulding, who said there was one final matter he would have to take up.

She told a circuit court jury the child, born in Portland, was the result of an attack on her in San Francisco after she had separated from her first husband. She said three men raped her, then escaped.

The state prosecutor, Willis West, at once seized upon this as he took up cross-examination.

Mrs. Smith, who has two other children, told him she was unable to fix the time of attack, but thought it was in July or August. Questioned about her inability to place the date, she said:

"I have done my best to forget it."

She also said she had told a number of stories about how she acquired the child because almost no one would believe what really happened.

Mean Treatment Claimed

Mrs. Smith testified Monday that police subjected her to mental torture when they questioned her about the slaying of her husband.

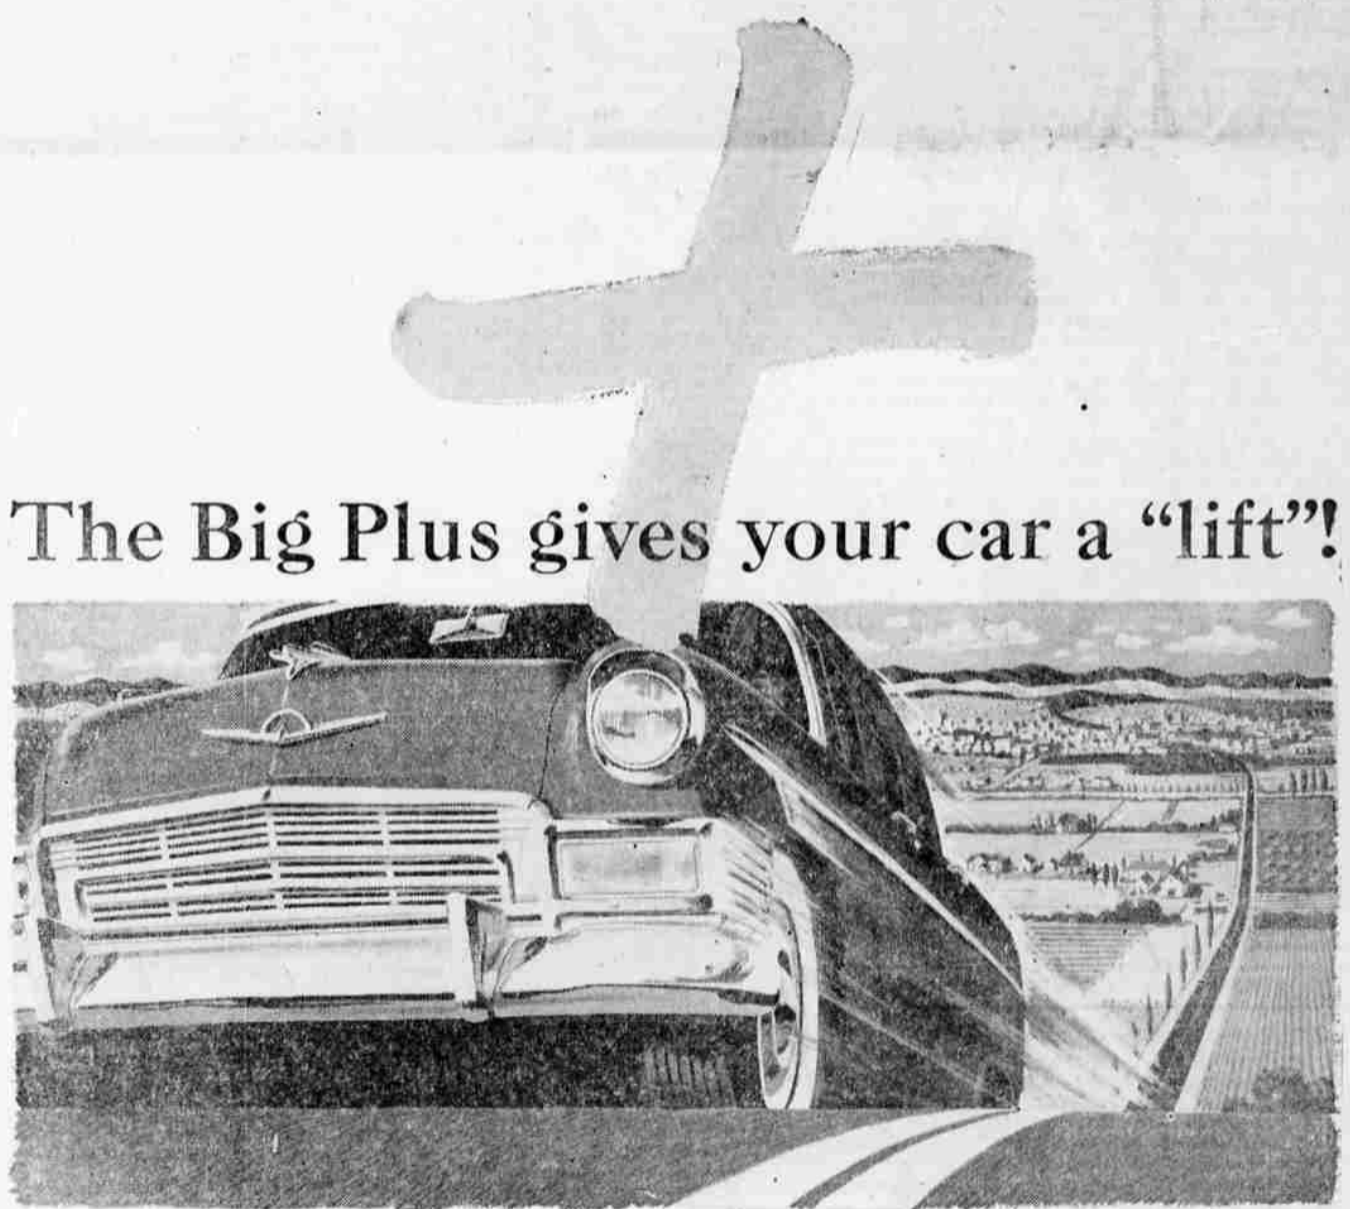

She said detectives played back a tape-recording of Wolf's confession. She quoted them as saying that Wolf had relaxed after telling his story, was "eating a chicken sandwich," and that she should "come clean" so she could eat and relax.

She said that as far as she could recall, police gave her nothing to eat the entire day after picking her up for questioning the morning after her husband's death. The 24 hours after her arrest were "a horrible nightmare" and a "big jigsaw puzzle," she said.

Mrs. Smith testified that when she requested her attorney, J. Elliott Breyer, the detectives refused and taunted her with the question, "Who's he? Your boy friend?"

Questioned by her attorney, Bruce Spaulding, she testified that Wolf was a heavy liquor drinker. "He didn't sit and sip it. He would gulp it down," she said.

Mrs. Smith broke down and cried when Spaulding asked her to describe the scene of her husband's murder.
