Red Cross Bloodmobile Has 250-Pint Goal Here

Hospital, following an accidental shotgun injury in January. Replacement of the Red Cross blood isn't mandatory.

However, Mrs. Bartlett stated: "We are so grateful for the assistance which we received from the Red Cross that we will attempt to secure as many donors as possible for this visit. We want others to be helped as Kenneth was, when he needed blood so badly."

Widow Is Grateful

Mrs. Bartlett talked with the wife of the late Glenn Lockmon Monday morning. Lockmon had received close to 60 pints of blood before his death Thursday evening. Mrs. Lockmon said she was "very grateful" for the help of the Red Cross and other residents who came in and replaced the blood for her husband. Mrs. Bartlett said she received three pints daily in a Portland hospital. Mrs. Lockmon said she felt a "moral obligation" in replacing the blood.

Younger residents, over 18, may help the county reach its 250-pint goal. They may contribute if found able to do so and if an accompanying adult signs a permission card, Mrs. Bartlett said.

Higher Farm Price Prop Efforts To Be Renewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) said today advocates of higher government farm price supports may make one more effort to raise them in the pending omnibus farm bill.

"There has been some discussion of adding a gadget that would freeze part of our surpluses in a national security reserve and thus permit higher supports," Mundt said in an interview.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has such an amendment pending, but opponents of high-level supports have said they would fight its adoption.

Humphrey's amendment would direct that some surplus farm products be set aside in a strategic stockpile to be used only in time of disaster, war or similar emergency.

In fixing the level of government supports, the secretary of agriculture is directed to consider the existing supply, along with estimated demand, anticipated production and other factors. Under Humphrey's proposal, he could ignore surpluses and so increase the level of supports.
