Senator Chavez Hits At Bickering

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON — Chairman Chavez (D-NM) of the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee said Saturday the Army, Navy and Air Force are courting a financial crackdown from Congress by "being prima donnas."
Chavez said he is weary of interservice bickering which has broken into the open again in news stories which, he said, apparently were "planted" by Army sources challenging the emphasis now being placed on Air Power for defense.
"I feel they ought to quit being prima donnas and work for their common purpose, the defense of our country," Chavez told reporters. He added that this goes for all of the services.
The St. Paul Pioneer Press and some other newspapers reported that the Army is declaring that present emphasis on air power will lead only to "national disaster."
"Petty jealousies ought to be done away with," Chavez said, "and the sooner the better." He added:
"They'll probably see the light if one of these days the committees of Congress will cut their funds. And that could easily happen unless the Pentagon makes them get together and bury their differences."
