New Airplane So Simple Anyone Can Operate It

Editor's Note: The manufacturers of Cessna airplanes have recently marketed a new civilian craft. They are conducting experiments to determine just how easily a novice pilot can learn to fly this plane. Gerry Smith of the Tarentum Valley Daily News, Tarentum, Pa., tried. Here is her account of what happened.

By GERRY SMITH
Woman's Editor
The Valley Daily News

TARENTUM, Pa. (AP)—The first time I ever sat in the pilot's seat of an airplane I took off, flew at 1,000 feet, 120 miles per hour and landed—without aid.

Until then I didn't know an airplane instrument panel from a hole in the ground. I had been in an airplane only twice before—both times as a commercial air passenger.

I have very little mechanical aptitude— even can openers talk back to me occasionally. I have the world's worst sense of direction and I flunked my first driver's test. In addition, I'm a woman.

But a new civilian airplane (Cessna 172) is so simple to operate that even I can fly it. Maybe that's why my editor assigned me to the job—to see how simple it was.

One of the first craft off the production line was delivered just recently to the Pittsburgh area dealer, Alfred B. Bennett. He accompanied me on the flight since the law requires that a licensed pilot accompany anyone without a license. But I was able to handle the controls alone after just a few minutes instruction.

I simply turned the ignition key, gradually opened the throttle and when the speedometer read 40, raised the nose. And there I was, flying!

I leveled off at 1,000 feet, pushed the throttle wide open and reached 120 miles per hour. By pressing either of the foot pedals I could bank to the right or left.

To land, I headed toward the field and gradually lowered the nose. I must admit that more gentle contact has probably been made between airplane wheels and landing field but I did land alone, without mishap.

SALEM (AP)—Political candidates shouldn't confine their campaigns to television at the expense of making personal appearances throughout the country, Travis Cross, assistant to the chancellor of the Oregon System of Higher Education, said Monday.

Cross, editor of the American College Public Relations Association News Letter, said in an editorial:

"Today's college student should be given every opportunity to meet and hear candidates and discuss issues; faculty should be free to exercise their rights and responsibilities as individual citizens.

"We should resist the trend to bypass hinterland personal visitation in favor of concentration on television appearances.

"You can't ask a question of a TV set. And you can't get the thinking of young America from the studio."

CANNON BEACH (AP)—This Northern Oregon coastal resort has voted to incorporate as a city.

The vote in an election was 133 to 110. It was the third time in recent years that the measure has been placed before residents of the community.

Demands from the state Sanitary Authority for an adequate sewage disposal system led to the vote.

Police Chief, Librarian Of Springfield Resign

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The resignation of Police Chief Harry Howard, 65, was announced Monday by City Manager Robert Turner. He said Howard will remain on the job until a new chief is hired.

Howard has served as chief here since 1950 and retires with 35 years of experience in law enforcement work.

Howard resigned briefly earlier this year but was rehired when Turner became the new city manager.

Turner also announced the resignation of Librarian Josephine Matler Monday. She, too, has reached the retirement age of 65.

Candidates Shouldn't Favor TV, Suggestion

SALEM (AP)—Political candidates shouldn't confine their campaigns to television at the expense of making personal appearances throughout the country, Travis Cross, assistant to the chancellor of the Oregon System of Higher Education, said Monday.

Cross, editor of the American College Public Relations Association News Letter, said in an editorial:

"Today's college student should be given every opportunity to meet and hear candidates and discuss issues; faculty should be free to exercise their rights and responsibilities as individual citizens.

"We should resist the trend to bypass hinterland personal visitation in favor of concentration on television appearances.

"You can't ask a question of a TV set. And you can't get the thinking of young America from the studio."
