

Horse Classes Back In Agenda

One of the most popular events of the fair will be re-opened this year, states fair Manager Dick Turley.

The horse department, closed last year because of inadequate space for entries, will be activated again, with a new superintendent at the helm. Recently appointed to the post, Yoncalla rancher Gordon Baker has worked out classes and rules, and announces that there is a place for "most any horse" at the fair.

The show was discontinued for one year to enable the Fair Board to complete additional horse barns. The barns have had to wait on other improvements, but the horse department will try to fit into the existing space, according to Baker.

Judging of the performance classes in this division will be held in front of the grandstand on Thursday afternoon of the Fair, states Baker. This judging is open to the public, and a free event. Judging will be done by Howard Wirtz, Grants Pass horseman. Prize money for the horse classes have been almost doubled this year, which should bring out the top money.

HORSES RANGE in the infield of the track at fairgrounds. Horse classes at the County Fair have been re-opened and improved this year. (Paul Jenkins photo).

FAIR WEEK

VALUE CELEBRATION!

HARRY SELLS FACTORY TO YOU!

(No Middleman)
DURING DOUGLAS COUNTY FAIR

Come see the NEW '57 STYLES at a new

All-Time Low Price!

WE CHALLENGE

Anyone to find same quality at lower prices!

Don't Miss Our Big Exhibit

HARRY'S

1345 N.E. STEPHENS OR 2-1411

"The Working Man's Store"