Sultan Announces Protectorate End Will Be Shortly

RABAT, French Morocco (AP) — Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef announced here that the approaching end of the French protectorate in Morocco.

He told a wildly cheering crowd before his palace he had reached agreement with the French government on "essential principles" which would open a new era of freedom for Morocco.

His eldest son, Prince Hassan, who acts as the sultan's political adviser, quoted him as saying: "We are glad to announce the end of the period of protectorate and guardianship."

There were differences of interpretation about what the sultan meant by this statement. The protectorate, established in 1912, cannot be ended except in agreement with France.

The sultan spoke to about 70,000 during celebrations of the 28th anniversary of his accession to the throne. He returned to Morocco only two days ago after more than two years of exile.

Earlier Friday afternoon his people a representative democratic government, free elections, a constitutional monarchy, and equal citizenship rights for all of every faith.

He also promised to guarantee the rights of Frenchmen living in the country as long as they respect Moroccan sovereignty.

When he spoke of his friendship with the French and praised their contribution to the country's prosperity, the crowd applauded to the surprise of French observers.

Earlier Friday leaders of two major nationalist parties refused to disavow a campaign of terrorism that helped restore the sultan to his throne.

Teenagers Favor Tougher Traffic Regulations

PENDELTON (AP) — Tougher traffic regulations are favored by 81 Umatilla and Morrow county teenagers.

High school youths from the two Eastern Oregon counties attended a traffic safety conference in Hermiston and endorsed:

1. Compulsory driver education in the high schools;

2. More rigid drivers license testing, including physical examinations and periodic written tests to keep drivers posted on new laws;

3. Trial in traffic court for teenagers accused of violating traffic laws. Teenagers are presently tried in juvenile court.

They elected these officers for the Blue Mountain teenage safety conference: Ray Walker, 16, Milton-Freewater, president; Kathy Hunt, 17, Pilot Rock, secretary; and Carl Reeder, 15, Helix, chairman.

STERILIZED

TOKYO (AP) — More than 420 Japanese men on Kyushu, southernmost main island of Japan, have been voluntarily sterilized in the past year to limit size of their families, the newspaper Asahi reported today.

Girls Become Boys When Tresses Cut, Dresses Removed

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — Two young brothers — shorn of their waist length blond, curly hair and dressed in girls' clothing for possibly the first time in their lives — faced life now as boys.

Puzzled welfare officials, meanwhile, investigated to determine why the parents of the two boys, 15 and 11, were apparently raising them as girls.

The parents, unnamed by authorities until the investigation is completed, said they saw nothing wrong in having their boys wear curls and not attending school. The father said he was from the south and reported his wife was from downstate Illinois.

Miss Janet Thelen, Kenosha County juvenile probation officer heading the investigation, said the parents will face a juvenile court hearing. No other charges were filed, she said.

The situation came to light last week when a local hotel notified authorities that it had found the boys and their mother huddled in the same bed in a darkened, unheated room. The hotel management said they had been living in the room about a month and seldom left it. One of the boys occasionally went out for bakery goods.

The boys — wearing girls' clothing when found in the room — were taken to a hospital for examination for signs of malnutrition. Their mother was in a hospital room at the Kenosha County jail.

The father told police long hair was a tradition in his family and said his hair was not cut until he was 18. He reported he was employed as an instructor at an automobile driving school in Chicago, about 55 miles south of Kenosha.

Boxcar Situation Will Be Aired Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nationwide boxcar shortage and complaints of railroad discrimination against certain sections of the country, will be aired before a Senate subcommittee when Congress reconvenes.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said here that he will name a subcommittee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee to conduct the investigation. He said he would name the group immediately after Congress meets in January.

During the last year, the senator said, he has received a "constant flow" of complaints from shippers in all parts of the country. Contrary to the frequent seasonal complaints which accompany the harvest season, Magnuson said letters indicate the boxcar shortage is a year-around problem.

The most recent complaint came Wednesday when Sens. Morse and Neuberger, Oregon Democrats, accused the Southern Pacific Railroad of discriminating against lumber plants in Western Oregon where it operates as the sole carrier. They said the Interstate Commerce Commission had failed to take any action to correct the situation.

Lumber plants in the area, Morse and Neuberger said, are operating at "75 to 80 per cent of capacity" because of the car shortage.

Magnuson previously has said the committee would introduce in January whatever legislation it might consider necessary to cure the car shortage problem, on which it held other hearings during the summer.

Thrower Of Hot Water Tries To Take Own Life

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A man charged with throwing boiling water on two little girls making the rounds of neighborhood homes Halloween Eve on a "trick or treat" mission attempted suicide here last week, police said, by drinking rubbing alcohol.

Nelson Stevens, 39, was admitted to Women's College Hospital and described in "fair" condition after his stomach was pumped out.

Reports Of Intimidations Of Reporters To Be Probed

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) said here his House subcommittee on government information plans further investigations into reports of intimidations and reprisals of news reporters by federal officials.

"I am speaking about flagrant episodes where federal officials have tried to intimidate reporters by improper use of the FBI or other investigative agencies," Moss told The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. convention.

He said in his prepared speech the subcommittee hearings to date already have uncovered a "dangerous and surprising concept — an assertion by government departments that they intend to protect the public by not letting the people know what is going on."

Along with studying complaints of intimidation and reprisal Moss said the committee also will "look into the refusal of information to Congress, and the effect of this withholding upon American business, industry and the sciences." Hearings resume next January.

The laws should be changed, the California congressman declared, to clarify the many variations of interpretations of laws and claimed inherent powers of the agencies.

He said witnesses have testified their departments have kept information from the public for 100 years and they could not see any reason to open their records now. Others claimed there were no laws specifying that information has to be made public.

"For the first time I heard asserted a very strong inherent right within the executive branch of government to keep information from the people. That is a new concept of law," Moss said.

He told the editors that agencies testifying at the previous hearings displayed a great variance of opinions on just what right the public has to information about federal government activities and the interpretation of laws.

But the pattern clearly demonstrated, he said, that the emphasis was on "covering rather than the freeing of information."

Power Sites All To Be Developed By Year 1975

PORTLAND (AP) — All major Northwest water power sites will be developed by 1975 and after that additional power will come increasingly from nuclear energy.

That was the forecast made here by E. C. Starr, chief engineer for the Bonneville Power Administration. He reported the long range outlook for the region's power use at a meeting of Bonneville customers, including public and private utilities and large industries.

The report was based on a study made in a co-operative effort between the Pacific Northwest Power Co., the Puget Sound Council of Private and Public Utility, the Grant County Wash., Public Utility District and BPA.

The estimated 1975 power loads, by regions, were: Puget Sound 7,510,000 kilowatts, Portland 3,440,000, Southwest Oregon 1,530,000, Spokane 1,460,000, Midway in Central Washington 1,050,000, Walla Walla 82,000 and Southern Idaho 1,000,000.

SLOW MOTION ACCIDENT

WACOTEX (AP) — Most traffic accidents happen fast. But it took five hours for L. O. Wilson's big trailer truck to overturn.

Wilson had a blowout and pulled onto the road shoulder to change the tire. But one side of the trailer began sinking into the soft dirt.

Wilson sat back and watched as the big trailer, over a five-hour period, settled on its side "as gently as if you had laid it down with your hands."
