

Public May Be Able To See Earth Satellite Zooming Around Middle Of The Earth

By ELTON C. FAY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—American scientists aim to send their first satellite zooming through the heavens in a path around the middle of the earth, where the majority of the world's peoples may see the sight.

The National Academy of Sciences, announcing new details for the satellite phase of the International Geophysical Year program in 1957-58, said the intended path would be in a lane about 5,500 miles wide straddling the equator.

With radio, radar, telescopes and sometimes just ordinary eyesight, it might be seen or traced by scientists and the merely curious from Tokyo to Melbourne, Australia.

Its weaving course would carry it over scores of countries, including part of Russia, during its several weeks or months of life.

In Boulder, Colo., Dr. Sydney Chapman, noted British physicist who heads the IGY planning, referred to the "generous effort" and "generosity of your country" in undertaking the satellite launches.

But he noted that the scientific results "will depend much also on the part taken by other countries in observing the orbits and in receiving messages coming from the satellites."

The information obtained is to be shared among all participating countries, including Russia.

The Russians have announced intentions to launch some satellites of their own, but Dr. Chapman said he thinks America will have its version into space first.

The apparent weaving course of the American satellite will result from the inclined, elliptical orbit into which the scientists hope to launch it. As the earth rotates under the inclined ellipse, the satellite will sail sometimes far to the northern edge of the range, sometimes to the South. Its orbit will bring it down at times to within 200 miles of the surface, then send it up at other times to 800 miles.

"Under good atmospheric conditions," the scientists said, "the unaided eye, when the satellite has an altitude for 200 miles, will be able to detect it at about a maximum distance of 100 miles away from the track and about 200 miles away at altitudes between 600 and 800 miles."

An observer who might be standing directly under the track of the satellite will have to look fast—it will travel from horizon to horizon in from eight to 12 minutes.

The IGY plans to issue a timetable in advance of each satellite launching, to show the time and place at which the satellite may be expected to be seen. No date has yet been set.

The approximate 30-inch diameter for the satellites, give in this latest announcement by IGY, is larger than the 20-inch "basketball" dimensions first mentioned when President Eisenhower announced "project Vanguard" last July.

RICHLAND, Kan., (AP)—Andrew Gray, husband of the former treasurer of the United States, Georgia Neese Clark Gray, shot and killed an unidentified man who broke into their home and engaged him in a gun battle early Saturday.

Gray, Washington public relations consultant, told police the slain housebreaker looked like one of three men who earlier this month broke into the Gray residence and forced Mrs. Gray at gunpoint to open a bank and grocery store she operates here, then fled with $2,000 loot.

A hastily organized posse began a building by building search of this Eastern Kansas town of 250 population on the theory that the dead man had one or more accomplices.

Advertising Force Told By Hiatt At Riddle Meet

Station KYES President Leroy Hiatt put in a strong plug for the force of advertising at a meeting of Riddle Chamber of Commerce this week.

The immediate past president of the Roseburg chamber told the approximately 45 people at the meeting that advertising was a vital foundation of the present-day economy. He drew a theoretical picture of the disastrous effects which would result if all advertising were suddenly stopped. He said it would lead eventually to a collapse of the economy.

This was the first meeting for new officers of the Riddle Chamber, according to correspondent Erma Best. New president introduced was Robert Linder, who is associated with the Union Oil distributing company in Riddle. He succeeds E. E. Daniels.

Other new officers are: Mark Balfour, vice president, and William Strobridge, secretary-treasurer.

Linder reported on the chamber program for 1956. He said that an entrance sign with vital statistics about the city was being prepared. He also reported that a committee will be appointed soon to promote a project to secure a two-lane bridge to replace the one-lane Pruner Bridge because of the heavy flow of traffic over the highway to Riddle.

He also reported that the county court has been contacted to secure aid in the project.

The Riddle Home Extension Unit prepared and served dinner.

It's Not Too Early To Start Planning Outdoor Camping

Despite the weather, it's not too early to start planning for outdoor camping.

That was the main subject of discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Douglas Fir District of Boy Scouts.

On hand for the session at Riverside School was Wilson Jewett Jr. of Eugene, camping chairman of the Oregon Train Council, of which the district is a part.

Initial plans for scout camping next summer, with early registration being pushed, were laid at the meeting, according to Bill Scarth, district executive, Charles S. Collins of Roseburg is district camping chairman.

In other business, the tremendous lack of sponsors for scouting in this area was discussed, Scarth said. Plans were made to contact various institutions and give them an opportunity to sponsor units.

About one-third of the 30 institutional representatives now comprising the district's governing body were in attendance Thursday night.

District Chairman Earl Ladd requested that institutional representatives make every effort to attend the meetings. The representatives must vote any policy changes in the district, and it is important that units be represented in any decisions of the district.

Meetings are held the fourth Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. at Riverside School.

5 Persons Escape Injury As Auto Crashes House

Road, the pickup driver told police.

The pickup was driven by Charles Gilbert Tate, 24, Umpqua. He said he was traveling east on highway 42 at about 50 miles an hour and approaching the junction when the short logger driven by Frank Orville Linkswiler, 46, of Rt. 4, Box 1320, Roseburg, came to a stop at the stop sign on Lookingglass Road. Tate told police Linkswiler stepped and then pulled out in front of the pickup, hitting it and causing it to go into a ditch and roll over. No action was taken by police, and there were no injuries.

The other accident was credited to icy pavements. A car driven by Mrs. Betty Brown of Winston started skidding on the icy pavement on Highway 99 about three miles south of Roseburg. Police said the car plunged over a bank and rolled over several times. It came to rest upside down. Mrs. Brown was unhurt, but a passenger, Mrs. Mary Williams of Winston, suffered a cut below the right knee.

Meanwhile, correspondent Mrs. G. B. Fox of Glendale reported a Thursday train-car collision near the Robert Dollar mill at Glendale. She reports a car driven by Mrs. Leyman Warren of Glendale was bumped by a Robert Dollar switching train. The left side of the car was badly damaged, but Mrs. Warren was unhurt.

The train was pushing empty cars across Ruben Road toward the mill. Mrs. Warren apparently did not see a sign of the approaching train as she started across the track. Visibility was limited, she said, by falling snow and darkness. She had just stopped for a stop sign and was starting across the track when she felt the train bump her. A stake on a flatcar caught the car and dragged it a short distance down the track.

Men and women active in the Camp Fire program, parents and friends will review council work at the Elks Ballroom, starting at 6:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner.

As explained by President T. H. Pargeter, the annual meeting: (1) Reviews achievements of the past year; (2) sets objectives for 1956; (3) interprets the program to new members and the community; (4) sees election of officers for the new year; and (5) is a time for council business.

A host of Camp Fire supporters will participate. Eli S. Hall has been named as master of ceremonies. Blue Bird, Camp Fire and Horizon Club members will entertain the adults. Sutherlin Housing Project May Be Closed Eventually als. He said it is the consensus that the project could be cut back as private housing becomes available until it reaches a point where the project is no longer needed. Then, it should be closed down.

Dondero reported at this point that such a program was being followed. He said the no-bedroom and one-bedroom units are being closed up or consolidated with two or three-bedroom units. He said this process will be continued until only 65 units are left.

McKinley also brought up the point that many of the families in the project could pay more rent than they are. He said he had taken a survey of 21 families in the project and found the lowest income family received $3,720 and the highest $5,616. He said the average is $4,344. He said it may hurry the eventual closure of the project to set a limit on incomes. Dondero reported such an income limit was being pondered by the authority.

Dondero related that actually nothing can be done immediately because under federal law, the mortgage on the project must be liquidated from rent proceeds before the housing project can be razed. Payments on the mortgage will be completed in 1958.

All present appeared to agree that nothing more need be done until at least that year. And McKinley admitted that the project at least added those with large families and/or low incomes.

Dondero indicated the date of closure will be pushed even farther away. He said a survey of the private rental housing available should be made before any drastic steps are taken. This may not become possible until the next federal census in 1960.

Bremen Town Musicians To Be Presented Wednesday

A theatrical production for children—"The Bremen Town Musicians"—will be presented in Roseburg Wednesday.

Based on a favorite Grimm's fairy tale, the two-act play is sponsored by the American Assn. of University women. It will be given at Central Junior High School, starting at 7:45 p.m.

This is the third, consecutive year AAUW has invited the Children's Theatre of the West to visit Douglas County. Purpose of the invitation is to bring a professional company of actors and actresses to the area and introduce children to "live" theatre, according to President Mrs. Harold Hoyt.

Earlier presentations by the Sacramento, Calif., theatrical players have been "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" and "The Giant of Knockmany."

Mrs. Hoyt said members of AAUW do not attempt to make a profit on the presentation, which is one of the Roseburg chapter's services to the area. She said ticket prices were set at a minimum. Tickets will be available and the night of the production. They are now on sale in several schools.

"The Bremen Town Musicians" tells the story of four animals who leave their farm homes to become musicians. The animals, like those in "The Wizard of Oz," stand on their hind feet and talk, sing, dance and play musical instruments. They help a prince regain his human form, and are rewarded by being made his official court musicians.

The musical play runs one hour and fifteen minutes. The AAUW drama group is in charge of arrangements. Tickets are available for children, junior and senior high school students and adults.
