Additional Polio Vaccine Released By Health Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — An additional 910,908 shots of Salk polio vaccine were released Thursday by the Public Health Service on the first anniversary of licensing of the product.

In the year since the vaccine was declared 60 to 90 per cent effective against paralytic polio, 46,423,740 doses have been released. Output showed a big jump in March with nearly eight million doses released, and the Health Service expects that level to be maintained or bettered during April, May and June.

No definite figures are available on the number of persons who have been vaccinated, but Welfare Department officials estimate that by now probably upwards of 20 million have received one or more shots.

The "disease year" for polio started last week. The Health Service said Thursday the states reported 68 polio cases for the week ended April 7, compared with 61 in the comparative 1955 week.

Thirty-seven of the cases reported last week were paralytic, 19 nonparalytic and 12 unspecified as to type. This compared with 26 paralytic, 14 nonparalytic and 21 unspecified during the 1955 week.

Thus far in 1956 there have been 1,140 polio cases reported, 621 of them paralytic. In the similar 1955 period there were 1,124 cases, with 490 paralytic.
